Atty. Hughes Wants To Be Fourth Judge

Dismissed By BH, She Eyes County Bench

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Former Benton Harbor City Atty. Yvonne Hughes said yesterday she intends to run for a fourth judgeship in Berrien county's circuit court if the seat is approved by the Michigan legislature.

Atty. Hughes, 26, made the announcement at Lake Michigan college during a speech on the May 18 recall election of Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph and four city commissioners.

Fifth District Court Judge Ronald J. Taylor previously announced his candidacy for the new circuit court judgeship, if approved, and three other people also have been mentioned as possible candidates.

After her talk at LMC, Atty. Hughes told a Herald-Palladium reporter she feels she has the qualifications for a circuit judge, including "a fair sense of decency and equal rights."

She was fired as city attorney Feb. 23 by Joseph's "Clean - State" bloc on the city commission. Joseph and four of the commissioners who voted for her ouster are on the ballots in the recall election.

At LMC yesterday, Atty. Hughes retraced the events that led to her dismissal and caused her to join the recall effort — including her legal opinion against a $25,000 salary for the mayor.

Atty. Hughes said Benton Harbor citizens should not confuse recall leaders with the issues of the recall when they vote in the recall election Tuesday. Targets of the recall are Mayor Joseph and Commissioners Winston Minott, Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby and Alfred Williams.

"I realize Maurice (Bishop) can be a little hot-headed at times," she said. "And people could accuse me of sour grapes. But the real issue of the recall is five people who don't think the green book (city charter) means anything and who control the voting."

Atty. Hughes said her involvement in the recall effort does not stem from her firing as city attorney. She insisted she has "no personal hangups either way" in the recall election.

"The citizens have every right to a strong mayor form of government," she said, "but you have to do it in a legal manner." She noted that city voters have voted down a charter revision containing a strong mayor provision.

Asked if there were "outside forces" involved in the recall, Atty. Hughes said only Benton Harbor residents had collected signatures for the recall and donated money in the movement.

"This is not to say that the rest of the county is guilt-free for some of the problems of Benton Harbor," Atty. Hughes said. "But the point is, we aren't going to have any social impact or political power until we end this circus situation in Benton Harbor."

Questioned if she thought the recall election will be successful, Atty. Hughes said she could not judge the sentiments of the community, but said, "If the citizens don't recall, they deserve what they get."

Atty. Hughes is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law school. She became Benton Harbor city attorney last August and now is in private law practice in Benton Harbor.

Her appearance at LMC was part of student Senate Week activities. Mayor Joseph was scheduled to speak today.

Fourth Berrien Judge Wins Committee Okay

BY JERRY KREIGER
Farm and Features Editor

LANSING — A joint Senate-House conference committee Wednesday reached an agreement that would give Berrien county a fourth circuit judge.

Both houses of the legislature were expected to ratify late today the compromise reached by the joint committee on differing Senate and House bills establishing a number of new judgeships in the state. The House had approved six new circuit judges, and the Senate approved 11.

State Rep. Ray Mittan, R-Niles, said House Judiciary Chairman Paul Rosenbaum of Battle Creek informed him that the conference committee agreed to add three more judges than the House bill, approved in March, had called for. The added judgeship for Berrien was one of the three.

According to Mittan, the compromise version "undoubtedly" will be approved in both houses today, and sent on to the governor.

Mittan added that he thought the governor would sign the bill, unless somehow the cost of the new judges interferred with the governor's efforts to balance the 1976-77 budget.

Mittan reported that House Judiciary Chairman Rosenbaum, who had opposed any new judges beyond the six originally approved in the House bill, agreed to adding new bench seats for Berrien and two other counties during the conference committee session Wednesday. Mittan noted that Judge Julian Hughes, presiding judge of the Berrien circuit, was in Lansing early yesterday and had outlined Berrien's need for a fourth judge to Rosenbaum.

Another part of the bill, approved earlier by both the House and Senate, provides for another district court judge for Allegan county.

State Senator Charles Zollar affirmed late this morning that the bill with the Berrien judgeship included would pass both houses, and would get Governor Milliken's signature.

Gary Mayor Backs Joseph In Recall

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Gary Mayor Richard G. Hatcher last night said the recall effort against Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph is part of a pattern of harassment black leaders are facing all over the nation.

Hatcher spoke to approximately 125 people at Benton Harbor Public library. He called for rejection of the recall of Joseph and four commissioners next Tuesday. He called Joseph a "man of vision and ideas" who should be allowed to continue his program of rebuilding Benton Harbor.

Joseph said he was called before the Berrien County Citizens Grand Jury last week but did not disclose any details. Joseph also lashed out at Benton Harbor banks which, he said, refuse to lend money to Benton Harbor businessmen either for operation funds or expansion capital. Joseph made his comments when introducing Hatcher.

Hatcher's announced speech topic was "Benton Harbor is Worth Saving." His theme was that the best way this could be done is through the present elected officials. He said Joseph has been effective in obtaining funds from the federal government which he declared is the only source of funds cities have left.

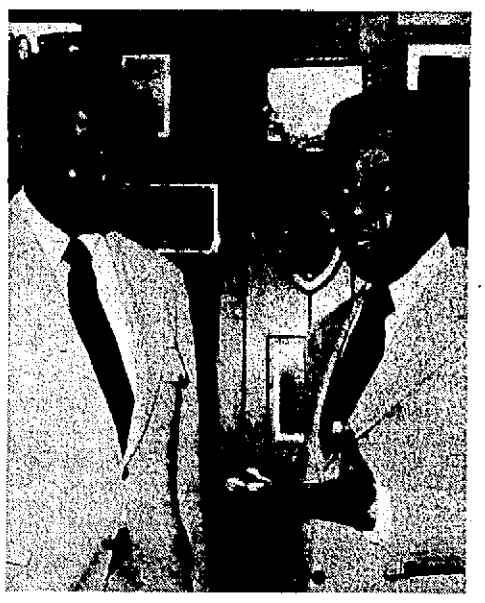

Benton Harbor and Gary share many common problems including deterioration of their central business districts and an increasing exodus of whites from the city.

Hatcher, 42, a three-term mayor said blacks have made a lot of progress since the protest movements of the 1960's. But he said the nation no longer has a conscience that blacks have a shorter life span, more infant deaths and higher unemployment so blacks must forge a second reconstruction.

Hatcher listed Fayette (Miss.) Mayor Charles Evers; California Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally; Colorado Lt. Gov. George Brown; Raleigh (N.C.) Mayor Clarence Lightner and Rep. Ralph Metcalf of Illinois as black officials who have and are facing various forms of harassment for their success at the polls.

The campaign against Dymally is especially vicious. Hatcher said, because if California Gov. Jerry Brown should find a place on a vic-

Russians Wooing Jimmy Carter?

NEW YORK (AP) — Russian Embassy officials reportedly are courting former Gov. Jimmy Carter and, trying through telephone calls and visits to his aides to promote a meeting between him and the Soviet ambassador, the New York Times said today.

A spokesman for Carter said he has had no contact with representatives of foreign governments and would consider such contacts "highly improper."

The Times quoted aides and advisers to Carter as saying the Russians are dissatisfied with President Ford and have indicated they might be able to influence the election.

"Most of the conversations with the Russians have been about how United States-Soviet relations are falling apart because of the way they say Ford is trying to compete with (Former California Gov. Ronald) Reagan for conservative votes," the Times quoted a Carter source as saying.

A Carter aide reportedly said, "I think they have been trying to tell us that they see presidential politics as an opportunity to intervene in our politics, and that they see an ability to influence the outcome."

Carter, in a statement released by his press secretary, said only the President and Congress, not presidential candidates, have the responsibility to conduct U.S. foreign policy.

Ford's Crowds Number In Thousands

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Ford turned out the largest crowds of the 1976 Michigan primary season Wednesday as he appealed for support from homestate voters to help his sagging election campaign regain momentum.

"I want every person registered in the state who can feel confident in our program to vote for me, whether they call themselves Republicans, Independents or Democrats," Ford said at the start of a fast-paced, 10½-hour visit to Detroit's northern suburbs. Ford, who has lost five of the past six GOP primaries to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, was greeted by large and generally enthusiastic crowds whose votes he was seeking in next Tuesday's state balloting.

More than 10,000 persons, according to police estimates, turned out at a brief rally for Ford in Birmingham to witness the first presidential visit ever to that affluent Republican stronghold. The evening rush-hour crowd was peppered with high school bands, scouts and other young people mobilized by GOP organizers for the event.

Teenagers squealed with delight as the President worked his way through the throng shaking hands and asking for support. "Hi, how're you. I hope you'll vote for me Tuesday," he repeated as he moved along, accompanied by Gov. William Milliken, Sen. Robert Griffin and several Michigan congressmen.

"I ask you for your help and assistance (in the primary)," Ford said in a speech from a grassy knoll beside the Birmingham City Hall. "With what we've done in 21 months we can do even better in the next four years."

The President attracted an estimated 9,000 supporters and shoppers Wednesday night at the Macomb Mall in the blue collar, Democratic suburb of Roseville. More high school marching bands greeted his arrival and teenagers waved signs proclaiming: "Ford's my Fella" and "Go Gerry Go." But he drew a mixed response when he asked: "How many of you people can I count on to vote for Jerry Ford Tuesday?" There was a swell of cheers from the crowd closest to the speaker's platform and several boos from the rear.

Across the state, meanwhile, Alabama Gov. George Wallace plane-hopped from Lansing to Muskegon to Battle Creek, declaring he would "do well" in the Democratic primary. But he wouldn't say if he can match the 51 per cent he took here in 1972. Jimmy Carter, considered the Democratic favorite in Michigan, was due this afternoon for his first full day of campaigning here. Reagan is scheduled to appear in the state tonight and on Friday.

Arizona Congressman Morris Udall got an enthusiastic welcome from 250 striking rubber workers in Detroit after a morning appearance in Lansing. He criticized Carter's economic policies as "little more than an echo of the Jerry Ford administration's trickle-down economics." Udall, said later in Grand Rapids that

Don't Be Downhearted-- George Worried, Too

Individuals who think this generation doesn't measure up to the last one or that the upcoming generation is worse yet, might consider these words:

"Such a dearth of public spirit and want of virtue I never saw before and pray God I may never be witness to again. Such a dirty, mercenary spirit pervades the whole that I should not be at all surprised at any disaster that may happen."

No, these words are not from the contemporary scene. They are from a letter written by George Washington in 1775. Every generation, every era, has its faults. The character of the Colonials was not entirely above reproach.

History has the saving grace of paying more attention to the successes than the failures. That is fine for most purposes, but it does tend to obscure the fact that shortcomings noted on today's scene have been repeated many times in the past.

Even the Founding Fathers at times doubted they could put together the virtues needed to carry on.

College Graduates Face Tough Job Finding Jobs

Finding a job has become the No. 1 concern for most of the 1.3 million college students who graduate this spring — more important than the political concerns that dominated the talk on campus a few years ago. Although the improved economy has dispelled some of the graduating gloom so evident in recent years, students still have to scramble to find employment they feel will justify the expense of four years of college training.

Despite the current debate over the actual value of traditional college education, college placement officers generally are confident that students, if they begin their career orientation early and follow some basic guidelines, will largely be successful in finding a good job.

"It looks as though we'll be in very good shape this year," said Pat O'Connor, director of Duke University's placement office at Durham, N.C. He advises students to start job hunting early, be flexible, and emphasize their good qualifications.

While fewer companies have been interviewing applicants at Duke and other universities than in former years, O'Connor attributes this to a more realistic attitude among recruiters. A spokesman for General Foods has said: "We think it's more efficient to concentrate our efforts where we've gotten the best people." The company will visit fewer schools this year, but it plans to increase hiring by 20 per cent.

Recruiters and placement officials agree that students must assess the job market accurately for skills that will be in demand when they graduate. A survey of college freshmen last fall indicated a sharp drop in the percentage of students planning to study English, math, the humanities and fine arts, and an increased interest in business, engineering, law and medicine.

Allen Luckett, a Duke senior from Wilmette, Ill., who majored in accounting, had three job offers this year after five interviews. "I consider myself very fortunate," Luckett said, indicating that the specialized nature of studies had made job hunting much easier. John Golieb, a classmate who majored in economics, will enter law school in the fall.

"It's nice to know I won't be entering the job market for three more years," Golieb said. This year, 30,000 students will graduate from law school, adding to an already oversupplied market, although the demand for lawyers is reported to be up slightly.

For every success story, there is a tale of woe — even despair. According to a study conducted by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, 27 per cent of America's Workers are "overqualified" for their jobs.

Some degree-holders are returning to college to learn skills more in demand than those they now possess. Queensborough College in New York, for example, enrolled 24 "retread" students who, on the second time around, are studying nursing, engineering and environmental studies to add to their virtually unmarketable liberal arts degrees.

Women and members of racial minorities generally are finding more success than others in the job market. But nobody is immune to the job problem.

Aw, Come On; Let's All Agree Chris Found It

Judging by the growing list of nationalities whose supporters claim they were first to land in the new world, it must have been a crowded hemisphere by the time Christopher Columbus and his boys made it.

There have always been Columbus detractors who contended he was not the first discoverer of the Americas, but generally they credited either the Phoenicians or the Vikings with the feat. More recently, claims have been coming from all parts of the world until today the list reads like the membership roll of the United Nations.

A partial list of those claimed to have come to these shores prior to Columbus includes the Arabs, Basques, Catalans, Chinese, Dutch, French, Germans, Irish, Hindus, Japanese, Phoenicians, Portuguese, Romans, Turks, Vikings and Welsh.

Surprisingly, the Russians so far have not made their claim.

All the claims provide fascinating reading, and many are accompanied by impressive "evidence." But the evidence so far does little to contradict the force of centuries of tradition and belief.

History has awarded Columbus the primary niche in the discovery of America, and the cause of other would-be firsts is not helped by their growing numbers

LIKE IT SMALL AND PLEASANT

Editor,
Dear Sir:

We have recently moved here from Toronto and appreciate the nice community you have. While only moments from work we can enjoy country living. This area has so much to offer. You don't have to wait for week-ends to go away for the things that can make life pleasant. So many large cities are losing residents because of traffic, highways, noise and dirt. Now some are trying to lure them back by setting up malls, planting trees and improved public transportation. You never made their mistakes in the first place. Here you can find the amenities that will keep it's residents because you have struck that critical balance between residential and commercial interests. Thank you for being "small" and pleasant.

SAYS SPELLER HAD A REMEDY

Editor,

This letter is in response to the news article about David Grau that appeared on May 10. I am a member of the Lakeshore Junior high spelling team. I participated in the spelling bee on the 25th of February. Before the contest started, the rules were read by the pronouncer, and we were asked if we understood them fully. There was also a tape recorder on at all times, in case something like this should happen. There were also dictionaries available, so if there was any question about the spelling of a word, the student could look it up.

At the time David was told he missed the word, he should have asked for the correct spelling, and if not satisfied then, could have looked in a dictionary.

It is unfortunate that David's grandmother cannot admit that David could have done something about it at that time.

I am sure David must be embarrassed and would like to see this whole ordeal come to an end.

Aroused by the dangerous condition of the bridge across the St. Joseph river at State street, the St. Joseph council last night voted unanimously to call a special bonding election to provide for a new bridge. The council decided to act after spokesmen for the north side industries and residents of Edgewater appealed to the city to take definite action toward building a new bridge to replace the present inadequate structure, installed about 20 years ago. The span has been declared a menace to those who use it. While W.V. Tiscornia of the Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, the largest industrial concern north of the river, and other industrial representatives announced their eagerness to cooperate in the emergency, they candidly stated that unless the city builds a new bridge and appreciates the industrial assets of the north side, they would seriously consider moving elsewhere.

Americans Ignore Foreign Atrocities

WASHINGTON — As a nation we periodically become deeply concerned with the fate of a nation — Angola, South Vietnam or Korea.

Yet, except on occasion, we seem insensitive to the fate of individuals politically persecuted in one country or another.

For one Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the writer whose cause we pursue, we ignore a thousand others.

We read of prominent scientists and writers sent to insane asylums and kept drugged for years on end. And we cluck in distaste, then turn back to the comics.

Whole populations are moved in China and we yawn.

Tens of thousands of peaceful protesters and opposition political leaders are jailed without trial by India's Indira Gandhi and we barely turn away from the late movie.

We skim over reports of the fate of critics of the regime in North and South Korea, in South Vietnam, Chile and Argentina. We barely notice similar happenings in Uganda.

On occasion, a prestigious group of scientists, writers, psychologists passes a resolution in defense of human rights, carefully worded so as to create no offense. After some ubility, the matter is discreetly allowed to die. There is no political advantages in concern over individual suffering.

The members of the National Academy of Sciences, composed of some of our most prominent theoreticians, is agonizing over this problem currently, and thus far getting nowhere. There is agreement only on a bland statement of the type mentioned above.

Now it must be said in all fairness that there is no easy solution to this problem. Every nation is jealous of their national sovereignty and each takes an extremely dim view of any criticism of its internal actions.

The U.S. government does little. Though some of its agencies collect information on the repression of individuals and groups within most countries, that information, for the most part, lies hidden in the files of the State Department and intelligence. Sometimes pro forma protests are made in international organizations; there is usually follow through.

There's apparently no attempt by Washington at a coyer up — but little attempt either, to let Americans know the suffering of those men and women in foreign countries whose only sin has been to express openly, or privately, their personal convictions on freedom and the state of affairs in their own countries.

Yet as Philip Handler, President of the National Academy of Sciences, has said, the fabric of human rights "is a single tissue, a web that cannot be rent anywhere without being damaged everywhere. It cannot safely be torn in some corner of the globe ... without damaging each of us ..."

I suggest that if Western Europe is worth defending against Hitler, and Eastern Asia against Tojo, that those courageous individuals who suffer inhumane persecution because of their simple desire for freedom of speech, have some claim on us, not on our troops or economic sanctions necessarily. But certainly a thoroughly documented detailed exposure of each atrocity with a regular follow through on the progress of the case, could have some effect.

I do not here refer to blanket charges, which too frequently degenerate into easily ignored propaganda, but rather to individual factual dossiers of each incident.

Carter Senses Political Wind

In his surge toward the Democratic nomination, Jimmy Carter is rewriting the book of American politics.

How many times have you heard the presidential primary system deplored — heard the fact bemoaned that there are too many, 30, of them, that the primary route is expensive, wearying, often undignified?

All that is certainly true. But if the primaries demonstrated one thing in 1976, they demonstrated that Jimmy Carter understands contemporary political realities, and that his erstwhile Democratic opponents did not.

Now I submit that demonstrated grasp of political realities is not an insignificant datum where presidential aspirations are concerned.

Mo Udall, Birch Bayh, and Fred Harris had studied all too uncritically the George McGovern scenario in 1972:

First, you capture the allegiance of the left wing of the party. There, so goes the script, you find the activists, the people who sleep in church basements and ring doorbells in New Hampshire at 20 below zero.

Then, with ringing egalitarian slogans, you pull the Beverly Hills and Park Avenue millionaires into your tent.

Then, with the left consolidated, you move toward the center, labor, the ethnics. Mo Udall managed to emerge as The Liberal, only to discover the worthlessness of that identity in 1976. He would be a good candidate for president of the University of Wisconsin.

Henry (Scoop) Jackson reached even further back, to the old New Deal coalition that was interred in 1948. Almost 30 years out of date, his campaign was worthy of Cornwallis or Burgoyne. Jackson hoped to add blue-collar labor and ethnic votes to his strong Jewish support and appeal to the South as a hard-liner.

Hubert Humphrey, offering to sponsor still more billions in unwanted Federal programs, also demonstrated once again his woeful sense of political timing. Hubert Humphrey has never run a well-organized, effective national campaign — not in 1960 against John Kennedy in the primaries, not in 1968 against Richard Nixon. A Humphrey campaign is always a shambles, six hours late for everything.

Last fall, I heard Carter outline 1976 realities to small audiences in New Hampshire. He said that the early primaries would produce a "liberal" and a "conservative" candidate. He stated frankly that in order to be viable, he would have to beat George Wallace in Florida.

As Carter gained momentum, a startling shift occurred in the public perception of him. According to the New York Times-CBS poll, public perception of Carter as conservative rose from 10 per cent in February to 43 in March and 52 in April. Carter does not need a weatherman to tell him which way the wind is blowing.

Don't Be Downhearted-- George Worried, Too

Individuals who think this generation doesn't measure up to the last one or that the upcoming generation is worse yet, might consider these words:

"Such a dearth of public spirit and want of virtue I never saw before and pray God I may never be witness to again. Such a dirty, mercenary spirit pervades the whole that I should not be at all surprised at any disaster that may happen."

No, these words are not from the contemporary scene. They are from a letter written by George Washington in 1775. Every generation, every era, has its faults. The character of the Colonials was not entirely above reproach.

History has the saving grace of paying more attention to the successes than the failures. That is fine for most purposes, but it does tend to obscure the fact that shortcomings noted on today's scene have been repeated many times in the past.

Even the Founding Fathers at times doubted they could put together the virtues needed to carry on.

College Graduates Face Tough Job Finding Jobs

Finding a job has become the No. 1 concern for most of the 1.3 million college students who graduate this spring — more important than the political concerns that dominated the talk on campus a few years ago. Although the improved economy has dispelled some of the graduating gloom so evident in recent years, students still have to scramble to find employment they feel will justify the expense of four years of college training.

Despite the current debate over the actual value of traditional college education, college placement officers generally are confident that students, if they begin their career orientation early and follow some basic guidelines, will largely be successful in finding a good job.

"It looks as though we'll be in very good shape this year," said Pat O'Connor, director of Duke University's placement office at Durham, N.C. He advises students to start job hunting early, be flexible, and emphasize their good qualifications.

While fewer companies have been interviewing applicants at Duke and other universities than in former years, O'Connor attributes this to a more realistic attitude among recruiters. A spokesman for General Foods has said: "We think it's more efficient to concentrate our efforts where we've gotten the best people." The company will visit fewer schools this year, but it plans to increase hiring by 20 per cent.

Recruiters and placement officials agree that students must assess the job market accurately for skills that will be in demand when they graduate. A survey of college freshmen last fall indicated a sharp drop in the percentage of students planning to study English, math, the humanities and fine arts, and an increased interest in business, engineering, law and medicine.

Allen Luckett, a Duke senior from Wilmette, Ill., who majored in accounting, had three job offers this year after five interviews. "I consider myself very fortunate," Luckett said, indicating that the specialized nature of studies had made job hunting much easier. John Golieb, a classmate who majored in economics, will enter law school in the fall.

"It's nice to know I won't be entering the job market for three more years," Golieb said. This year, 30,000 students will graduate from law school, adding to an already oversupplied market, although the demand for lawyers is reported to be up slightly.

For every success story, there is a tale of woe — even despair. According to a study conducted by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, 27 per cent of America's Workers are "overqualified" for their jobs.

Some degree-holders are returning to college to learn skills more in demand than those they now possess. Queensborough College in New York, for example, enrolled 24 "retread" students who, on the second time around, are studying nursing, engineering and environmental studies to add to their virtually unmarketable liberal arts degrees.

Women and members of racial minorities generally are finding more success than others in the job market. But nobody is immune to the job problem.

Aw, Come On; Let's All Agree Chris Found It

Judging by the growing list of nationalities whose supporters claim they were first to land in the new world, it must have been a crowded hemisphere by the time Christopher Columbus and his boys made it.

There have always been Columbus detractors who contended he was not the first discoverer of the Americas, but generally they credited either the Phoenicians or the Vikings with the feat. More recently, claims have been coming from all parts of the world until today the list reads like the membership roll of the United Nations.

A partial list of those claimed to have come to these shores prior to Columbus includes the Arabs, Basques, Catalans, Chinese, Dutch, French, Germans, Irish, Hindus, Japanese, Phoenicians, Portuguese, Romans, Turks, Vikings and Welsh.

Surprisingly, the Russians so far have not made their claim.

All the claims provide fascinating reading, and many are accompanied by impressive "evidence." But the evidence so far does little to contradict the force of centuries of tradition and belief.

History has awarded Columbus the primary niche in the discovery of America, and the cause of other would-be firsts is not helped by their growing numbers

SJ Township Police Win Appreciation Of Citizens

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

St. Joseph township's police department during its first three years of operation has won the support of elected officials and the appreciation of increasing numbers of citizens, according to letters received at the township hall.

Police Chief Keith Mills said the department's goal is crime prevention by patrolling, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The department emphasizes property checks, as well as road patrols.

Department statistics show that during the 1975-76 fiscal year, crime in St. Joseph township decreased 15.5 per cent — 666 crimes were reported in fiscal '75-76 compared to 788 the previous year.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the township hall in 1973 received 22 letters from citizens who praised police for property checks during trips away from home. Benson said 27 such letters were received in 1974 and 37 in 1975. So far this year, 12 such letters have been received.

Benson emphasized that all letters were written voluntarily by citizens. He said citizens who notify police before taking trips receive a detailed report on property checks made during their absences.

The police department, organized on April 1, 1973, is at a financial crossroads. Residents will vote next Tuesday on 1.25 mills for police protection for four years (1976-79).

Benson said if the millage is approved, the St. Joseph township board of trustees intends to maintain a six-man force (including the chief) until the millage is up for renewal.

Benson said if the millage vote fails, anticipated revenue would only support a three-man force.

Benson said that as a citizen and supervisor he supports the millage to keep the police department at full strength.

Currently, a 1-mill tax levy helps finance the department. This brings in some $53,000. Other department funds are from revenue sharing and the general fund budget.

The 1976-77 township operating budget earmarks $143,100 for the police department, and is based on passage of the millage proposition Tuesday.

The budget last year included $126,850 for police protection. The force currently includes seven men, counting the chief. Two of the officers, however, have been, paid by federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds. This program is expected to end June 30.

Benson said one CETA-paid officer will be retained, and one dropped if the millage passes.

St. Joseph township before April, 1973, contracted with the Berrien sheriff's department for police protection. Benson said while the township did not have to pay officers' salaries, it did have to purchase the patrol cars, gasoline and other equipment including uniforms.

Township Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio said about 85 per cent of the police department budget is for salaries and fringe benefits. DiMaggio and Township Clerk Bill Payne Smith agree with Benson that the value of the township police department exceeds dollars spent to support it.

Mills presented some department statistics during an informal meeting at township hall.

Officers last year made 13,684 security inspections at 732 homes, walking about 600 miles. Patrol cars last year traveled 148,813 miles.

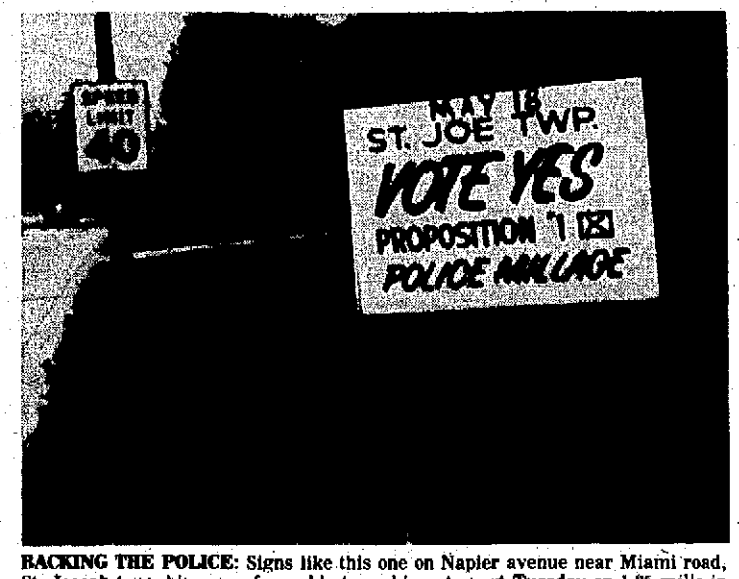

Mills said while the over-all crime rate declined 15.5 per cent, some categories declined even more. Some statistics between the 1974-75 fiscal years:

Forcible entry, 37 to 27; unlawful entry, 17 to 7; attempted burglary, 13 to 10; auto theft, 7 to 5; assaults, 26 to 16; arson, 5 to 2; vandalism, 221 to 176; disorderly conduct, 44 to 27.

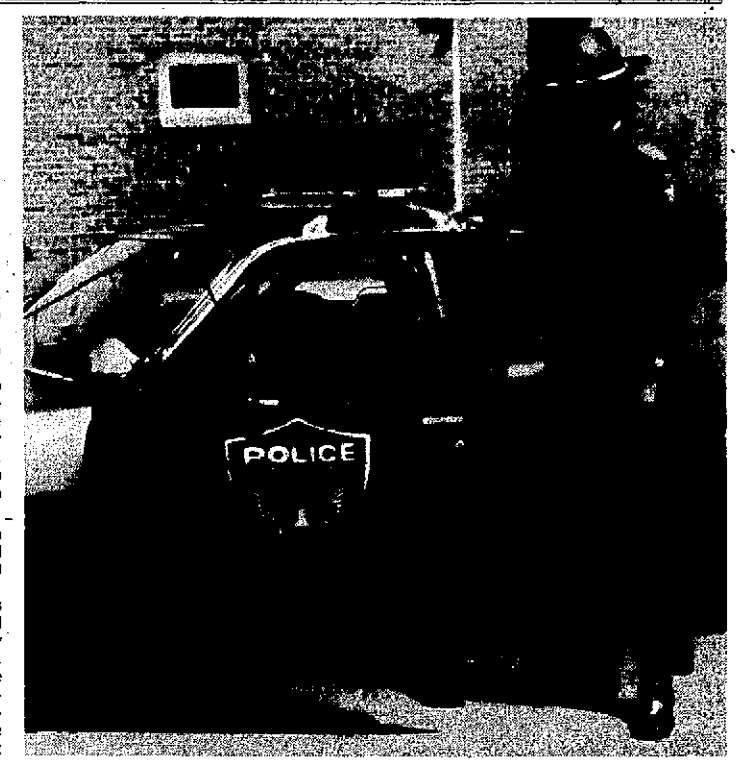

Mills said there were no murders last year, and one the year before. There was one rape report investigated last year and none the year before. Armed robberies declined from three in 1974-75 to none in 1975-76.

Increases were reported in larcenies over $200, up from 24 to 47; and larcenies — from $50 to $200, up from 79 to 104.

Police department policies are reviewed and coordinated by a six-member public safety committee, headed by Mrs. Mildred Hart. The committee consists of civilians, who volunteer their services. The committee also deals with the fire department and street lighting matters. The committee meetings at 7 p.m. the second Monday of each month in the township hall are open to the public.

Armed Forces Day Salute Is Planned

Military ceremonies and raising of a Bicentennial flag will feature Armed Forces Day Saturday at 11 a.m. at Benton Harbor's Crystal Springs cemetery. Mrs. Harry Laity, co-chairman of the Benton Harbor Bicentennial committee, donors of the flag, said the presentation on Armed Forces day, May 15, is particularly significant because without success on the battlefield there would be no Bicentennial. Carl DeVall, Crystal Springs cemetery administrator, said: "the occasion affords the community the opportunity to participate in a patriotic program significantly portraying the country's 200th birthday, symbolic in the Bicentennial flag, and to recognize those who gave and are giving for freedom in the armed forces." The program will include selections by the Fairplain Junior high school band under the direction of Troy Jones; welcome and introductions by DeVall; invocation and benediction by Rev. Jack Pepples, pastor of the Fairplain Assembly of God; presentation of the flag by Mrs. Laity and acceptance by City Commissioner Edmund Eaman and salute by firing squad of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1137 of Benton Harbor.

SJ Township To Discuss Revised Plans For Hall

The St. Joseph township board of trustees next Monday will receive recommendations from the township's building committee for a revised township hall plan that estimates the cost at $768,700.

The revised plan is about $200,000 less than estimates announced last month at the annual township meeting.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the recommendations will be discussed at Monday's board meeting, but no final action will be taken. Benson said a decision will be made later after residents have received ample notice so they may attend.

The revised plan eliminates a full basement, reduces the size of the parking lot and includes a small meeting room on the main floor to accommodate 60 people.

If the board approves the recommendations, the architect would complete structural plans and specifications. Construction bids then would be sought.

The hall would be built on township land off Washington avenue near Nelson road. Architect Wayne Hatfield during the annual township meeting last month detailed varied plans that put the cost of a new township hall in the $400,000 to $490,000 range.

It then was reported that a building fund held a balance of $137,280. Other money for the fund was listed to include $30,000 appropriated from the new township operating budget, $10,000 from the utility revenue fund and $7,680 in interest. Township officials reported that sale of the present township hall, 146 West Napier avenue, is expected to bring in about $40,000.

Aldrich Study Suggests Closing Milton Jr. High

St. Joseph School Superintendent Burton Aldrich said today he will recommend to the board of education Monday night that Milton junior high school be closed next year. He will also propose a one mill tax levy for repair and maintenance of school buildings.

The two measures are aimed at closing a gap of about $225,000 in the 1976-77 school year budget.

At the same time, School Board President Ray Dumke said the board would makes its decision on the superintendent's recommendations at the special meeting Monday night. The session is scheduled for 8 o'clock in the Upton junior high library.

The Herald-Palladium has obtained a copy of the "Review of School Closing Studies" that is to be presented to the board Monday night by Aldrich.

The complete text of the review follows:

ENROLLMENT CONSIDERATIONS

"An abrupt decline in enrollment throughout the school district, but especially in the City of St. Joseph, has occurred over the past five years. We have lost and will continue to lose about a hundred pupils a year. Information studied by the board indicates that no radical increases in school-age population can be anticipated within five years. Upton JHS presently enrolls about a hundred pupils more than Milton JHS, even though Milton now enrolls students from as far south of the City as Brown School Road.

"Residential building activities indicate that future growth will occur in St. Joseph and Royalton Townships. It is anticipated that significant immigration will occur only when Royalton Township constructs sewage and water facilities and when new employment opportunities are created. The apparent turnover in city housing from older couples to young families has not been great enough to reverse or severely limit the loss of school-age population. Some families from neighboring school districts have moved into ours, but this has had only a slight impact upon our decreasing enrollments.

"In September 1976 the total number of pupils in grades seven and eight will be about 600. Studies by our principals show that this number could be accommodated at Upton with slight inconvenience. Beginning in September 1977 no problems with physical facilites are foreseen. The Senior HS enrollment in Grades Nine through Twelve would be about 1,500 in September 1976. Studies by our principals again indicate that the Senior High building can readily serve that number. Some adjustments in scheduling need to be made, and locker room facilities must be shared or additional ones created. In succeeding years the smaller classes entering the high school would eliminate these problems.

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS:

"Cuts in levels of state aid amounting to $157,000 over the past year and a half have created problems in maintaining a balanced budget. If the present state aid act pays out as designed, we will need about $225,000 more income to balance next year's budget. The Tentative Budget adopted by the school board continues present programs and restores services and programs eliminated last year (such as busing for about three hundred pupils, some junior and senior high school athletic programs for both girls and boys, and one-third of the elementary school art, music and physical education programs).

"The school board has received and studied several alternatives to meet increased costs and balance the budget.

Variety Store Owner Ready To Run If Shepherd Recalled

Joel C. Patterson, 34, announced today he will seek the seat of Charles Shepherd, Second Ward commissioner, if Shepherd is recalled May 18.

Patterson is owner of the Village Variety store, 269 East Empire avenue. He lives at 258 East Empire, Benton Harbor.

He said: "My life's work is invested in the store and if possible, I would like to contribute in some small way to help improve conditions in Benton Harbor and maybe help meet the needs of the residents."

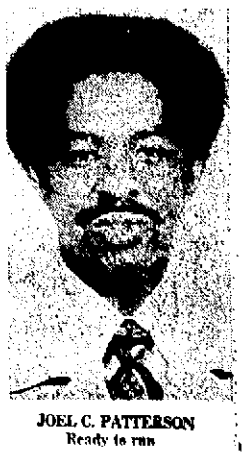

Patterson opened Village Variety in May, 1974 after purchasing the building and fixtures of the former Golka grocery. He is a 1961 graduate of Eau Claire high school, attended Lake Michigan college and joined K-Mart in November of 1963. He worked his way up from department manager to district manager and eventually to regional manager supervising sporting goods operations in a five-state area for K-marts.

Patterson is married to the former Naomi Williams of Benton Harbor. They have two sons and two daughters.

Patterson is the fourth to announce his intention to seek a seat on the Benton Harbor city commission in the event of recalls. Others are Cornelius Bass, Jr., for mayor, Norval Weiss, for commissioner-at-large, and Nathaniel Robinson for Third Ward commissioner.

Former Mayor Wilbert Smith also has announced that he would be available for interim appointment to any one of three commission seats that might be vacated.

Five members of the city commission are on the recall ballot in Tuesday's election. They are Mayor Charles Joseph, Commissioner-at-large Barbara Huckaby, Second Ward Commissioner Shepherd, Third Ward Commissioner Winston Minott and Fourth Ward Commissioner Alfred Williams.

SJ Township Police Win Appreciation Of Citizens

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

St. Joseph township's police department during its first three years of operation has won the support of elected officials and the appreciation of increasing numbers of citizens, according to letters received at the township hall.

Police Chief Keith Mills said the department's goal is crime prevention by patrolling, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The department emphasizes property checks, as well as road patrols.

Department statistics show that during the 1975-76 fiscal year, crime in St. Joseph township decreased 15.5 per cent — 666 crimes were reported in fiscal '75-76 compared to 788 the previous year.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the township hall in 1973 received 22 letters from citizens who praised police for property checks during trips away from home. Benson said 27 such letters were received in 1974 and 37 in 1975. So far this year, 12 such letters have been received.

Benson emphasized that all letters were written voluntarily by citizens. He said citizens who notify police before taking trips receive a detailed report on property checks made during their absences.

The police department, organized on April 1, 1973, is at a financial crossroads. Residents will vote next Tuesday on 1.25 mills for police protection for four years (1976-79).

Benson said if the millage is approved, the St. Joseph township board of trustees intends to maintain a six-man force (including the chief) until the millage is up for renewal.

Benson said if the millage vote fails, anticipated revenue would only support a three-man force.

Benson said that as a citizen and supervisor he supports the millage to keep the police department at full strength.

Currently, a 1-mill tax levy helps finance the department. This brings in some $53,000. Other department funds are from revenue sharing and the general fund budget.

The 1976-77 township operating budget earmarks $143,100 for the police department, and is based on passage of the millage proposition Tuesday.

The budget last year included $126,850 for police protection. The force currently includes seven men, counting the chief. Two of the officers, however, have been, paid by federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds. This program is expected to end June 30.

Benson said one CETA-paid officer will be retained, and one dropped if the millage passes.

St. Joseph township before April, 1973, contracted with the Berrien sheriff's department for police protection. Benson said while the township did not have to pay officers' salaries, it did have to purchase the patrol cars, gasoline and other equipment including uniforms.

Township Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio said about 85 per cent of the police department budget is for salaries and fringe benefits. DiMaggio and Township Clerk Bill Payne Smith agree with Benson that the value of the township police department exceeds dollars spent to support it.

Mills presented some department statistics during an informal meeting at township hall.

Officers last year made 13,684 security inspections at 732 homes, walking about 600 miles. Patrol cars last year traveled 148,813 miles.

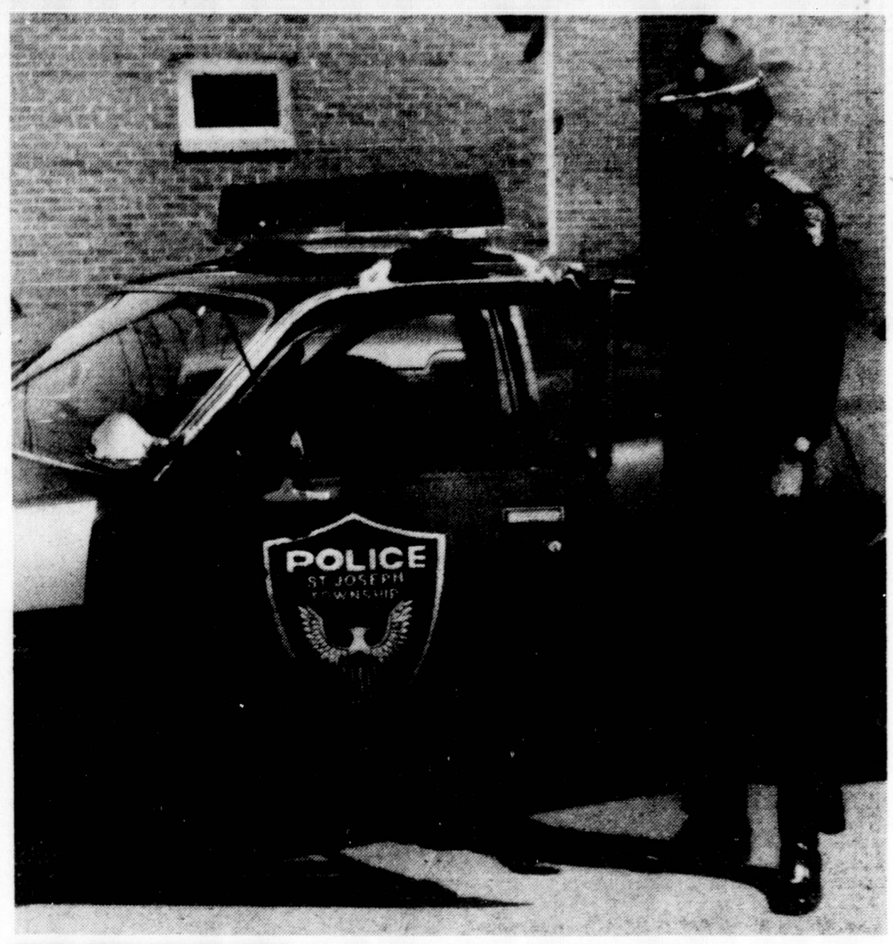

Mills said while the over-all crime rate declined 15.5 per cent, some catagories declined even more. Some statistics between the 1974-75 fiscal years:

Forcible entry, 37 to 27; unlawful entry, 17 to 7; attempted burglary, 13 to 10; auto theft, 7 to 5; assaults, 26 to 16; arson, 5 to 2; vandalism, 221 to 176; disorderly conduct, 44 to 27.

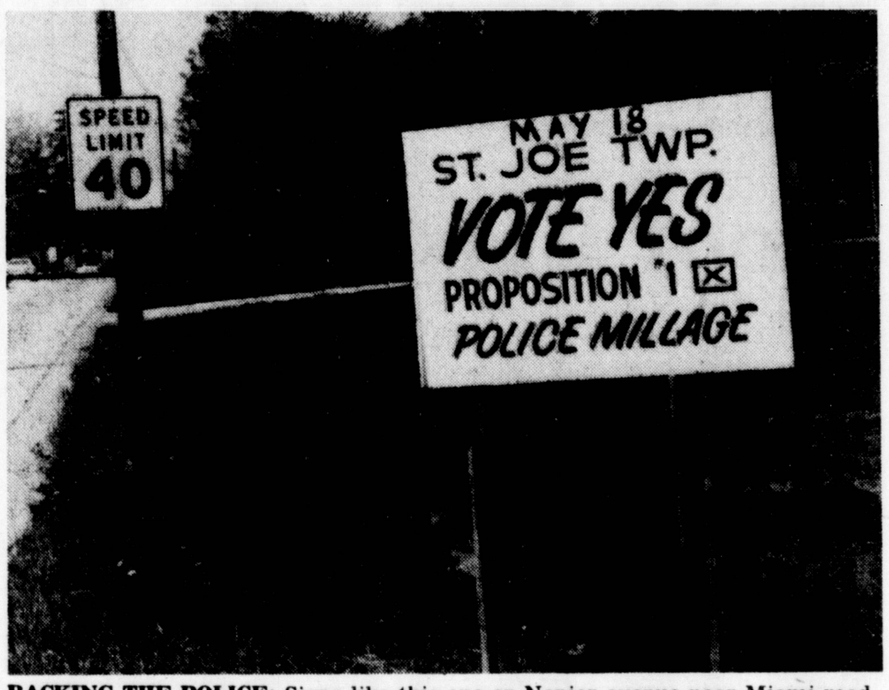

Mills said there were no murders last year, and one the year before. There was one rape report investigated last year and none the year before. Armed robberies declined from three in 1974-75 to none in 1975-76.

Increases were reported in larcenies over $200, up from 24 to 47; and larcenies — from $50 to $200, up from 79 to 104.

Police department policies are reviewed and coordinated by a six-member public safety committee, headed by Mrs. Mildred Hart. The committee consists of civilians, who volunteer their services. The committee also deals with the fire department and street lighting matters. The committee meetings at 7 p.m. the second Monday of each month in the township hall are open to the public.

SJ Township To Discuss Revised Plans For Hall

The St. Joseph township board of trustees next Monday will receive recommendations from the township's building committee for a revised township hall plan that estimates the cost at $288,700.

The revised plan is about $200,000 less than estimates announced last month at the annual township meeting.

Courthouse Bell Ceremony Sunday

A Bicentennial project sponsored by several area groups will be completed with a brief public ceremony at 12:15 p.m. on old courthouse square in St. Joseph, Sunday, May 16.

The bell and cornerstone of the county's second courthouse, which stood on the site from 1895 until 1966, have been restored and set on the square through the efforts of local organizations.

Several members of Fort Miami Heritage Society were appointed by Berrien county officials to preserve artifacts from the courthouse, among those the bell and cornerstone, before it was torn down.

Twin Cities Area Garden Council, which preserves the unique and bald cypress tree on the square and has landscaped the west side of the block, designated a place for the bell and cornerstone near the tree.

The garden council with society members and the administrative committee of the Berrien county board, headed by Otto Grau, then recommended that the county pay the cost of materials for the structure.

The society donated $500 to construct a suitable housing for the bell and cornerstone and plans were drawn and donated by Joseph Bartz of Hatfield and Associates architectural firm of Benton Harbor.

Cost of materials was paid by the county and the brick base was laid by the donated work of Bricklayers Local 20, headed by Joseph Maisner. Pearson Construction company of Benton Harbor, which had stored the cornerstone for 10 years, did the remainder of the construction work. Other firms involved include Glenlord Lumber company, Stevensville; Anderson Building Materials, St. Joseph, and Adams Sheet Metal Works, Inc., St. Joseph.

Clubs belonging to the Twin Cities Area Garden Council include Blossomland, Four Seasons, Green Thumb, Highcliffe Terrace, Indian Hills, Shoreham Village, Shoreline and Watervliet.

Preschool Classes Set

DEVELOP SKILLS: Piper preschool students Kenny Ruppel and Sabra Barnes stack blocks designed to develop visual-motor skills and eye-hand coordination.

Piper Schedule

Piper preschool, which meets at Zion Evangelical and Reformed church in St. Joseph, will offer four class schedules for the 1976-77 school year.

Openings remain in the classes and anyone interested in the school may contact Mrs. Michael (Christine) Wyngarden of St. Joseph for further information.

The Piper program is developmentally sequenced with 62 performance objectives covering five areas of early childhood growth and learning — motor coordination, language, visual, auditory and social development.

The school deals with children at individual levels of ability according to particular styles of learning.

Part of the program, according to Judy Loeffler, head teacher, is spent in a fun, game-like learning atmosphere. The time is planned by the teacher, who incorporates large group activities and/or free choice activities, including music, creative dramatics, arts and crafts, science, practical life experiences, field trips and cooking.

Parents and home involvement are encouraged, she said.

The program is based on the philosophy that children need to make choices and to experience a degree of autonomy in their worldly adventures, but also need some direction while learning to think rationally as to the cause and effect of their choices. Children need exposure to experiences that encompass all areas of readiness skills, and need some structured activities assigned to them in order for a balanced educational experience, according to Mrs. Loeffler.

Three paraprofessionals assist Mrs. Loeffler with the classes. They are Sherri Alexander, Kathy Zuhl and Marilyn Gersonde.

The teachers are employed by the Piper parent board which includes Mrs. Wyngarden, Mr. and Mrs. John (Margie) Howard, Mrs. Thomas (Nancy) Fette, Mrs. James (Liddy) Riccioni, Mrs. Thomas (Barbara) Miyata, Mrs. Eldon (Judy) Butzbaugh Jr. and Mrs. Al (Linda) Vingelen.

The classes at the church for the 1976-77 year will be offered Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings; Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, Thursday and Friday mornings and Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Courthouse Bell Ceremony Sunday

A Bicentennial project sponsored by several area groups will be completed with a brief public ceremony at 12:15 p.m. on old courthouse square in St. Joseph, Sunday, May 16.

The bell and cornerstone of the county's second courthouse, which stood on the site from 1895 until 1966, have been restored and set on the square through the efforts of local organizations.

Several members of Fort Miami Heritage Society were appointed by Berrien county officials to preserve artifacts from the courthouse, among those the bell and cornerstone, before it was torn down.

Twin Cities Area Garden Council, which preserves the unique and bald cypress tree on the square and has landscaped the west side of the block, designated a place for the bell and cornerstone near the tree.

The garden council with society members and the administrative committee of the Berrien county board, headed by Otto Grau, then recommended that the county pay the cost of materials for the structure.

The society donated $500 to construct a suitable housing for the bell and cornerstone and plans were drawn and donated by Joseph Bartz of Hatfield and Associates architectural firm of Benton Harbor.

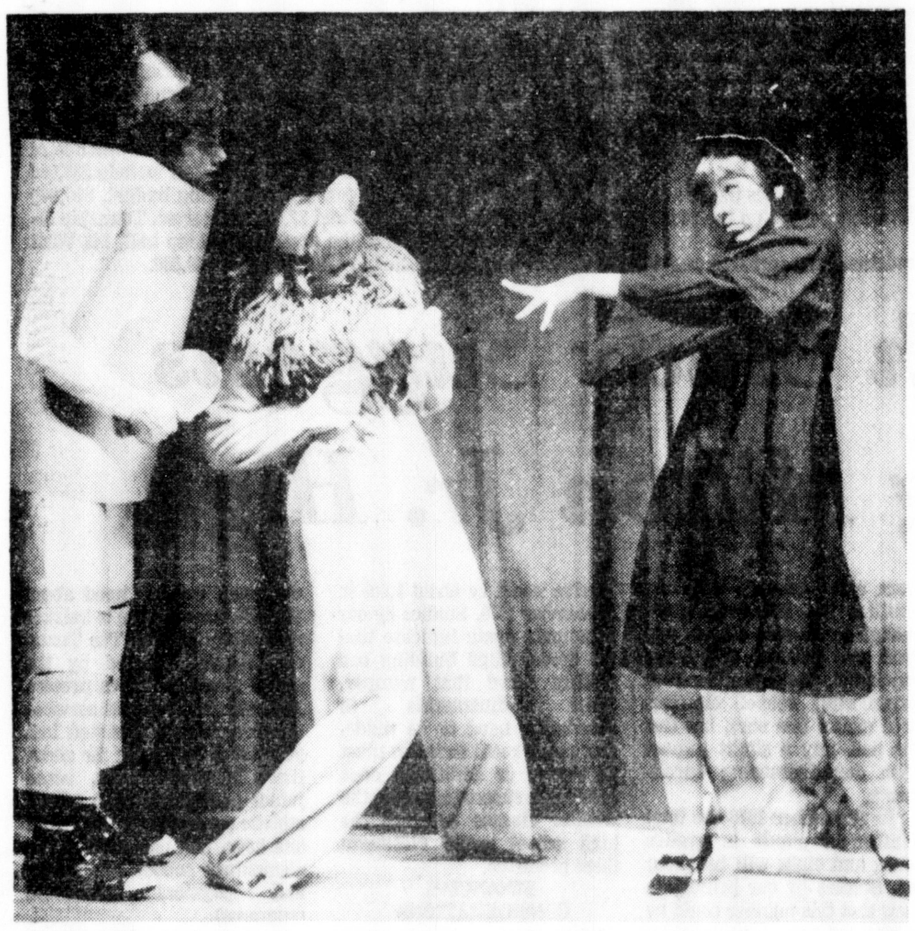

Cost of materials was paid by the county and the brick base was laid by the donated work of Bricklayers Local 20, headed by Joseph Maisner. Pearson Construction company of Benton Harbor, which had stored the cornerstone for 10 years, did the remainder of the construction work. Other firms involved include Glenlord Lumber company, Stevensville; Anderson Building Materials, St. Joseph, and Adams Sheet Metal Works, Inc., St. Joseph.

Clubs belonging to the Twin Cities Area Garden Council include Blossomland, Four Seasons, Green Thumb, Highcliffe Terrace, Indian Hills, Shoreham Village, Shoreline and Watervliet.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

Preschool Classes Set

Piper Schedule

Piper preschool, which meets at Zion Evangelical and Reformed church in St. Joseph, will offer four class schedules for the 1976-77 school year.

Openings remain in the classes and anyone interested in the school may contact Mrs. Michael (Christine) Wyngarden of St. Joseph for further information.

The Piper program is developmentally sequenced with 62 performance objectives covering five areas of early childhood growth and learning — motor coordination, language, visual, auditory and social development.

The school deals with children at individual levels of ability according to particular styles of learning.

Part of the program, according to Judy Loeffler, lead teacher, is spent in a fun, game-like learning atmosphere. The time is planned by the teacher, who incorporates large group activities and/or free choice activities, including music, creative dramatics, arts and crafts, science, practical life experiences, field trips and cooking.

Parents and home involvement are encouraged, she said.

The program is based on the philosophy that children need to make choices and to experience a degree of autonomy in their worldly adventures, but also need some direction while learning to think rationally as to the cause and effect of their choices. Children need exposure to experiences that encompass all areas of readiness skills, and need some structured activities assigned to them in order for a balanced educational experience, according to Mrs. Loeffler.

Three paraprofessionals assist Mrs. Loeffler with the classes. They are Sherri Alexander, Kathy Zuhl and Marilyn Gersonde.

The teachers are employed by the Piper parent board which includes Mrs. Wyngarden, Mr. and Mrs. John (Margie) Howard, Mrs. Thomas (Nancy) Fette, Mrs. James (Liddy) Riccioni, Mrs. Thomas (Barbara) Miyata, Mrs. Eldon (Judy) Butzbaugh Jr. and Mrs. Al (Linda) Vingelen.

The classes at the church for the 1976-77 year will be offered Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, Thursday and Friday mornings and Thursday and Friday afternoons.

DEVELOP SKILLS: Piper preschool students Kenny Ruppel and Sabra Barnes stack blocks designed to develop visual-motor skills and eye-hand coordination.

Carpets are not rugs any more. Total coverage is the overwhelming preference today, even invading the holdouts of the kitchen and bathroom. The reason is obvious, easier care and more beautiful floors, made possible by materials constructed specifically for the use. Nylon, orlon, herculon, olefin — terms once unknown now dominate the world of carpet. Man-made chemistry that makes a home a palace. Natural World Explored At Sarett Nature Center

Summer Classes

While summer classes and activities are being planned at Sarett Nature Center, the center is busy all year around, according to Charles Nelson, director - naturalist.

The center, which is located on Benton Center road, Benton Harbor, holds classes for all ages throughout the year. School children tour the center each day it is open. Special events such as wildflower pilgrimages and canoe trips are also scheduled.

Nelson says during April and May of this year, more than 4,000 school children alone will have toured the center facilities.

The center provides tours free of charge to any organized group of five persons or more. Each tour is led by a qualified naturalist.

Nelson says this service is paid for by members and by contributions from the community. Sarett receives no government funding, no tax money and no funds from United Way.

The tours are really environmental education sessions, Nelson says, and teach not only facts about the natural world, but also help develop a positive attitude toward the environment.

He says the tours are free and are a help to the schools without an increase in taxes.

A typical day of tours may include for example on May 20, a class from Lincoln school, St. Joseph, at 9 a.m., a class from Washington school, St. Joseph, at 9:30 a.m., a class from St. Matthew's Lutheran school, Benton Harbor, at 9:30 a.m., classes from the fifth and sixth grades of Benton Harbor schools and a class from Seely McCord school in the afternoon. That evening the Women's club of the United Church of Christ at Sawyer will tour the center.

Tours and programs are held for preschool children through adults throughout the entire year.

New classes scheduled for this summer will include sessions for preschoolers June 21-25. Children attending will experience the discovery of the forest, fields and ponds of Sarett with emphasis on textures, sights, smells and sounds of the natural world.

A wilderness living course for fifth and sixth grade students is scheduled June 28-July 2. The course will teach the techniques needed in outdoor living and ecology and will include two days in instruction at Sarett and two days camping in a wilderness situation.

A wilderness canoe trip is planned for seventh and eighth grade students July 5-9 and for ninth and tenth graders July 12-16. The trips will deal with canoeing and camping techniques along a Michigan river and ecology of a river habitat will be taught.

Nature classes for first and second graders will be held July 19-23 and for third and fourth graders July 19-23. Emphasis of these junior nature classes will be on the natural communities and their interrelationships.

A conservation education problems course will be held July 26-Aug. 6. This is primarily a field identification class concentrating on the familiarization of flora and fauna and techniques of teaching in the out-of-doors. The course is geared to the classroom teachers as well as the camp counselor and scout leader. This class grants four Michigan State university credits and class reservations may be made with MSU center, Benton Harbor.

A Canadian Wilderness Expedition is planned Aug. 16-28. Those participating will study wilderness living, geology, ornithology, ecology of the northern coniferous forest, aquatic ecology and other outdoor living skills all while camping on the Bremner river, Ontario, Canada.

Instructors and resource people will include Charles Nelson and Dr. John Sharon, trip leaders; Max Medley, botanist; Joe Collins, geology and biology; Steve Bearss, wildlife ecologist, and Karen LaMere, entomologist. Graduate and undergraduate credit is available. Reservations are asked by July 16. Those wishing further information may contact the center or the MSU center, Benton Harbor.

Classes at the center now in session are a spring wildflower identification and ecology class and a wildlife photography class.

Other classes held throughout the year are cross country ski lessons, winter ecology, bird identification, trees and shrubs.

Special events at Sarett include a one day canoe trip on the St. Joseph and Paw Paw rivers, a one day trip to Jasper Pulaski State Game Refuge in Indiana to watch the Sandhill cranes, ducks and Canadian geese; a one day trip to Allegan State Game Refuge in spring and fall, a one night astronomy program in spring, summer and fall, and special events on edible wild foods, frogs and snakes, turtles and bugs, sugaring moths, wilderness living, woodcock and owl walks and early morning bird walks.

Special programs have been presented at the center by Bob Whiting, Michigan Audubon field representative; Fred Alsop, birding specialist and professor at the University of Tennessee and Gwen Frostic, artist and poet.

Special trips have also been planned through Sarett. In April, a group from the center went to Gatlinburg, Tenn., on a wildflower pilgrimage for four days.

Those wishing further information about activities at the center may call Sarett Nature Center.

In addition to Nelson, others who assist and lead tours include Steve Bearss, naturalist; Judy Pasek of St. Joseph, who is a student at the University of Michigan, and Mike Nagy, an intern from Ball State university.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Raising Kids A Tough Job

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that these days kids blame everything on their parents? I am sick of reading articles telling parents how to get along with their teens. What we need is some articles for teens telling them how to get along with their parents.

I grew up during the Depression and we were really poor. My folks weren't perfect but they did the best they could. I grew up with bad teeth and went without glasses for too many years because there was no money for "luxuries" such as eye doctors and orthodontists. We didn't have the social service agencies in those days. I never heard of kids going to a psychiatrist when I was growing up but somehow they made it and most of them did a lot better than the "privileged" kids we see all around us who are getting "help."

I hope the teenagers who read your column will stop and think of what is involved raising kids these days. It's the hardest job there is, and they never seem to appreciate what their parents go through until they have kids of their own. — We Know

Dear W.K.: How true! Raising kids IS the hardest job there is. But it's also the most rewarding, if the kids turn out right. Thank you for a provocative letter.

An Iceberg

Dear Ann Landers: This might not sound like much of a problem to you, but it bothers me a lot. Maybe getting it off my chest will help.

My husband and I have been married since 1965. Three years ago we were sitting and talking and suddenly he looked at me and said, "You are NOT a beautiful woman, that's all there is to it. You just aren't." I was stunned.

He must have noticed the hurt look on my face because he quickly added, "Don't get me wrong. You look all right."

I never had any illusions about myself, Ann. While I'm no beauty, I always hoped my husband thought I was pretty, though he never said so.

Now whenever he makes a complimentary remark about some woman's looks, I remember what he said to me that night and I feel hurt all over again. Am I being silly? When I ask him if he really loves me, he says, "I'm still here, ain't I?"

What do you think? Am I being — Too Vain?

Dear T.V.: Face it, doll. It's like pulling hens' teeth to get a compliment out of some men and you are married to one.

When you recognize that the problem is his and not yours, you'll feel better. Apparently your husband comes from a long line of icebergs and he just can't thaw out and express his feelings.

ANN LANDERS

Happy House

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing mainly for those kids who didn't want their dad to get married after they lost their mom.

Our mom died three years ago. Dad was depressed for a long time. Then he started taking out young girls and was never home.

Last August Dad married a neat lady his own age. She has brightened our whole house. It is so wonderful to see Dad smile and laugh again. We are like a real family again.

I just thought your readers might want to hear from some kids who had another point of view. — Happy In Indiana

Dear Happy: Thank you for "another point of view." It was great of you to write.

Got those wedding bell blues over costs . . . guest list . . . what to wear . . . and other details? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will help. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Here is a Kelsey hand where bridge logic and little bit of luck bring home a contract that most players would miss.

West opens the 10 of hearts. You win and play two more rounds of trumps. West follows with the nine and eight while East sheds a club and a diamond. You take a successful club finesse (the little bit of luck), cash dummy's ace of clubs and ruff a club. West follows to all three clubs and produces the six and jack of diamonds when you cash your ace and king of that suit.

At this point in time you have a cinch play for your contract provided that West has at least five spades to the ace for his vulnerable overcall.

Just play your king of spades. West takes his ace. If he continues with the queen of spades he will collect three spades and then give you a ruff and discard. If he leads a low spade to his partner's jack, East will cash a diamond and give you that needed ruff and discard.

Ask the Jacobys

Here is another question about honors in rubber bridge. Some people insist that they must be claimed before the first trick is played to.

The answer is that it is unnecessary for declarer to claim them until the hand is over and both improper and unnecessary for a defender to claim them early.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Our family doctor refuses to prescribe antibiotics, even when we think we need it. Why shouldn't we have the benefit of these new wonder drugs? Why should he hold off in prescribing them?

Mr. J.T., Mich.

Dear Mr. T.:

On rereading your letter the key words are "even though we think we need it." There is a difference between the doctor's evaluation of that need and your own.

One of the most difficult problems that the physician faces is to resist the pressures made on him by patients who insist on specific drugs.

There is a great overuse, and even abuse, of the antibiotics. A number of dangers are the end results of such promiscuous use. Patients may be sensitized to antibiotics and develop allergic responses that may make further use impossible.

Some patients may, after awhile, fail to respond adequately to an antibiotic which previously may have been effective.

It is now suspected that germs, or bacteria, may be setting up their own defense against antibiotics. It is well known that many of these bacteria have become resistant to the antibiotics that previously held them in check or killed them.

The antibiotics are far too valuable to be wasted for routine illnesses where quick recovery can be predicted by the doctor.

All physicians have had the experience of being urged to prescribe an antibiotic or to give a "shot" when their own judgment suggests the contrary.

Many patients are absolutely certain that "that shot" was undoubtedly responsible for their rapid recovery. In reality, there may have been no relationship between the speed of recovery and the antibiotic.

Only the doctor can outweigh the advantages versus the disadvantages of the use of an antibiotic or any other drug.

You can be certain that your physician is using talent and good judgment in limiting the prescription of antibiotics, and he is not "holding off" in prescribing them without a good reason.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Raising Kids A Tough Job

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that these days kids blame everything on their parents? I am sick of reading articles telling parents how to get along with their teens. What we need is some articles for teens telling them how to get along with their parents.

I grew up during the Depression and we were really poor. My folks weren't perfect but they did the best they could. I grew up with bad teeth and went without glasses for too many years because there was no money for "luxuries" such as eye doctors and orthodontists. We didn't have the social service agencies in those days. I never heard of kids going to a psychiatrist when I was growing up but somehow they made it and most of them did a lot better than the "privileged" kids we see all around us who are getting "help."

I hope the teenagers who read your column will stop and think of what is involved raising kids these days. It's the hardest job there is, and they never seem to appreciate what their parents go through until they have kids of their own. — We Know

Dear W.K.: How true! Raising kids IS the hardest job there is. But it's also the most rewarding, if the kids turn out right. Thank you for a provocative letter.

An Iceberg

Dear Ann Landers: This might not sound like much of a problem to you, but it bothers me a lot. Maybe getting it off my chest will help.

My husband and I have been married since 1965. Three years ago we were sitting and talking and suddenly he looked at me and said, "You are NOT a beautiful woman, that's all there is to it. You just aren't." I was stunned.

He must have noticed the hurt look on my face because he quickly added, "Don't get me wrong. You look all right."

I never had any illusions about myself, Ann. While I'm no beauty, I always hoped my husband thought I was pretty, though he never said so.

Now whenever he makes a complimentary remark about some woman's looks, I remember what he said to me that night and I feel hurt all over again. Am I being silly? When I ask him if he really loves me, he says, "I'm still here, ain't I?"

What do you think? Am I being — Too Vain?

Dear T.V.: Face it, doll. It's like pulling hens' teeth to get a compliment out of some men and you are married to one.

When you recognize that the problem is his and not yours, you'll feel better. Apparently your husband comes from a long line of icebergs and he just can't thaw out and express his feelings.

ANN LANDERS

Happy House

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing mainly for those kids who didn't want their dad to get married after they lost their mom.

Our mom died three years ago. Dad was depressed for a long time. Then he started taking out young girls and was never home.

Last August Dad married a neat lady his own age. She has brightened our whole house. It is so wonderful to see Dad smile and laugh again. We are like a real family again.

I just thought your readers might want to hear from some kids who had another point of view. — Happy In Indiana

Dear Happy: Thank you for "another point of view." It was great of you to write.

Got those wedding bell blues over costs . . . guest list . . . what to wear . . . and other details? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will help. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Fashions: Big And Baggy

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With a burst of fantasy, flirtation and fun, Giorgio di Sant'Angelo presented his full designs in an anything but traditional fashion show.

The opening found a gyrating giant of a dancer, Tommy Tune, tapping away as he led a series of models in muddy green lycra leotards and warmups.

Tune, one of the tallest and thinnest male dancers on Broadway, was in baggy warmup pants and white T-shirt emblazoned with "New York Sant'Angelo." A drum major cap adorned his head.

A group of gigolos — oops, escorts — sat on stage in dark suits and wide hats to assist the flirty models as they paraded and slithered across the stage, often spurning the more than helpful aides.

Di Sant'Angelo's walking suits and rainwear had a tough quality about them, almost harking back to the days of bathtub gin and machine guns. Jackets were pinstriped with wide lapels and tailored backs.

Most of the rainwear was reversible in soft creams and bright peacock blue. A tunic style raincoat in grey and beige had two slits in the back, adding an easy movement to the garment.

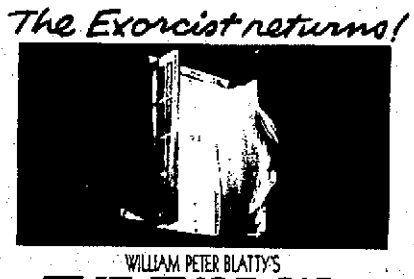

Coats were still fairly geometric and big. Hoods, ever popular this season, were in abundance. A carnation red coat with big pockets and hood had fringes on all borders.

In crepe, di Sant'Angelo showed clinging, sensual garments that allowed great freedom of movement for the wearer. A cream colored long-sleeved, floor-length dress was shown with last year's funny wrap. Tunics over baggy pants also were shown in crepe. A bright red cowled tunic was worn over lilac.

An almost cubistic shape gave a monastic look to two di Sant'Angelo tunics. One of these "friar" dresses was worn over straight, black trousers.

The designer's evening pajamas were airy and full, yet maintained a softness. In salmon, he showed a long-sleeved set.

DNR Fights Land Sale Bill

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A controversial bill which could permit the sale of nearly half a million acres of public land in northern Michigan for industrial development is being fought by the Department of Natural Resources.

The bill would authorize the sale of land in northern Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula if the Natural Resources Commission and the director of the Department of Commerce decide the land is needed for industrial or agricultural development.

The measure was moved into position for a final vote in the Senate on Wednesday amid heated debate over the DNR's position. Its sponsor, Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, claimed he had the DNR's "blessing," but acknowledged the department may have "changed its mind."

Representatives of the DNR had indicated their support for the bill when it was approved in Mack's Conservation Committee, and a letter to Mack from a top DNR official said the bill's latest form removed items of concern.

But Wednesday, Howard Tanner, DNR director, said flatly: "The department opposes the bill."

Mack contends the bill is needed to provide land for industrial development in the economically depressed U.P.

Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. is known to be seeking some 8,000 of public land to expand its mining operations.

But, Tanner said, "There is no evidence to support the bill's presumption that public land ownership is generally a major restraint on economic growth in any area of the state. There is considerable evidence that the presence of public land stimulates economic activity in nearby private areas."

The bill, which is opposed by environmental groups, would put money from the land sales into a special fund — to be created under separate legislation — to purchase other public land in more crowded urban areas.

Eligible for sale under the bill would be some 220,000 acres of land which the state took over for non-payment of taxes in northern Lower Michigan, and another 250,000 acres of such land in the U.P., according to the DNR.

An official DNR analysis of the bill released Thursday detailed the department's objections. While it admitted greater flexibility is needed in disposing of unneeded public lands, it said any large-scale disposal should occur only after development of a state land use plan.

It pointed out that much taxreverted land is mixed in with state purchased land, and sale of such land "would create a confused ownership pattern."

The DNR also said the bill does not protect such special lands as coastal environmental zones, endangered species habitat and wilderness areas. Only state park land is off-limits under the bill.

PBB Or Iodine?
More Study Urged

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — More research is needed into a theory that iodine poisoning — and not PBB — may be causing illnesses in some cattle, a Michigan State University official testified Wednesday.

But John Nellor, associate vice president for research development, said he backs a report suggesting that possibility.

Nellor appeared before a special House committee studying the PBB problem.

PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic fire retardant, accidentally was mixed with Michigan cattle feed in 1973.

The poisoning was discovered a year later, and since then more than 25,000 cattle, 1.5 million chickens, and hundreds of hogs have been destroyed by their owners because of the PBB situation.

The Food and Drug Administration says food products containing less than three-tenths parts per million PBB are safe for human consumption.

The committee has been taking testimony on a report by Dr. Donald Hillman, a Department of Dairy Science and Extension Specialist. The report released last month suggested that iodine may be at least a contributing factor in the illnesses of some cattle.

Nellor said that Hillman's theory is only a theory and needs documentation.

Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, committee chairman, accused Hillman of "going to the news media" and telling them iodine was definitely the culprit.

"I never have said that it definitely was not PBB," Hillman replied. "What I said was there was a history of a high level of iodine in several herds studied, and that further work needs to be done."

Hillman said there are still cattle on farms with "significant" levels of PBB who are healthy. Many animals that were slaughtered because of high levels of PBB were never ill, he added.

Aid To Detroit, Stadium Linked

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State aid for the City of Detroit has been coupled in legislation to a yearly grant for the Pontiac Stadium, an expenditure which attracts a heated battle every year.

Senate leaders tied the two controversial measures together in hopes of attracting the votes of Oakland County lawmakers for the package of aid for Detroit.

But the bill seems sure to be buffeted severely by critics of both expenditures before it arrives on Gov. William Milliken's desk.

The $579.9 million "grants and transfers" bills contains various state appropriations for a variety of special purposes. Up for a second day of debate in the Senate Appropriations Committee today, it includes $27.6 million for Detroit.

The bill is the result of an agreement between Milliken and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young over how much the state should help the city. The two agreed on a $40.9 million package, which includes separate legislation to permit Detroit to levy a three-mill garbage tax.

The grants bill includes such items as $9.2 million for the city's bus service, $8 million for hospitals, $5.5 million for the Detroit library and lesser amounts for the city's historical museum, art institute, department of health and health laboratories.

The bill attracted an opening salvo of emotional debate Wednesday as critics of the Pontiac Stadium subsidy moved to strike the $800,000 payment from the bill. The amendment was left pending Thursday's debate.

But Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald said the Pontiac subsidy is an attempt to win votes for the Detroit aid package. He clearly hopes it will attract more votes in the legislature than it will lose from those who oppose the stadium.

Malpractice Insurance Rules Called 'Failure'

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones says Michigan's policy regulating medical malpractice insurance writers is a failure in many respects.

"While the present policy towards malpractice insurance does assure that all physicians have access to insurance, it fails to guarantee that they have access in a competitive market," Jones said Wednesday.

"It fails to guarantee that their rates will be equitable or reflect the risk they represent. It fails to work to improve the overall quality of health care," said Jones, who presided at a formal hearing over proposed new rules to improve the process.

Aimed at more strictly regulating the malpractice companies, the rules would be discriminatory if they were not applied to insurance companies in all lines of coverage, an official of Michigan's largest medical malpractice insurer testified at the hearing.

William Davey, executive vice president of the Medical Protective Insurance Co., said proposals aimed at limiting companies' profits from malpractice policies to 12 per cent of their net worth were "unfair," particularly because "one line of insurance and essentially one company is being singled out amongst all property and casualty companies operating in Michigan."

He said the profit rule could make it more difficult and more expensive for doctors to find malpractice coverage. But a consultant for the Physicians' Crisis Committee, which suggested the new rules, said they could mean rates 10 to 15 per cent lower.

Medical Protective, which insures 4,300 doctors and 2,700 dentists in Michigan, had 31.7 per cent profit on its net worth in 1975, according to briefs filed with Jones on the new rules.

Besides setting limits on profits, the rules would require insurance companies to disclose their incomes, expenses, profits and losses, and justify the rates they charge to various classes of doctors.

Davey also criticized implications in the rules that would result in a subsidization by lowrisk doctors of the higher premiums paid by specialists and surgeons.

"Raising the rates of the lower risk categories would result in increased costs for the public when they visit their family doctor, when they take their child to a doctor, when they need diagnostic support as in X-ray or laboratory facilities," said Davey.

Earlier, spokesmen for the Physicians Crisis Committee acknowledged that because doctors of all sorts are dependent on each other, low risk doctors should subsidize surgeons and other specialists who pay much higher premiums.

Specialists have incomes 25 to 60 per cent higher than nonspecialists, but may pay malpractice insurance premiums 300 to 700 per cent higher, said Gary Stone, a Michigan State University insurance professor and consultant to the group.

Jones should recommend that the legislature pass laws prohibiting more than a 2½ per cent difference in the rates paid by specialists and nonspecialists, committee chairman Dr. Arthur B. Eisenbrey of Detroit urged.

Senate Okays Budget Lid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to settle on a $413.3 billion federal budget ceiling that assumes individual income tax cuts will continue through all of 1977. But the congressional ceiling for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 is $17.5 billion above what President Ford wants and could trigger another monetary confrontation between the Democratic Congress and the Republican White House. The Senate approved the budget ceiling by a vote of 65 to 29 on Wednesday, and there were indications the House would give the plan final approval today.

Spy Control Bill Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise measure to create a new Senate committee with powers to monitor the CIA and other intelligence agencies appears headed for passage this week. A resolution creating a 12-member intelligence panel to oversee intelligence operations has the backing of key Senate leaders in both parties and opponents concede they lack the votes to block it. The Senate was expected to continue debate on the measure today.

Possession is nine tenths of the law. This fact may be somewhat an exaggeration of the truth today, but it does date back to days when possession or occupancy could actually constitute ownership. Ownership of real estate has provided roots and purpose for many a family since time immemorial, leading to security and peace of mind that transients never enjoy.

SOUTH HAVEN — Four people remained hospitalized today from an accident last night that injured six people, according to state police from the South Haven post.

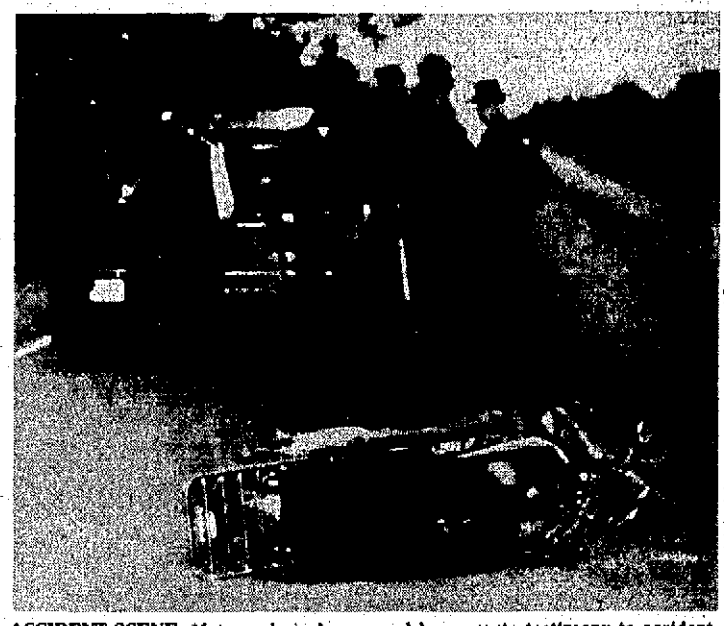

Troopers said a compact car went out of control on a curve on 66th street near Baseline road, Geneva township, at about 6 p.m., and struck a tree.

Listed in fair condition today at South Haven Community hospital were the driver, Connie Trieste, Portage, and Joey Pittman, 20, of Grand Junction.

Reported in fair condition at Holland city hospital was Sandra Cope, 18, route 4, South Haven. And reported in fairly good condition at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo was Calvin Cooks, 21, of Kalamazoo.

Released after treatment from the South Haven hospital were Barbara Ford, 20, and William Curry, 22, both of Kalamazoo.

Troopers said the accident remains under investigation.

Lincoln Township Hall New Low Bid $278,000

A bid of $278,000 from South Haven contractor Henry Wiatrowski was the apparent low of five opened yesterday for construction of a new Lincoln township hall.

The bid from Wiatrowski was $19,300 below the second low bid from the Pearson construction company, Benton Harbor. That firm's bid was $297,300. The three other bids ranged from $301,800 to $327,000.

Yesterday's bid opening marked the second time this year the township board has taken bids for the proposed structure which is to be built on land adjacent to the township library at the corner of John Beers and Roosevelt roads.

In March, the board rejected eight bids which ranged from $87,520 to $137,520 higher than the architect's estimated price tag of $312,000.

The specifications for the building were then revised to lower costs resulting in a new estimate of $300,000 and new bids were sought.

Wiatrowski had submitted the lowest of the March bids also.

Architect Wayne Hatfield of Benton Harbor is to review the five bids opened yesterday and recommend the lowest acceptable bid.

The township board is planning to hold a public informational meeting on the project and bids before it officially accepts one of the bids, according to Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, township clerk.

After the first set of bids was rejected, the board and Hatfield revised some of the specifications for the building to reduce construction costs.

The parking lot was made smaller, a different type of roof was called for, and a variety of other structural, mechanical and electrical substitutions were made, Mrs. Tretheway said.

The building will contain 6,800 square feet and will hold over 200 people.

President Ford's A Crowd-Puller

the Carter "bandwagon" was slowed Tuesday when Sen. Frank Church beat Carter in Nebraska and the former Georgia governor only narrowly beat Udall in Connecticut. He said he might surprise the nation next Tuesday.

Among Ford's other stops was a visit to a Ford Motor Co. manufacturing plant in Sterling Heights, where he was conducted on a tour by company President Lee A. Iacocca.

Ford received friendly greetings from the traditionally Democratic auto workers. He shook hands with about half the 600 employes on the night shift, stopping several times to sign autographs and chit-chat over the roar of machinery.

"I don't know if I'll vote for him, but I think he's a nice guy," said one worker who displayed a card with Ford's signature.

Earlier in the day, the President addressed some 900 GOP members and business executives at a Detroit Economic Club meeting held in Bloomfield Hills, where a crowd of about 300, including two groups of protesters, waited outside. About 40 teachers from the eastern Upper Peninsula town of Rudyard left their classes to protest the proposed closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base in the U.P.

Another group of 35, members of the Welfare Rights Organization of Oakland County, chanted and held signs reading: "Help the food stamp program. Grandma can't eat a B-1 bomber," and "Food stamps make a difference. Don't make grandma starve."

State GOP officials said they were encouraged by the large turnouts for Ford during the day, including thousands who lined the President's nine-mile route from the Ford plant to Roseville, and hundreds more who watched his 10:30 p.m. departure from Selfridge Air Force Base in Mount Clemens. Party officials said they were confident Ford would win the state's Republican primary, a victory most political observers say is a must if the President is to remain a viable candidate.

"I believe he will win, although it won't be a landslide," said William McLaughlin, GOP state party chairman. "It is very crucial for him."

Sen. Griffin added: "There's no question in my mind, if we get the vote out, that President Ford will be victorious in a very impressive way."

And the President, when asked if he expected to win the primary, replied: "You bet I do."

Say Patient Starved

HARBOR BEACH, Mich. (AP) — A retarded mental patient missing since April 26 was starved to death in a closet at the foster care home where he lived, authorities said Wednesday. Michael Leavitt, 41, had been dead between four and 10 days when his body was found in a closet at the home by a woman who works as a cook and housekeeper there, authorities said. Huron County Prosecutor Peter Capling said there is no evidence to indicate Leavitt was murdered. Leavitt's disappearance was reported to police and relatives April 26. Harbor Beach Police Chief John Stickney said a search was made of the town, but not of the home. "We handled it like any missing person complaint," said Stickney.

Four Teachers Reinstated

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Four Harper Woods teachers who were laid off in 1972 because of budget cutbacks must be reinstated, says the state Teacher Tenure Commission. The commission voted 3-2 to order Harper Woods Public Schools to reinstate Joseph Chester, Thomas Stevens, Eugene Rieckoff and Bernard Sustrich with back pay. The four were laid off at the start of the 1972-73 school year. The commission ruled the school board broke tenure rules by failing to offer Chester, Stevens and Rieckoff the first vacancies for which they were qualified the following school year. The commission said the board also wrongly blocked the reinstatement of Chester Stevens and Sustrich by manipulating assignments and class schedules.

Health, Corrections Money

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has given final approval to two appropriations bills providing extra money to the departments of Mental Health and Corrections for the remainder of the fiscal year. Approved 29-5 and sent to Gov. William Milliken was a bill providing an extra $1.3 million for the Department of Corrections. On a vote of 275, the Senate passed and sent to Milliken a bill providing an extra $2.5 million for the Department of Mental Health. Still in the Senate Appropriations Committee is a $100 million bill for extra social services costs for the rest of the fiscal year.

BH Mayor Called A 'Man Of Vision'

torious national democratic ticket then Dynally would move into the governor's mansion.

"Whenever black leaders stand strong and tall, they find themselves in a free fire zone," Hatcher said.

Although avoiding any criticism of Benton Harbor's city manager form of government, Hatcher said Gary's strong mayor system "gets things done." Hatcher says he hires and fires, initiates improvements and has a firm control over finances. Hatcher said he must answer periodically to the people in the election booths. City managers do not have this problem.

Joseph spoke sharply on the failure of Benton Harbor banks, which he said, failed to invest money in Benton Harbor. He said he may ask the federal government to investigate lending policies in the twin cities.

Joseph defended his campaigns to get federal funds, his friendships with boxer Muhammad Ali and former baseball star Willie Mays and said there is a shadowy campaign to get blacks out of the mayor's office in particular and city hall in general.

Fairgrounds 'A Shame'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House Wednesday refused to okay an extra half-million dollars for the Michigan State fairgrounds in Detroit. The House rejected, 41-55, an amendment Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy, offered to a $44 million capital outlay budget bill for planning and construction at state institutions and agencies. The bill already includes $250,000 for the fairgrounds. Porter said he's been showing cattle at various fairgrounds for 30 years. He said the fairgrounds in Detroit are "a shame" compared to fairgrounds in other states and that the condition has deteriorated in the past 25 years. But Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, whose subcommittee worked up the bill, said the state has spent $5 million keeping the fairgrounds up over the years. He said the legislature last year put in $250,000 for repairs, but the governor vetoed that money.

New Hughes Wills Pop Up All Over

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wills purportedly written by Howard Hughes are popping up from coast to coast, and a longtime employe of the late billionaire says: "I think it's becoming apparent there are a lot of people who can write like Howard Hughes."

At last count Wednesday, there were five documents claimed by various people to be the one and only authentic Hughes will.

The atmosphere turned carnival Wednesay, when two "wills" were delivered to the Clark County courthouse, and a New York newspaper said it received another in the mail.

Further adding to the hubbub was a claim that the first and most seriously considered will was a guy.

A genealogist hired by distant relatives of Hughes told a Chicago news conference Wednesday he had contacted a person in Salt Lake City who claimed to be one of five forgers who wrote the document as a joke.

However, William A. Jones, of Nashville, Tenn., was vague about "the person."

Clark County officials found the situation less than humorous.

"To the public at large it may be a carnival, to the people who may be sending this stuff in it may be a carnival, but certainly it's not a carnival to the court or any of its attaches," County Probate Commissioner Russell S. Waite said.

A man identifying himself as Grover Walker of Las Vegas walked into the county clerk's office Wednesday accompanied by three apparent bodyguards and filed will No. 3.

Walker said the will was delivered to him by Richard Robard Hughes, who claims to be Hughes' illegitimate son. Joseph Michael Brown, who changed his legal name to Richard Robard Hughes, claimed last year that he and his "father" communicated by tiny radio transmitters implanted in their heads.

Buchanan Boy, 13, Hurt In Car-Motorcycle Crash

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BUCHANAN — A 13-year-old Buchanan boy was hospitalized last night after the motorcycle he was riding crashed with an auto northwest of here, Berrien county sheriff's deputies at the Galien substation said.

Listed in guarded condition this morning at Pawating hospital in Niles was Troy Kelley, son of Mrs. Shirley Kelley of route 1, box 964, Miller road, Buchanan.

Young Kelley suffered two broken arms and possible head and internal injuries in the 9:30 p.m. Buchanan township accident, deputies said.

Deputies said the motorcycle was eastbound on Miller without lights when it collided at the Berceus road intersection with an auto being driven by Charles Stroud, 46, route 1, Main Street road, Buchanan.

Stroud told deputies he was headed west on Miller and was attempting to turn onto Berceus when the accident occurred.

Deputies said no citations were issued and the crash is still under investigation.

The accident was the second time the boy has been injured this year.

In March, he suffered a .22 caliber bullet wound in the left arm in a hunting accident.

A 12-year-old hunting companion fired a rifle shot into a brush pile, not knowing Kelley was on the other side of the pile, deputies said at the time.

Gobles To Hold June 9 Hearing On City Sewer System Study

GOBLES — The Gobles city commission last night scheduled a June 9 public hearing on a proposed $30,000 city sewer system feasibility study.

If the city commission decides to proceed with the study, the state Water Resources commission will pay 80 per cent of the costs, about $24,000, and the city will have to pay about $6,000.

The city, which has a population of 800 to 900 people, now has a water system but no municipal sewer collection and treatment system.

The public hearing is set for 7 p.m. in the city hall.

In other action, the city set a public hearing for June 9, at 7:30 p.m., on its proposed budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The proposed budget calls for expenditures of $70,322, up $4,113 from the present budget, but requiring no increase in the present 19-mill city property tax levy, city officials said.

The budget provides for a six per cent pay boost for the city's eight fulltime employes.

The 19 mills, including a one-mill levy for fire protection, is expected to bring in about $42,160.

Also last night, the commission took under study a petition for four-way stop signs at the Vine and West Exchange streets intersection; promised cooperation between the city and local citizen band radio operators who have volunteered communications help in emergencies; rejected purchase bids for a new police car and voted to seek two-year lease bids; and gave approval for the Kendall church to hold a Bicentennial auction on East Van Buren street on May 29.

Lincoln Township Hall New Low Bid $278,000

A bid of $278,000 from South Haven contractor Henry Wiatrowski was the apparent low of five opened yesterday for construction of a new Lincoln township hall.

The bid from Wiatrowski was $19,300 below the second low bid from the Pearson construction company, Benton Harbor. That firm's bid was $297,300. The three other bids ranged from $301,800 to $327,000.

Yesterday's bid opening marked the second time this year the township board has taken bids for the proposed structure which is to be built on land adjacent to the township library at the corner of John Beers and Roosevelt roads.

In March, the board rejected eight bids which ranged from $87,520 to $137,520 higher than the architect's estimated price tag of $312,000.

The specifications for the building were then revised to lower costs resulting in a new estimate of $300,000 and new bids were sought.

Wiatrowski had submitted the lowest of the March bids also.

Architect Wayne Hatfield of Benton Harbor is to review the five bids opened yesterday and recommend the lowest acceptable bid.

The township board is planning to hold a public informational meeting on the project and bids before it officially accepts one of the bids, according to Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, township clerk.

After the first set of bids was rejected, the board and Hatfield revised some of the specifications for the building to reduce construction costs.

The parking lot was made smaller, a different type of roof was called for, and a variety of other structural, mechanical and electrical substitutions were made, Mrs. Tretheway said.

The building will contain 6,800 square feet and will hold over 200 people.

the Carter "bandwagon" was slowed Tuesday when Sen. Frank Church beat Carter in Nebraska and the former Georgia governor only narrowly beat Udall in Connecticut. He said he might surprise the nation next Tuesday.

Among Ford's other stops was a visit to a Ford Motor Co. manufacturing plant in Sterling Heights, where he was conducted on a tour by company President Lee A. Iacocca.

Ford received friendly greetings from the traditionally Democratic auto workers. He shook hands with about half the 600 employes on the night shift, stopping several times to sign autographs and chit-chat over the roar of machinery.

"I don't know if I'll vote for him, but I think he's a nice guy," said one worker who displayed a card with Ford's signature.

Earlier in the day, the President addressed some 900 GOP members and business executives at a Detroit Economic Club meeting held in Bloomfield Hills, where a crowd of about 300, including two groups of protestors, waited outside. About 40 teachers from the eastern Upper Peninsula town of Rudyard left their classes to protest the proposed closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base in the U.P.

Another group of 35, members of the Welfare Rights Organization of Oakland County, chanted and held signs reading: "Help the food stamp program. Grandma can't eat a B-1 bomber," and "Food stamps make a difference. Don't make grandma starve."

State GOP officials said they were encouraged by the large turnouts for Ford during the day, including thousands who lined the President's nine-mile route from the Ford plant to Roseville, and hundreds more who watched his 10:30 p.m. departure from Selfridge Air Force Base in Mount Clemens. Party officials said they were confident Ford would win the state's Republican primary, a victory most political observers say is a must if the President is to remain a viable candidate.

"I believe he will win, although it won't be a landslide," said William McLaughlin, GOP state party chairman. "It is very crucial for him."

Sen. Griffin added: "There's no question in my mind, if we get the vote out, that President Ford will be victorious in a very impressive way."

And the President, when asked if he expected to win the primary, replied: "You bet I do."

Say Patient Starved

HARBOR BEACH, Mich. (AP) — A retarded mental patient missing since April 26 was starved to death in a closet at the foster care home where he lived, authorities said Wednesday. Michael Leavitt, 41, had been dead between four and 10 days when his body was found in a closet at the home by a woman who works as a cook and housekeeper there, authorities said. Huron County Prosecutor Peter Capling said there is no evidence to indicate Leavitt was murdered. Leavitt's disappearance was reported to police and relatives April 26. Harbor Beach Police Chief John Stickney said a search was made of the town, but not of the home. "We handled it like any missing person complaint," said Stickney.

Four Teachers Reinstated

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Four Harper Woods teachers who were laid off in 1972 because of budget cutbacks must be reinstated, says the state Teacher Tenure Commission. The commission voted 3-2 to order Harper Woods Public Schools to reinstate Joseph Chester, Thomas Stevens, Eugene Rieckoff and Bernard Sustrich with back pay. The four were laid off at the start of the 1972-73 school year. The commission ruled the school board broke tenure rules by failing to offer Chester, Stevens and Rieckoff the first vacancies for which they were qualified the following school year. The commission said the board also wrongly blocked the reinstatement of Chester Stevens and Sustrich by manipulating assignments and class schedules.

Health, Corrections Money

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has given final approval to two appropriations bills providing extra money to the departments of Mental Health and Corrections for the remainder of the fiscal year. Approved 29-5 and sent to Gov. William Milliken was a bill providing an extra $1.3 million for the Department of Corrections. On a vote of 275, the Senate passed and sent to Milliken a bill providing an extra $2.5 million for the Department of Mental Health. Still in the Senate Appropriations Committee is a $100 million bill for extra social services costs for the rest of the fiscal year.

BH Mayor Called A 'Man Of Vision'

torious national democratic ticket then Dynally would move into the governor's mansion.

"Whenever black leaders stand strong and tall, they find themselves in a free fire zone," Hatcher said.

Although avoiding any criticism of Benton Harbor's city manager form of government, Hatcher said Gary's strong mayor system "gets things done." Hatcher says he hires and fires, initiates improvements and has a firm control over finances. Hatcher said he must answer periodically to the people in the election booths. City managers do not have this problem.

Joseph spoke sharply on the failure of Benton Harbor banks, which he said, failed to invest money in Benton Harbor. He said he may ask the federal government to investigate lending policies in the twin cities.

Joseph defended his campaigns to get federal funds, his friendships with boxer Muhammad Ali and former baseball star Willie Mays and said there is a shadowy campaign to get blacks out of the mayor's office in particular and city hall in general.

Fairgrounds 'A Shame'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House Wednesday refused to okay an extra half-million dollars for the Michigan State fairgrounds in Detroit. The House rejected, 41-55, an amendment Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy, offered to a $44 million capital outlay budget bill for planning and construction at state institutions and agencies. The bill already includes $250,000 for the fairgrounds. Porter said he's been showing cattle at various fairgrounds for 30 years. He said the fairgrounds in Detroit are "a shame" compared to fairgrounds in other states and that the condition has deteriorated in the past 25 years. But Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, whose subcommittee worked up the bill, said the state has spent $5 million keeping the fairgrounds up over the years. He said the legislature last year put in $250,000 for repairs, but the governor vetoed that money.

Gobles To Hold June 9 Hearing On City Sewer System Study

GOBLES — The Gobles city commission last night scheduled a June 9 public hearing on a proposed $30,000 city sewer system feasibility study.

If the city commission decides to proceed with the study, the state Water Resources commission will pay 80 per cent of the costs, about $24,000, and the city will have to pay about $6,000.

The city, which has a population of 800 to 900 people, now has a water system but no municipal sewer collection and treatment system.

The public hearing is set for 7 p.m. in the city hall.

In other action, the city set a public hearing for June 9, at 7:30 p.m., on its proposed budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The proposed budget calls for expenditures of $70,322, up $4,113 from the present budget, but requiring no increase in the present 19-mill city property tax levy, city officials said.

The budget provides for a six per cent pay boost for the city's eight fulltime employes.

The 19 mills, including a one-mill levy for fire protection, is expected to bring in about $42,169.

Also last night, the commission took under study a petition for four-way stop signs at the Vine and West Exchange streets intersection; promised cooperation between the city and local citizen band radio operators who have volunteered communications help in emergencies; rejected purchase bids for a new police car and voted to seek two-year lease bids; and gave approval for the Kendall church to hold a Bicentennial auction on East Van Buren street on May 29.

New Hughes Wills Pop Up All Over

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wills purportedly written by Howard Hughes are popping up from coast to coast, and a longtime employe of the late billionaire says: "I think it's becoming apparent there are a lot of people who can write like Howard Hughes."

At last count Wednesday, there were five documents claimed by various people to be the one and only authentic Hughes will.

The atmosphere turned carnival Wednesay, when two "wills" were delivered to the Clark County courthouse, and a New York newspaper said it received another in the mail.

Further adding to the hubbub was a claim that the first and most seriously considered will was a gag.

A genealogist hired by distant relatives of Hughes told a Chicago news conference Wednesday he had contacted a person in Salt Lake City who claimed to be one of five forgers who wrote the document as a joke.

However, William A. Jones, of Nashville, Tenn., was vague about "the person."

Clark County officials found the situation less than humorous.

"To the public at large it may be a carnival, to the people who may be sending this stuff in it may be a carnival, but certainly it's not a carnival to the court or any of its attaches," County Probate Commissioner Russell S. Waite said.

A man identifying himself as Grover Walker of Las Vegas walked into the county clerk's office Wednesday accompanied by three apparent bodyguards and filed will No. 3.

Walker said the will was delivered to him by Richard Robard Hughes, who claims to be Hughes' illegitimate son. Joseph Michael Brown, who changed his legal name to Richard Robard Hughes, claimed last year that he and his "father" communicated by tiny radio transmitters implanted in their heads.

Buchanan Boy, 13, Hurt In Car-Motorcycle Crash

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BUCHANAN — A 13-year-old Buchanan boy was hospitalized last night after the motorcycle he was riding crashed with an auto northwest of here, Berrien county sheriff's deputies at the Galien substation said.

Listed in guarded condition this morning at Pawating hospital in Niles was Troy Kelley, son of Mrs. Shirley Kelley of route 1, box 964, Miller road, Buchanan.

Young Kelley suffered two broken arms and possible head and internal injuries in the 9:30 p.m. Buchanan township accident, deputies said.

Deputies said the motorcycle was eastbound on Miller without lights when it collided at the Borceus road intersection with an auto being driven by Charles Stroud, 46, route 1, Main Street road, Buchanan.

Stroud told deputies he was headed west on Miller and was attempting to turn onto Broceus when the accident occurred.

Deputies said no citations were issued and the crash is still under investigation.

The accident was the second time the boy has been injured this year.

In March, he suffered a .22 caliber bullet wound in the left arm in a hunting accident.

A 12-year-old hunting companion fired a rifle shot into a brush pile, not knowing Kelley was on the other side of the pile, deputies said at the time.

Stevensville Man Re-Arrested In Bicyclist's Death

A Stevensville man arrested last week in connection with the death of a 14-year-old bicyclist and then released when no warrant was issued was re-arrested Wednesday on a charge of negligent homicide. Arrested on the warrant authorized by Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka was Marvin H. Guess, 30, of 5203 Lincoln avenue, Stevensville.

He demanded examination when arraigned before Fifth District Court Judge Leo K. Cook and was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Guess is accused as the driver of a car which allegedly swerved in front of another auto which struck and killed John D. Greathouse, 14, of 8774 Ruggles road, Baroda, on May 2. The boy was killed while riding his bicycle on the shoulder of Cleveland avenue near Lemon Creek road in Baroda township.

Smietanka said no charges have been filed against the driver of the car that hit the boy, Norman W. Lewis, 29, of 1558 Shawnee road, Baroda, but said the investigation is continuing.

The warrant for Guess' arrest alleges that Guess and Lewis were racing on Cleveland, and Guess swerved to the left across the center line as Lewis attempted to pass, forcing Lewis off the road and into the boy.

Guess was originally arrested the day after the accident. But Smietanka ruled, after questioning Guess, there was not sufficient evidence at that time for a warrant, and no formal complaint was initiated.

The prosecutor said Guess was first arrested after Smietanka gave sheriff's deputies verbal advice that there appeared to be probable cause to make a warrantless arrest of Guess on a negligent homicide charge.

Big Brutes, And Slow

LONDON (AP) — A British zoologist claims the brontosaurus, a 35-ton dinosaur of 125 million years ago, lumbered through the plains of what now is Colorado, Texas and Wyoming at a sluggish two miles an hour.

Prof. Neil Alexander, writing in the weekly science magazine Nature, said he studied the speed and stride of present-day horses, elephants, rodents, ostriches and even his own children, Jane, 11, and Gordon, 13.

He used fossilized footprints to calculate the stride of the brontosaurus. Then he took a formula for working out the speed of ships and adapted it to animals.

Teacher Struck, Student Is Cut At High School

A chemistry teacher was punched in the face several times and a sophomore boy sustained a minor stab wound in the back during two incidents at Benton Harbor high school Tuesday, according to Benton Harbor police. Mike Schroeder, a 28-year-old teacher, told police that he was pushed from behind, spun around and punched several times in the face by a student in the school auditorium.

Schroeder said his class was meeting in the auditorium at 11:10 a.m. One student, a 17-year-old boy, refused to take his seat, Schroeder said. The teacher told the student to sit down, turned his back and was rushed, he said. Police reported that Schroeder's left arm was skinned in the assault.

Schroeder was aided by three other teachers, according to police: Charlotte Wilkens, Wayne Webber and Mike Walker.

No arrest will be made, according to police, unless the teacher signs a complaint.

In the other incident, Terry Bryndun, 17, of 204 South Euclid, Benton township, was treated and released from Mercy hospital for a small puncture wound which, he told police, was inflicted by a girlfriend.

Police said the student was stabbed in the middle of the back. The victim didn't see the weapon and no weapon was recovered, they reported. The incident occurred about 8 a.m. in a hallway, according to the report.

Arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Felinda Harris, 17, of 191 Concord, Benton Harbor. The prosecutor's office said yesterday that the charge had not been authorized, pending signing of a complaint by the victim.

Carter Asks N-Fuel Curb

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jimmy Carter today called for a worldwide voluntary moratorium on the purchase and sale of nuclear fuel enrichment and reprocessing plants "to make the spread of peaceful nuclear power less dangerous."

Speaking at a conference on nuclear energy and world order, the former Georgia governor and front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination presented a speech described by a source close to his campaign as his first attempt to set out a detailed statement on foreign policy.

The source said the prepared speech was the first in a series of major policy statements that Carter will offer, and that it represents a new stage in his campaign. A background session on the speech for reporters lasted one hour and 40 minutes.

The conference is not an official UN function.

Carter, who has a degree in nuclear engineering, said the danger in the spread of peaceful nuclear power is not so much in the spread of nuclear reactors themselves. He said he was not advocating that the sale of nuclear reactors be halted.

"The far greater danger lies in the spread of facilities for the enrichment of uranium and the reprocessing of spent reactor fuel," Carter said, "because highly enriched uranium can be used to produce weapons; and because plutonium, when separated from the remainder of the spent fuel, can also be used to produce nuclear weapons."

Carter said the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna is considering ways to improve the protection of explosive material involved in the nuclear fuel cycle.

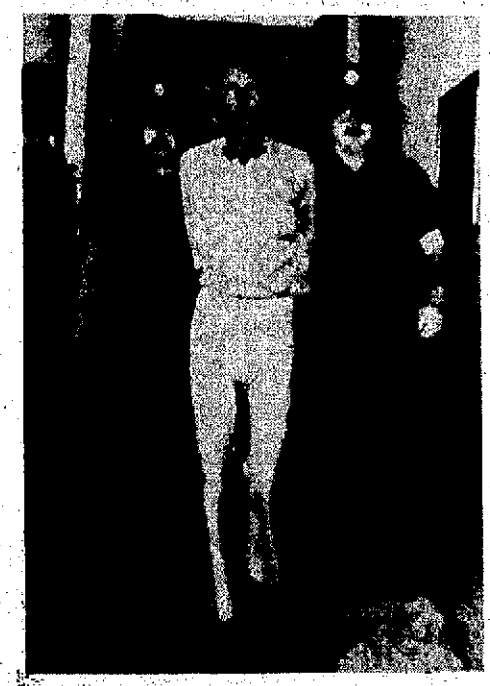

"Until such studies are completed, I call on all nations of the world to adopt a voluntary moratorium on the national purchase or sale of enrichment or reprocessing plants. I would hope this moratorium would apply to recently completed agreements," he said.

The recent agreements Carter cited, the source said, involved France and West Germany. France has sold a reprocessing plant to Pakistan and West Germany sold a reactor to Brazil offering plutonium technology in the deal.

The Carter campaign source said it is known that a substantial military element in Brazil wants that nation to have a nuclear bomb.

The United States and other nuclear powers have refused to export plutonium reprocessing plants. The other nuclear suppliers are the Soviet Union, Canada, Britain and Japan.

The United States has sold or is considering selling nuclear reactor plants to several foreign countries. However, the Ford administration has sought assurances that the plants would be used for only peaceful purposes.

14-Mile Effort Tops Paper Chain Record

HARTLAND, Mich. (AP) — Hartland Village Elementary Principal Thomas R. Sparrow is still basking in the glow of his students' longest accomplishment — a 14-mile paper chain that might be recorded in the Guinness Book of World's Records.

The 605 youngsters in the school's kindergarten through fourth grades looped the paper chain together May 7 during the school day.

"We had to finish by 3 p.m. because all of our kids are bused," Sparrow explained Wednesday.

The project was suggested by fourth grader Janet Amesse of Hartland, who said she read about a paper chain that was 8.5 miles long and she wanted to see if she and her classmates could top it.

The children used 160,000 strips of paper, most of it donated rolls of adding machines tapes from other schools in the area. They stapled the pieces together in the schoolyard.

When they were finished, the length was certified by two ministers from local churches for submission to the Guinness book.

The students broke off part of the chain and took the pieces home as souvenirs. But about seven miles of chain remained.

"I'm sorry to say we burned it," said Sparrow. "There was no place to put it and nobody wanted it."

U-M Gene Research Supported

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan regents should go ahead with revolutionary but potentially hazardous genetic research, says a national panel of researchers.

The panel of seven experts including four U-M professors and three nationally known experts in genetics and viral diseases says the research would be valuable and of "enormous" benefit to society.

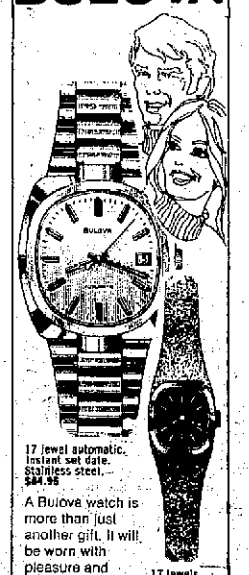

The research,, called DNA recombinant research, may permit scientists to create bacteria which can mass produce insulin for treating diabetes.

One member of the panel, Dr. Paul Berg, a Stanford University biochemist, told regents Wednesday the research will result in practical information.

Critics say the experiments also could result in creating new kinds of disease organisms or in organisms that could harm delicately balanced environmental systems.

Susan Wright, a science history professor who feels the research might be dangerous, said carelessness on the part of technicians could result in accidents.

Carter Asks N-Fuel Curb

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jimmy Carter today called for a worldwide voluntary moratorium on the purchase and sale of nuclear fuel enrichment and reprocessing plants "to make the spread of peaceful nuclear power less dangerous."

Speaking at a conference on nuclear energy and world order, the former Georgia governor and front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination presented a speech described by a source close to his campaign as his first attempt to set out a detailed statement on foreign policy.

The source said the prepared speech was the first in a series of major policy statements that Carter will offer, and that it represents a new stage in his campaign. A background session on the speech for reporters lasted one hour and 40 minutes.

The conference is not an official UN function.

Carter, who has a degree in nuclear engineering, said the danger in the spread of peaceful nuclear power is not so much in the spread of nuclear reactors themselves. He said he was not advocating that the sale of nuclear reactors be halted.

"The far greater danger lies in the spread of facilities for the enrichment of uranium and the reprocessing of spent reactor fuel," Carter said, "because highly enriched uranium can be used to produce weapons; and because plutonium, when separated from the remainder of the spent fuel, can also be used to produce nuclear weapons."

Carter said the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna is considering ways to improve the protection of explosive material involved in the nuclear fuel cycle.

"Until such studies are completed, I call on all nations of the world to adopt a voluntary moratorium on the national purchase or sale of enrichment or reprocessing plants. I would hope this moratorium would apply to recently completed agreements," he said.

The recent agreements Carter cited, the source said, involved France and West Germany. France has sold a reprocessing plant to Pakistan and West Germany sold a reactor to Brazil offering plutonium technology in the deal.

The Carter campaign source said it is known that a substantial military element in Brazil wants that nation to have a nuclear bomb.

The United States and other nuclear powers have refused to export plutonium reprocessing plants. The other nuclear suppliers are the Soviet Union, Canada, Britain and Japan.

The United States has sold or is considering selling nuclear reactor plants to several foreign countries. However, the Ford administration has sought assurances that the plants would be used for only peaceful purposes.

14-Mile Effort Tops Paper Chain Record

HARTLAND, Mich. (AP) — Hartland Village Elementary Principal Thomas R. Sparrow is still basking in the glow of his students' longest accomplishment — a 14-mile paper chain that might be recorded in the Guinness Book of World's Records.

The 605 youngsters in the school's kindergarten through fourth grades looped the paper chain together May 7 during the school day.

"We had to finish by 3 p.m. because all of our kids are bused," Sparrow explained Wednesday.

The project was suggested by fourth grader Janet Amesse of Hartland, who said she read about a paper chain that was 8.5 miles long and she wanted to see if she and her classmates could top it.

The children used 160,000 strips of paper, most of it donated rolls of adding machines tapes from other schools in the area. They stapled the pieces together in the schoolyard.

When they were finished, the length was certified by two ministers from local churches for submission to the Guinness book.

The students broke off part of the chain and took the pieces home as souvenirs. But about seven miles of chain remained.

"I'm sorry to say we burned it," said Sparrow. "There was no place to put it and nobody wanted it."

U-M Gene Research Supported

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan regents should go ahead with revolutionary but potentially hazardous genetic research, says a national panel of researchers.

The panel of seven experts including four U-M professors and three nationally known experts in genetics and viral diseases says the research would be valuable and of "enormous" benefit to society.

The research,, called DNA recombinant research, may permit scientists to create bacteria which can mass produce insulin for treating diabetes.

One member of the panel, Dr. Paul Berg, a Stanford University biochemist, told regents Wednesday the research will result in practical information.

Critics say the experiments also could result in creating new kinds of disease organisms or in organisms that could harm delicately balanced environmental systems.

Susan Wright, a science history professor who feels the research might be dangerous, said carelessness on the part of technicians could result in accidents.

Watervliet Hospital Hearing Postponed

By SANDRA ENGLE
Special Correspondent

WATERVLIET — A public hearing on rezoning land for the new Community hospital here was postponed until June 10 by the city commission last night because of a technicality in the city zoning ordinance.

Commissioners were notified last night by city Atty. F. A. (Mike) Jones and hospital Atty. Robert Coleman, Kalamazoo, that the city ordinance requires three publications of the notice for a public hearing and the hearing must be held 15 days after the third notice. The change pushed the hearing to the June date.

During an informal discussion over the rezoning request for 24.6 acres off Red Arrow highway, hospital officials answered questions from commissioners ranging from site location, costs and financing to plans for the old hospital building.

The hospital seeks to have the site rezoned from rural residential to single family dwelling restricted, a zone which would permit the hospital construction.

Also last night the city commission tentatively adopted a budget for 1976-77 that would mean a raise in the city property tax rate by one mill, from 15 to 16 mills.

In answers to a series of questions from commissioners, hospital board Chairman Richard Lindenberg, hospital administrator Howard Parker, E. C. Baiers, hospital board member and Gordon Knutson, fund drive chairman responded:

— It would cost some $800,000 more to remodel the old hospital than build the new $5.2 million building on a new site and then the old hospital would still not have parking, expansion room for the future or be efficiently designed.

— The location near Watervliet high school for the new facility was chosen because of its potential for expansion, nearness to city services such as water and sewage systems and it is centrally located for the population patterns of the area as determined by the state under its Comprehensive Health Care program. Another site that had been donated to the hospital could not be used, according to the officials, because it would have cost three times as much money as the other site to bring city sewer and water to the land provided the city would extend its lines to the property.

— Only 70 beds will be in the new hospital facility because that is the number of beds determined by the Michigan state plan for hospital and medical facilities. Additional beds would be costly to maintain and probably not in use and this would raise the cost of hospital care.

— Complaints from residents that they have not been informed of plans for the new facility were answered with the display of a large scrapbook of newspaper clippings of the hospital project, booklets answering many of the same questions commissioners asked have been distributed in the surrounding communities and Watervliet and plans for the hospital have been on display in each town. A public hearing on the hospital was also held to answer citizens questions.

— There will be no obstetrics department in the new hospital because the state health department wouldn't okay it. The department is putting pressure on hospitals to consolidate their obstetrics departments according to Parker. Lindenberg said officials met twice with state health officials and legislators to try and get an obstetrics department approved but it had been denied.

— Construction at another site does not mean the officials are moving locations just to have more parking space. The hospital plan calls for an additional 20,000 square feet in the building, the additional land is needed for a proposed medical-dental professional building and the Watervliet, Hartford and Coloma areas need this hospital to draw new doctors to the area. Lindenberg said a hospital committee to recruit new doctors to the area has produced no one because of the older hospital and doctors want office space to work with several other doctors to share the work load.

— Under old rules and regulations the current hospital was built to be able to meet expansion needs but the state health department changes its requirements often and the new hospital building could more easily and cheaply meet these requirements. With the "Y" shape design of the new building, additions can be added on the wings or on top of the building.

— The hospital is first on the list in Michigan for a Farmers Home administration loan for about $4.4 million in the 1976-77 fiscal year. Each month the hospital moves closer to construction about $40,000 is saved, according to Knutson.

Mayor Arvid Frazier told the officials that these questions asked by commissioners were in response to citizen's requests and not necessarily views held by the commissioners.

He added that he was perturbed that the city wasn't informed of the hospital plans because city sewer and water services might not be able to handle the load from the new hospital.

Lindenberg said the hospital board believed its architects and the state health department had consulted with the city over all these needs.

The commission will act formally on the hospital request at the public hearing in June set for 8 p.m. in city hall. The city zoning board has recommended approval of the rezoning request for the site.

In other business the commission tentatively adopted a budget of $338,510 for the year, about $54,354 more than last year's budget.

To cover increased costs the commission agreed that the city property taxe rate would have to be rasied by one mill, to 16 mills. No formal adoption of the increased mill was made pending a public hearing on the budget set for May 25 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The extra mill would raise about $10,115. Increases in the budget are mainly for replacement of the Butternut street bridge. It will cost some $44,000 in local funds.

Frazier also reported the North Berrien Senior Citizens center is requesting $500 for operations to serve senior citizens in the Watervliet - Coloma areas. The commission took the request under study.

The commission also congratulated Watervliet Lions on its award for the Blossomtime parade float and its first place prize. Commissioners plan to ask the float committee to store the float in the city garage so local residents could see it during the city's Memorial Day parade.

PRAISES U.S. POWER

ATLANTA (AP) — The United States has the nuclear power to deter any aggressor, but must not continue reducing its military budget, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld says.

Niles Man, 60, Beaten, Robbed

NILES — State police here said a 60-year-old Niles man was assaulted and robbed by two armed men who forced their way into his home last night.

Police said Carl Fisher, 2635 Creek road, told them he was knocked to the floor by the pair before they fled with cash and electronic equipment valued at $500.

According to police, the pair shot out a plate glass window with a shotgun before fleeing.

Fisher was treated and released from Pawating hospital, Niles.

Police said this morning that the two who participated in the robbery and a third, believed to have driven a get-away car, were still at large this morning.

Fisher told police he and his wife were at home when the two men, one armed with a shotgun, kicked in the door to his home shortly after 10 p.m. Police said the two ripped a telephone from the wall and then robbed Fisher of $10 cash and took assorted electronic equipment, including a citizens band radio and a record changer, valued at about $500.

As the two fled, one turned and fired a shotgun which shattered a large plate glass window, police said.

Troopers said the two men were described as white and in their late teens. One was about 5 feet 4 inches tall with long, brown hair in a pony tail.

Police said the second man was described only as being about 5 feet 3 inches.

No description was available on the driver of the car, police said.

State Home Inspections Ordered

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has ordered emergency inspections of all state-operated homes for juvenile delinquents in the aftermath of the closing of one home in Detroit because of health and safety problems. "We want to assure that we don't have any similar situations anywhere in the state," Joseph LaRosa, a deputy director of the state Department of Social Services, said Wednesday. The Jefferson Intake Center, a state-operated home for delinquents in Detroit, was shut this week by city officials because the roof leaked and toilets were plugged. The state Social Services Department says it has had neither the personnel nor the money to inspect the homes. State law places the responsibility of inspecting the homes with the social services department. The state operates 18 residential facilities serving more than 2,000 children each year.

Delinquent Father Owing

$13,664 Gets 90 Days

A Coloma father with a $13,664 child support arrearage for four children in three separate cases was sentenced Wednesday in Berrien Circuit court to concurrent 90-day jail terms. Judge William S. White imposed the sentence on Ronald Leo Brown, who was arrested on a probation violation warrant from the Berrien friend of the court's office. He was held in contempt of court and placed on an additional two years probation.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the friend of the court's office, said Brown had arrearages of $10,955 for two children not on ADC; $2,338 for one ADC child; and $371 for one child not on ADC.

Pastrick noted Brown was sentenced by White in early March to serve eight consecutive Sundays in jail, but only served two days of the term. Pastrick said Brown has paid only $12 on the largest arrearage in the past three years, and has made 30 payments on the $2,338 arrearage since October, 1971. Brown was ordered to pay $12 weekly support plus $10 weekly on the largest arrearage, and $6 weekly child support and $4 weekly towards the other two arrearages.

White also placed Rollie J. Pitts, of 142 Burton street, Benton township, on two years probation after holding him in contempt for $1,353 arrears for one child not on ADC. He was ordered to find work within 30 days or spend 30 days in jail, and if he does find employment, is to sign a wage assignment of $23 weekly support and $5 on the arrearage.

Judge Julian E. Hughes sentenced Darrell Roy Allen, of 777 East Napier, Benton township, to 90 days in jail for $5,686 arrears for three children on ADC after finding him in contempt and placing him on two years probation. Pastrick said Allen has made 30 support payments since March, 1972.

Hartford Township Puts

Millage On August Ballot

HARTFORD — Hartford township residents will vote in August on a one-mill property tax levy for financing a new township hall and on whether to renew a two-mill levy for road improvements.

The Hartford township board last night voted to place both propositions on the Aug. 3 primary ballot. If approved, the one-mill levy would run for three years and the two-mill renewal would run for four years, according to Supervisor Donald Drake.

He said the two mills for road improvements would raise about $26,000, all of which would be applied to improving and repairing the 48½ miles of township roads. The township budgets about $30,000 a year for road improvements. Most of that comes from the two-mill levy, he said.

If the one-mill levy is approved, a new township hall would be built on township-owned land on CR-687 just north of I-94, Drake said. The board has made preliminary plans for a one-story structure with offices for the clerk, treasurer and supervisor and a larger meeting room for voting and public meetings.

Drake said the township now has about $22,000 in a building fund and the one mill, if approved, would raise about $13,000 each year.

Drake said the estimated cost would depend on how large a building the board finally decides upon.

The last township hall, which was owned jointly with the City of Hartford, burned down in 1972. The township now shares rent with the city for offices on Main street in Hartford.

In other areas, the four board members whose terms of office expire this November all announced they will seek re-election.

Seeking two-year terms will be Drake, Mrs. Helen Mayhak, clerk, and Edward Eilerman, treasurer. Trustee Louis Kling will seek another four-year term. All are Republicans.

Brown was ordered to pay $12 weekly support plus $10 weekly on the largest arrearage, and $6 weekly child support and $4 weekly towards the other two arrearages.

White also placed Rollie J. Pitts, of 142 Burton street, Benton township, on two years probation after holding him in contempt for $1,353 arrears for one child not on ADC. He was ordered to find work within 30 days or spend 30 days in jail, and if he does find employment, is to sign a wage assignment of $23 weekly support and $5 on the arrearage.

Judge Julian E. Hughes sentencted Darrell Roy Allen, of 777 East Napier, Benton township, to 60 days in jail for $5,886 arrears for three children on ADC after finding him in contempt and placing him on two years probation. Pastrick said Allen has made 30 support payments since March, 1972.

FAMILY HOUR PLAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The Hospital of St. Raphael has inaugurated a special "family hour" for young children to visit their mother and new brother or sister.

Hartford Township Puts Millage On August Ballot

HARTFORD — Hartford township residents will vote in August on a one-mill property tax levy for financing a new township hall and on whether to renew a two-mill levy for road improvements.

The Hartford township board last night voted to place both propositions on the Aug. 3 primary ballot. If approved, the one-mill levy would run for three years and the two-mill renewal would run for four years, according to Supervisor Donald Drake.

He said the two mills for road improvements would raise about $26,000, all of which would be applied to improving and repairing the 48½ miles of township roads. The township budgets about $30,000 a year for road improvements. Most of that comes from the two-mill levy, he said.

If the one-mill levy is approved, a new township hall would be built on township-owned land on CR-687 just north of I-94, Drake said. The board has made preliminary plans for a one-story structure with offices for the clerk, treasurer and supervisor and a larger meeting room for voting and public meetings.

Drake said the township now has about $22,000 in a building fund and the one mill, if approved, would raise about $13,000 each year.

Drake said the estimated cost would depend on how large a building the board finally decides upon.

The last township hall, which was owned jointly with the City of Hartford, burned down in 1972. The township now shares rent with the city for offices on Main street in Hartford.

In other areas, the four board members whose terms of office expire this November all announced they will seek re-election.

Seeking two-year terms will be Drake, Mrs. Helen Mayhak, clerk, and Edward Eilerman, treasurer. Trustee Louis Kling will seek another four-year term. All are Republicans.

Patty's Competency Still Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mental condition, the subject of intense debate since her kidnaping more than two years ago, still is an issue as she prepares for her second trial.

Her attorney raised it again Wednesday in asking that Miss Hearst not be required to enter a plea to kidnap, assault and robbery charges because there is doubt as to her mental competence. Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler set May 28 for a hearing on the question.

The newspaper heiress' appearance in court was her first since suffering a collapsed lung last month. It also marked the first time since last September that she has been in the same room with two Symbionese Liberation Army members who were her fugitive traveling companions — William and Emily Harris.

All three are charged with 11 felony counts stemming from a May 1974 crime spree.

Butz To Give 'New Evidence'

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he's prepared to offer "new evidence" to a Senate subcommittee trying to determine whether former Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway used improper pressure to win permission to expand his Colorado ski resort on federal land.

But Butz, scheduled to testify today as the Interior Committee's subcommittee on the environment resumes its hearings, wasn't saying in advance exactly what the "new evidence" would be.

Subcommittee chairman Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., said in an interview that he's got no idea what's on Butz' mind — unless Butz plans to follow through on an earlier claim that he's prepared to list members of Congress who have sought to influence Forest Service decisions.

The panel is attempting to determine whether Callaway, as Army secretary and later as chairman of President Ford's election committee, used improper influence to get the Forest Service to approve expansion of his Crested Butte ski resort onto a nearby federal mountain.

The service, which is part of the Agriculture Department, tentatively approved the expansion in December, overruling a preliminary recommendation against the expansion.

Those witnesses, Crested Butte Mayor Tom Glass, Gunnison County, Colo., Judge John Levin and Myles Arber, a Crested Butte newspaper publisher, were scheduled to testify following Butz.

Callaway Prober Also Intervened

DENVER (AP) — Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., whose Senate subcommittee is investigating Howard H. Callaway's allegedly improper role in a ski resort case, intervened himself on behalf of a proposed winter sports development, government records show.

In a 1973 letter to the head of the U.S. Forest Service, John McGuire, Haskell asked the agency to remove 8,000 acres from land under study for designation as a wilderness area. The land figures in plans by a Skokie, Ill., developer to build a ski area on San Juan National Forest land in Colorado.

"I would like to request that you give serious consideration to deleting an area in Archuleta County, Colorado, from your Final Environmental Statement which lists Roadless and Undeveloped Areas to be considered for possible wilderness designation," Haskell wrote.

Speaking from his Washington office Wednesday night, Haskell said the letter was "routine" and denied it was an effort to exert political pressure on the Forest Service.

MISS WORLD NO PROBLEM

Chrissie's Really Relaxed

Q: If tennis star Jimmy Connors is going with this ex-Miss World, Marjorie Wallace, as you say, is Chris Evert out of the picture for good? — I.M., Amarillo, Tex.

A: Chrissie says she isn't worried at all. She believes that she and "Jimbo" Connors are somehow fated by the stars to end up together. So what he does in the meantime, she claims, doesn't bother her. With that kind of relaxed attitude, how does she keep on winning tennis matches?

Q: Is Peter Sellers going to do another "Pink Panther" movie? I love him as the French detective. — G.D., Santa Fe, N.M.

A: He's busy doing another right now. A little hitch developed in the shooting of the next installment of the Inspector Clouseau series, however, when co-star Swedish actress Maude Adams balked at a nude scene and was fired. To take her place they selected the more agreeable Lesley Anne Down. Lesley was delighted to get the part, nude scene or not, although it was quite a departure from her latest success as the prim Georgina in TV's "Upstairs, Downstairs."

Q: Now starts the big question game. Who will replace Barbara Walters on the 'Today' show? — B.L., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: The first name we hear is Betsy Palmer.

Q: Is Jackie Onassis supposed to be a fashionable dresser? — O.L., Beloit, Wisc.

A: By the standards of Women's Wear Daily, the Bible of the fashion world, she's a disaster. Jackie obviously holds a different view. A woman stopped her recently and asked if grey was the new "in" color because Jackie was wearing it so much. Mrs. Onassis was quoted as replying, "If I wear it, it's fashionable."

Q: I keep reading that Jayne Mansfield's daughter is going to embark on a theatrical career. What has she done? — L.O., Montgomery, Ala.

A: Jayne Marie, 23, the late star's only child by her first husband, Paul Mansfield, has been giving a lot of interviews telling her plans for a career but little seems to be happening. Jayne says she never saw a dime from her mother's estate which all went to pay debts and to her mother's next-to-last husband, Mickey Hargitay, who is taking care of the other four children. Jayne Marie was barely getting along as a secretary and hairdresser until she spoke to actor Walter Matthau on the street one day and he introduced her to an agent. Now she is studying acting and giving interviews.

Q: Is it true tha Tony Curtis has written a novel? — J.F., Bismarck, N.D.

A: He has and he says it has changed his life. Tony sold the book, called "Kid Andrew Cody and Julie Sparrow," to Doubleday through super-agent Irving Lazar for a spectacular advance payment. Previously, writing had just been a hobby for Curtis who has little formal education. But now he's delighted to find himself no longer depending on movies for a living and he is already well into novel number two. Tony never got an Oscar but how about a Pulitzer?

Q: Is Suzy Hunt, Richard Burton's current companion, pressing him to get a divorce from Elizabeth Taylor? — A.C., New Orleans, La.

A: Suzy seems perfectly content to let everything ride just as it is. Her husband, race driver James Hunt, visited her in New York a few weeks ago and Suzy dropped in on him for a couple of days at his place in Marbella, Spain, during a recent European trip. Following these conferences Suzy is saying that her husband is enjoying his freedom and she and Richard are happy so why should anything be changed?

Q: Now that Angelica Huston is back with Academy Award winner Jack Nicholson, is he still friends with his old pal, Ryan O'Neal, who took Angelica away from him for a bit? — H.S., Terre Haute, Ind.

A: When these two "old buddies" came face to face in a Beverly Hills restaurant the other day, the exchange was not friendly at all, but rather a duel at 10 paces with hard, menacing glares. O'Neal was the one who blinked first and looked away. Nicholson may be a bit older than the muscular O'Neal but when it comes to glares, Jack is the champ. Can't beat those deep-set eyes.

Meat Rules Too Rigid, GAO Says

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon specifications for beef served to servicemen are too rigid, drive up the price of military meat and cost taxpayers unnecessary millions of dollars each year, a congressional auditor says.

Richard W. Gutmann of the General Accounting Office said today military meat-buying requirements are "unusual and confusing," making the meat purchased by the Defense Department far more expensive than that bought by other government institutions.

Gutmann made the comments in testimony prepared for a Senate Government Operations subcommittee's third day of hearings into a multimillion-dollar military meat purchasing scandal.

The panel is studying allegations that officials of two New England meat-packing houses sold substandard beef to the military while plying Army inspectors with bribes, gifts and other favors, including prostitutes.

Gutmann said the GAO, an investigatory wing of Congress, concluded that the high price paid by the military for beef is a direct result of "stringent requirements" that need to be eased.

As an example, he said the Defense Department and the Veterans Administration both awarded contracts for 30,000 pounds of diced beef on the same day last October. But he said the military paid $1.54 per pound and the VA paid $1.12 per pound.

In another instance, he said, both agencies bought approximately the same amount of pot roasts, but the military paid $1.80 per pound and the VA paid $1.19 per pound.

"If these differences were applicable to the total defense purchases of diced beef and pot roast for fiscal year 1975, the Defense Department paid an excess $9.4 million for these cuts of beef," Gutmann said.

Congress Moves To Close Tax Loopholes Of Rich

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rich investors whose large deductions for interest and other expenses allow them to escape paying federal income tax may be in for an unpleasant surprise when they file their tax forms next year.

The House and the Senate Finance Committee have voted to close some loopholes and raise taxes of the wealthy by about $1 billion a year.

The Senate committee, in voting 10 to 6 Wednesday for tightening the loopholes, also approved a $270-million tax break for wealthy Americans who do pay large sums to the federal government.

Congressional tax experts had no immediate estimate of how many persons would benefit from that tax break, aimed at those who now pay as much as 70 per cent of their income to the government.

But they said that under the plan for cracking down on investors who don't pay taxes, the number of persons subject to a minimum tax would jump from the current 30,000 to 40,000 to some 540,000.

The current minimum tax on the type of shelters used by those who pay no taxes is 10 per cent.

Under the Senate committee's plan, the tax rate would be raised to 15 per cent, a $30,000 exemption would be removed and the individual would be allowed to subtract his regular income tax or $5,000, whichever is higher, from the minimum he would have to pay.

This would raise the minimum tax for those already paying it and would increase the number of persons subject to the tax, experts say.

The House approved a similar plan that would bring in slightly more money but would apply to only 130,000 wealthy Americans.

The loophole-tightening plan adopted by the Senate panel fell short of what liberals demanded. But chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said, "I think it's about the best we could hope to achieve at this time. I don't think you are going to get to heaven in just one leap."

The Senate committee approved the $270-million tax break for the rich at the insistence of Long. This was done by allowing a lower rate of taxation on a share of investment income, such as that from rent and dividends, to those who now pay large tax bills.

The Internal Revenue Service released a report last week showing that the minimum tax, adopted in 1969, is not assuring that every individual with significant income pays some federal tax.

IRS reported that 244 individuals with incomes above $200,000 and 3,053 persons making $50,000 to $200,000 paid no tax in 1974. Five of them are millionaries.

The heat pump heats and cools... saves money and energy.

During the Summer

The heat pump takes heat from inside your home and moves it outside. Hence, your home becomes cooler it's air conditioned.

During the Winter

It automatically reverses. Now heat is taken from the outside air and moved into your home. This works even with temperatures well below freezing. Thus, even in wintry climates, heat can be obtained from the the air

Doesn't Burn Oil or Gas

The heat pump operates on electricity, doesn't use up fuels like oil or gas that are in short supply. And because the heat pump is just moving heat it's extremely efficient. Right now it will save money on heating costs, and as fuels become scarcer, it is expected that the savings will be greater.

The Hi/Re/Li heat pump is ruggedly built to give years of dependable, efficient service . . . another Westinghouse product designed to meet the needs of people in today's shift to an electric economy.

For summer or winter comfort the Westinghouse Hi/Re/Li Comfort system is the most efficient heating and cooling system your money can buy.

Westinghouse makes it happen

WHAT IS IT?

THE WESTINGHOUSE Hi/Re/Li Heat Pump

Some heat exists even in the coldest artic air. As long as temperatures can be recorded (even far below zero), it's possible to take this heat from the air. Westinghouse engineers used this knowledge to develop a unit that can take heat from the outdoor air and transfer it into your home. This same remarkable unit can work in reverse by taking heat from inside your home and moving it outdoors. Thus, we now have one unit capable of handling both the heating and cooling needs of your home, automatically.

This one unit is naturally more economical than two units used for the same purpose. Certainly, it's more reliable because it's more efficient. Think about this for a minute. When you have two units — one for heating and one for cooling — only one is really working . . . the other is idle. Also, this one unit — The Westinghouse Hi/Re/Li Heat Pump — is convenience itself . . . simply set the thermostat and forget it.

Now . . . thanks to a Better Idea, you can be the master of your indoor climate.

Bibical Scholars Awaiting Publication Of Key Scroll

JERUSALEM (AP) — Scholars are awaiting publication this year of what they feel may be one of the most important Dead Sea Scrolls ever found.

The so-called "Temple Scroll" is expected to throw new light on life in the Holy Land around Christ's time.

The scroll is being deciphered by an Israeli archeologist, Prof. Yigael Yadin, who has been associated with the scrolls since they first were discovered in 1947 and were proclaimed the greatest find in the annals of Biblical history.

Yadin purchased the "Temple Scroll" from an Arab merchant in Bethlehem in 1967. The merchant had previously bought the scroll from Bedouin tribesmen who found it in a cave. From his archeological sources Yadin learned the merchant had the scroll and as soon as Israeli forces moved into Bethlehem in the 1967 Middle East war, he went there to bargain and make the purchase.

Yadin has disclosed some section of it which illuminate in detail the Ten Commandments and the 603 Biblical orders on Jewish custom that are attached to them.

The scroll also carries exact specifications for the building of the great Jewish temple in Jerusalem.

The entire work will be published in English and Hebrew by the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and, in the words of one expert, will provide "dramatic new data" on the Essenes, the ascetic Jewish community that lived on the shores of the Dead Sea 20 miles east of Jerusalem and wrote the scrolls, which remained hidden for about 20 centuries.

The hiding places were chosen by the author, a monkish Jewish sect who fled the increasingly secular atmosphere of Jerusalem for the brooding silence and moon-like landscape of Qumran, on the Dead Sea.

Here they penned copies of the Jewish Torah, books of the prophets, commentaries on the Bible and works on Jewish customs and codes.

The Bible texts were the earliest known copies of the holy book, and in most cases were remarkably similar to the translations written centuries later and adopted by Judaism and Christianity.

Yadin's scroll also will add new dimensions to the Book of Ezekiel and the story of the dry bones brought to life by God, says Prof Erie Myers of Duke University in North Carolina. And director of Jerusalem's W. F. Albright Institute of Archaeological Research.

Yadin is keeping the bulk of his work secret until publication, and no details are known of its content, other then the small sections Yadin has chosen to reveal in lectures.

The "Temple Scroll" is just one of 600 Dead Sea works found since the first scrolls were discovered by a Bedouin shepherd in a cave by the Dead Sea.

They range from the mammoth 19-foot-long "Temple Scroll" to tiny fragments whose context and meaning can be decoded only by painstaking deduction. Each fragment that does not appear to belong to a known work is listed as one of the 600 scrolls.

At least half the scrolls are still being deciphered amid an atmosphere of political animosity generated by Middle East hostilities.

Many of the scrolls were in the hands of the Jordanian government and were stored in museums in the Arab section of Jerusalem. They fell into Israeli control when the Arab sector was captured in 1967.

Scholars in East Jerusalem institutions, such as the French Ecole Biblique, reject the notion of Israeli jurisdiction. On the other hand, Magen Broshi, curator of the Israel Museum scrolls, speaks of all 600 items as being Israel's.

Publication of one volume of material deciphered by an international committee of scholars chosen under Jordanian auspices has been delayed for two years because the scholars refused to have the title of the Israeli government on the flyleaf.

"It's a shame that politics intruded," says one expert. "It slowed down the work." Broshi says the scholars "are in no hurry," and still have hundreds of items to decode.

Experts in Jerusalem, the United States, England and France continue to pore over fragments, using infrared cameras to bring out script that has faded from sight during nearly 2,000 years of burial in caves.

WHY LAKE SHORE DRIVE IS CLOSED: Lake Shore drive bridge over Chesapeake & Ohio railway tracks in St. Joseph is being dismantled in preparation for installation of new bridge deck. Bridge was built in 1931, but concrete support piers are sound and will remain, according to State Highway department. R.W. Lamb of Holland is contractor for $274,000 job. Completion is scheduled in August. Meanwhile, traffic is detoured over Cleveland avenue and Hilltop road. (Walter M. Booth photo)

ON MARCH 29, 1776, Gen. Henry Clinton waited impatiently at Cape Fear, N.C., for the arrival of an overdue expedition of British Army reserves to relieve his weary troops. They did not arrive and Clinton had to withdraw. When the fleet, under the command of Sir Peter Parker, landed on April 19, they were surprised to learn that patriots, and not Tories, were in control of the colony and the harbor, The World Almanac notes.

Bibical Scholars Awaiting Publication Of Key Scroll

JERUSALEM (AP) — Scholars are awaiting publication this year of what they feel may be one of the most important Dead Sea Scrolls ever found.

The so-called "Temple Scroll" is expected to throw new light on life in the Holy Land around Christ's time.

The scroll is being deciphered by an Israeli archeologist, Prof. Yigael Yadin, who has been associated with the scrolls since they first were discovered in 1947 and were proclaimed the greatest find in the annals of Biblical history.

Yadin purchased the "Temple Scroll" from an Arab merchant in Bethlehem in 1967. The merchant had previously bought the scroll from Bedouin tribesmen who found it in a cave. From his archeological sources Yadin learned the merchant had the scroll and as soon as Israeli forces moved into Bethlehem in the 1967 Middle East war, he went there to bargain and make the purchase.

Yadin has disclosed some section of it which illuminate in detail the Ten Commandments and the 603 Biblical orders on Jewish custom that are attached to them.

The scroll also carries exact specifications for the building of the great Jewish temple in Jerusalem.

The entire work will be published in English and Hebrew by the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and, in the words of one expert, will provide "dramatic new data" on the Essenes, the ascetic Jewish community that lived on the shores of the Dead Sea 20 miles east of Jerusalem and wrote the scrolls, which remained hidden for about 20 centuries.

The hiding places were chosen by the author, a monkish Jewish sect who fled the increasingly secular atmosphere of Jerusalem for the brooding silence and moon-like landscape of Qumran, on the Dead Sea.

Here they penned copies of the Jewish Torah, books of the prophets, commentaries on the Bible and works on Jewish customs and codes.

The Bible texts were the earliest known copies of the holy book, and in most cases were remarkably similar to the translations written centuries later and adopted by Judaism and Christianity.

Yadin's scroll also will add new dimensions to the Book of Ezekiel and the story of the dry bones brought to life by God, says Prof Eric Myers of Duke University in North Carolina. And director of Jerusalem's W. F. Albright Institute of Archaelogical Research.

Yadin is keeping the bulk of his work secret until publication, and no details are known of its content, other then the small sections Yadin has chosen to reveal in lectures.

The "Temple Scroll" is just one of 600 Dead Sea works found since the first scrolls were discovered by a Bedouin shepherd in a cave by the Dead Sea.

They range from the mammoth 19-foot-long "Temple Scroll" to tiny fragments whose context and meaning can be decoded only by painstaking deduction. Each fragment that does not appear to belong to a known work is listed as one of the 600 scrolls.

At least half the scrolls are still being deciphered amid an atmosphere of political animosity generated by Middle East hostilities.

Many of the scrolls were in the hands of the Jordanian government and were stored in museums in the Arab section of Jerusalem. They fell into Israeli control when the Arab sector was captured in 1967.

Scholars in East Jerusalem institutions, such as the French Ecole Biblique, reject the notion of Israeli jurisdiction. On the other hand, Magen Broshi, curator of the Israel Museum scrolls, speaks of all 600 items as being Israel's.

Publication of one volume of material deciphered by an international committee of scholars chosen under Jordanian auspices has been delayed for two years because the scholars refused to have the title of the Israeli government on the flyleaf.

"It's a shame that politics intruded," says one expert. "It slowed down the work." Broshi says the scholars "are in no hurry," and still have hundreds of items to decode.

Experts in Jerusalem, the United States, England and France continue to pore over fragments, using infrared cameras to bring out script that has faded from sight during nearly 2,000 years of burial in caves.

WHY LAKE SHORE DRIVE IS CLOSED: Lake Shore drive bridge over Chesapeake & Ohio railway tracks in St. Joseph is being dismantled in preparation for installation of new bridge deck. Bridge was built in 1931, but concrete support piers are sound and will remain, according to State Highway department. R.W. Lamb of Holland is contractor for $274,000 job. Completion is scheduled in August. Meanwhile, traffic is detoured over Cleveland avenue and Hilltop road. (Walter M. Booth photo)

ON MARCH 29, 1776, Gen. Henry Clinton waited impatiently at Cape Fear, N.C., for the arrival of an overdue expedition of British Army reserves to relieve his weary troops. They did not arrive and Clinton had to withdraw. When the fleet, under the command of Sir Peter Parker, landed on April 19, they were surprised to learn that patriots, and not Tories, were in control of the colony and the harbor, The World Almanac notes.

'Little' American Tackles Big Bank

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — Robert Sitarzewski calls himself "just one of 217 million average Americans." He's challenged the nation's third largest bank to a debate on economic issues, and Richard W. Everett, a vice president and chief economist for Chase Manhattan Corp., has accepted. On Friday night, Everett and Sitarzewski will meet in this Mississippi River community of 10,000 to argue a bank plan to improve the national economy.

Chase Manhattan ran an advertisement in Business Week magazine last September predicting that without major changes, one in six persons would be unemployed and there would be a $1.5 trillion capital shortage for industrial development by 1985. It promoted its plan to stimulate the availability of capital by encouraging personal savings, providing more tax exemptions for industry and urging foreign investment in the United States.

The advertisement ended with a promise that the bank would "argue the point, anytime, anywhere."

"I got angry at the ad," said Sitarzewski. "I've read a lot about the subject and know that about half the experts say there will be a capital shortage and the other half say there won't be."

So Sitarzewski wrote Chase Manhattan President David Rockefeller, saying he believed the bank's program "is completely wrong and I don't think you know what you're talking about." An aide wrote back: "Mr. Rockefeller was pleased that you have given the issue extensive thought." No mention of a debate was made.

"So I sent them another letter, saying they should live up to the pledge in their ad," said Sitarzewski. "On Jan. 1, I got a letter from another bank official saying he hoped the bank would live up to its word." Everett was assigned the debate. He said the bank was slow in responding to Sitarzewski's challenge because officials were "surprised."

'Little' American Tackles Big Bank

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — Robert Sitarzewski calls himself "just one of 217 million average Americans." He's challenged the nation's third largest bank to a debate on economic issues, and Richard W. Everett, a vice president and chief economist for Chase Manhattan Corp., has accepted. On Friday night, Everett and Sitarzewski will meet in this Mississippi River community of 10,000 to argue a bank plan to improve the national economy.

Chase Manhattan ran an advertisement in Business Week magazine last September predicting that without major changes, one in six persons would be unemployed and there would be a $1.5 trillion capital shortage for industrial development by 1985. It promoted its plan to stimulate the availablity of capital by encouraging personal savings, providing more tax exemptions for industry and urging foreign investment in the United States.

The advertisement ended with a promise that the bank would "argue the point, anytime, anywhere."

"I got angry at the ad," said Sitarzewski. "I've read a lot about the subject and know that about half the experts say there will be a capital shortage and the other half say there won't be."

So Sitarzewski wrote Chase Manhattan President David Rockefeller, saying he believed the bank's program "is completely wrong and I don't think you know what you're talking about." An aide wrote back: "Mr. Rockefeller was pleased that you have given the issue extensive thought." No mention of a debate was made.

"So I sent them another letter, saying they should live up to the pledge in their ad," said Sitarzewski. "On Jan. 1, I got a letter from another bank official saying he hoped the bank would live up to its word." Everett was assigned the debate. He said the bank was slow in responding to Sitarzewski's challenge because officials were "surprised."

Red Sox Snap Out Of Losing Spell

Witch Brews Boston Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Eye of newt and toe of frog,
Wool of bat and tongue of dog.
Three bloop hits, a fly, a balk
Ended all the panic talk.
Witch from Massachusetts came;
Boston's Red Sox won a game.

Make room in the Witches' Hall of Fame for Laurie Cabot.

For 12 days in May and the last seven in April, the Red Sox hadn't won a game as the Texas Rangers, Kansas City Royals and Cleveland Indians cast 10 consecutive spells over the defending American League champs, the club's longest losing streak since 1960.

Manager Darrell Johnson, at a loss what to do, kept sending the same pitchers out day after losing day. Then, a Boston radio station signed a free-agent witch, Laurie Cabot of Salem, Mass., to do something about the hex.

"I don't know a thing about baseball," she said.

A slow-starting witch, it took her 11 innings to come up with the right spell. She said incantations are not part of her routine, but rather the use clairvoyance.

So with Ms. Cabot sitting behind the Boston dugout in flowing black witch's garb, Doug Griffin, leading off the 12th, clairvoyanced a bloop single off Dave LaRoche and, after a sacrifice, so did Cecil Cooper. That sent Griffin to third and he scored the tie-breaking run on Carl Yastrzemski's long fly. Cooper took third on a another bloop hit by Rick Miller and scored — hex, hex! — on a balk by Turn Buskey, giving the Red Sox a 6-4 witchery — er, victory — over the Indians. Earlier, errors by first baseman John Lowenstein contributed to a pair of unearned Boston runs while Cleveland had one runner cut down at the plate and another at third.

"Those are things that have usually been happening to us," Johnson said. "I'm glad it happened to somebody else for a change."

In games played without resorting to the occult, the New York Yankees edged the Detroit Tigers 7-6, the Baltimore Orioles used a grand slam by Reggie Jackson to defeat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6, the Kansas City Royals clobbered the Minnesota Twins 17-5 and the Texas Rangers nipped the California Angels 1-0. Oakland and Chicago had the night off.

Reggie Jackson blasted his first home run for Baltimore, a grand slam that keyed a sixrun sixth inning. Jackson's blast off rookie left-hander Jerry Augustine gave the Orioles a 7-6 lead. Lee May homered on the next pitch for the final run.

Rookie Tom Poquette drove in four runs with two doubles and a triple and Al Cowens drove in four more with a pair of doubles as the Royals pounded out a club record 22 hits. Every Royal starter scored at least one run and got at least one hit.

KC starter Steve Busby was removed in the fifth. The Royals announced the ace righthander experienced stiffness and soreness in the pitching shoulder which hampered him earlier in the year.

Consecutive singles by Mike Hargrove, Toby Harrah and Jeff Burroughs with one out in the eighth inning produced the only run of the game as the Rangers edged California behind the nine-hit pitching of ex-Angel Bill Singer.

WITCH POWER: Laurie Cabot, a self-proclaimed witch from Salem, Mass., demonstrates her witch power as she lays her hands on the bat of Boston Red Sox player Bernie Carbo before the Red Sox' game Wednesday night with the Cleveland Indians. She flew in by plane...not broomstick...and saw the Red Sox end their 10-game losing streak by downing the Indians 6-4 in 11 innings. (AP Wirephoto)

Warriors Take Edge By Wiping Out Suns

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors played it safe this time against the Phoenix Suns.

"I never felt we were in control," said Warriors guard Charles Johnson, although the scoreboard was in disagreement through most of the National Basketball Association playoff game which ended with Golden State on top 111-93 Wednesday night.

Three days earlier in Phoenix, the Warriors felt they had earned a victory and wound up losers in double overtime.

"We had that game won four or five times and let it get away. A lot of us were awfully upset about that," said Phil Smith, top scorer with 25 points in the Wednesday night victory which gave the Warriors a 3-2 advantage in the best-of-seven series for the Western Conference championship.

The sixth game, Friday night in Phoenix, could end the championship dreams of the underdog Suns, but Coach John MacLeod noted, "We're just down three games to two and we're certainly not going to give up."

They gave the defending champion Warriors, who led by 19 points at halftime, cause for some concern by twice cutting the difference to 10 points in the second half even after losing star center Alvan Adams, the NBA's Rookie of the Year.

Adams slipped and sprained his left ankle in the opening minutes of the third period. MacLeod said, "He wasn't able to go back in the game, but it's just a mild sprain and we're hoping he'll be ready Friday night."

Golden State zipped into a 40-24 lead after one period, with Smith and Johnson scoring 10 points apiece and center Cliff Ray adding nine. Rick Barry scored 10 of his 23 points in the second quarter.

Phoenix outscored the Warriors in the second half, when Curtis Perry got most of his 23 points and game-high 18 rebounds.

VANDERBUSH FAMILY: The Vanderbush family has played an important role in the athletic success this season at Buchanan high school. The family (from left to right) consists of Kevin and Walt Jr., standouts in both basketball and baseball, parents Patience and Walt and Patience Jr., who presently tops the Buck girls softball team in hitting. Sports Is Way Of Life For Vanderbush Family

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

BUCHANAN — Buchanan principal Walt Vanderbush might be called a dedicated father.

But to his sons Walt Jr. and Kevin and daughter Patience, he's more than just "Dad."

"In effect we've always had an extra coach," Walt Jr. says. "He still points out things that we do wrong."

And the domineering figure of Walt Sr. can be seen at every Buchanan baseball game in the bleachers keeping score. The same was true during the basketball season as the elder Vanderbush was seated in the top row of the bleachers for every contest.

But then sports have always been an intregal part of the Vanderbush family. Walt Sr. coached basketball for 13 years — eight at New York's Hilton high school and five more at three Pennsylvania schools. His wife Patience Sr. was voted the outstanding athlete of her high school class at Downingtown, Pa.

And the success has continued into the next generation. Walt and Kevin were the starting guards on Buchanan's Class C state basketball champions and the duo form the nucleus of the Buck baseball team, which leads the Blossomland conference. Walt heads the pitching staff with a 6-2 record, 0.68 earned run average and 107 strikeouts in just 51-2/3 innings. Kevin stands at 3-1 with a 0.57 ERA and also leads the team in hitting with a .353 batting mark.

Patience, on the other hand, was selected to both the Blossomland all-conference girls basketball and volleyball teams and is leading the Buck girls' softball team with better than a .500 batting average.

The success does not stop at the high school level, either. Kevin won the CanAmer tennis tournament last summer, while Patience Sr. and Jr. and Walt Sr. and Jr. are the defending champs respectively in the Buchanan Recreation Ladies' and Mens' doubles tennis tournaments.

Patience Jr. won the National Flatwater Kayak Championship in 1973, 74, and 75 in the 15 and under class, while Kevin did likewise in the same class in 1974.

The family agrees that the athletic background played an important role in the success of the children.

"I've played ball with them since they were old enough to walk," Walt Sr. says. "When I was a coach, they always came to the practices. They were my assistant managers, but they would bring gym clothes and dress just like the other team members.

"I think that the fact that my wife and I were interested in sports had a lot to do with it," he adds. "We were always going and playing games all the time and I think that had some influence. This will sometimes have an effect when someone has the ability to play and is encouraged to play."

Though Walt Sr. shrugs off the suggestion that his tips to his children may have had an effect on their performance, the kids agree that it's been a factor.

"He's driven me to work harder," Kevin says. "During the middle of a particular season, it begins to feel like hard work and I sometimes feel like quitting. But he's always made me give everything a chance and stick it out for awhile. In the end I'm always glad I did."

Walt adds, "We've never had a problem getting equipment or a ride to a game because he's always there."

The elder Vanderbush believes any father would do the same for his own children.

"I think that any father who is interested in his kid's athletics will make suggestions to them," he says. "But I always tell them that if anything I say is contradictory to the coach's way, do it his way."

Patience received help from both her father and her mother in getting her athletic start.

"Because of my parents' interest in athletics, I got interested," she says. "I've always played with my brothers because for much of the time there was no girl's sports.

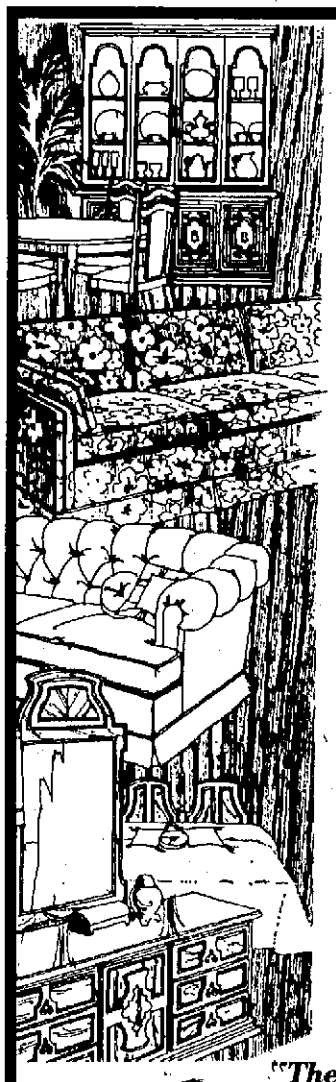

"Mother helps me more on the mental aspects of the game. She can be very encouraging and make you feel better when you're down. Also, my father has always been there if I ever needed help in anything."

The thing which pleases Walt Jr. the most has been the tremendous support his parents have given the children.

"It's nice to have support," he says. "It always helps to have the family interested because there are highs and lows in every sport. When you're on top, they celebrate. And when you're low, they are always around for support."

Three-Error Play Dooms Detroit

Yanks Run While Tigers Bobble

NEW YORK (AP) — Run, sheep, run, Casey Stengel used to say.

And that's exactly what the New York Yankees did in one hilarious sequence that produced two runs and three Detroit errors on one play, just enough to give the Yanks a 7-6 triumph over the Tigers Wednesday night.

Lou Piniella opened the New York fourth against reliever Bill Laxton with his second home run of the season and the Tigers then donated the two runs that eventually cost them the game.

Following one-out singles by Jim Mason and Mickey Rivers, Roy White lifted a fly ball to center field. Ron LeFlore dropped it, but recovered in time to throw Mason out at the plate as he tried to score from second base. However, catcher John Wockenfuss, thinking it was the third out, rolled the ball toward the mound and the speedy Rivers kept running and scored easily.

Laxton retrieved the ball and heaved it wildly past third base, allowing White to romp home with what proved to be the winning run.

"I can't remember anything quite like that," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk, who will do his best to forget it. "I just looked on in amazement. I wasn't sure what anybody was thinking about or doing. I'm gonna have to talk to a couple of these guys because even catching a ball is a matter of concentration."

It wasn't LeFlore's night. He doubled leading off the game but was cut down trying to stretch the hit into a triple. In the bottom of the first, he dropped a drive by Chris Chambliss for a two-base error that cost another unearned run.

"I thought the ball had been caught in center field," said Wockenfuss. "I just wasn't thinking right."

Houk knew that. "I have never seen a catcher rull the ball back to the mound with runners moving around the bases," the manager said.

The Yankees took a 4-1 lead in the first inning against Ray Bare, who pitched a one-hitter in his last outing. Rivers singled, stole second and scored on a single by White. After LeFlore failed to hold Chambliss' drive for a two-base error, Oscar Gamble delivered an RBI single and Graig Nettles slammed his third home run and second in two games.

New York starter Dock Ellis, 4-0, breezed into the seventh with a 7-1 lead but the Tigers rapped him and Sparky Lyle for five runs, two on Mickey Stanley's pinch double. The victory was the 100th of Ellis' major league career.

"Dock was aiming the ball and walking people when I finally went out for him," said Yankee Manager Billy Martin, "but he gave us six good innings, and if he keeps doing that we have the bullpen to pick him up."

Chicago Cubs Chalk Up Second Straight Shutout

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Swisher's single to right field in the bottom of the 11th inning knocked in Jerry Morales to give Chicago a 1-0 victory over San Francisco Wednesday for the Cubs' second straight shutout of the Giants.

Reliever Mike Garman picked up the victory for the Cubs after starter Rick Reuschel gave up three hits in the first 10 innings.

The Cubs pitching staff has now strung together 24 straight scoreless innings.

The loss was the Giants' eighth in nine games and their 14th in the last 16.

Randy Moffitt was tagged with the loss to even his record at 1-1. Garman is now 2-2.

Morales singled to right after Andy Thornton had grounded out in the 11th. Manny Trillo also grounded out before Swisher's game-winning single, his third hit of the game.

The Giants got four hits, two by Von Joshua, and never threatened.

Andy Messersmith looks like anything but a million dollars. And Dave Kingman appears to be worth much more than $125,000.

The respective values of those two baseball players are receiving considerable attention these days, in light of their early-season performances.

Messersmith, the pitcher who landed a million-dollar contract with the Atlanta Braves after turning free agent last winter, can't buy a victory so far. Wednesday night, he dropped a 6-3 decision to the New York Mets for his fourth loss in six starts in an Atlanta uniform.

The key to Messersmith's downfall was Kingman, who continued to hit baseballs with unusual authority. Kingman, purchased for a relatively cheap $125,000 before the 1975 season from the San Francisco Giants, collected four hits — two of them his 13th and 14th home runs of the season.

Messersmith, who has obviously seen better days with the Los Angeles Dodgers and California Angels, can't understand his current predicament.

"I just don't know what the trouble is," noted the righthander. "I don't feel any different pitching in Atlanta than I did in Los Angeles."

New York left-hander Jerry Koosman, 4-1, limited the Braves to seven singles until Jimmy Wynn hit a three-run homer with two out in the ninth.

In the other National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3; the San Diego Padres blanked the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-3 and the Montreal Expos ripped the Houston Astros 7-2.

Ron Cey snapped a tie with an eighth-inning double, leading Los Angeles over St. Louis for the hot Dodgers' 15th triumph in 17 games. Cey, who entered the game hitting .333 with eight home runs and 21 RBI, delivered his game-winning blow off reliever Harry Rasmussen.

Left-hander Randy Jones threw a six-hitter to become the first National League pitcher to win six games this season as San Diego beat Philadelphia. Jones, who has lost twice, struck out two and walked three in snapping the Phillies' three-game winning streak and handing the league's secondbest hitting team its second loss in 11 games.

Willie Stargell lined a two-run double as Pittsburgh scored four runs in the fifth inning to defeat Cincinnati. Jim Rooker, 4-1, who knocked in the Pirates' first run in the fifth with a double, stopped the hard-hitting Reds on eight hits and walked only one — an intentional walk.

Gary Carter's two-run single broke a 1-1 tie and Larry Parrish's two-run homer capped a four-run Montreal eighth inning as the Expos defeated Houston. Woody Fryman, 4-2, scattered four hits over the first seven innings in picking up his first victory over Houston in five years. Houston starter J.R. Richard, 5-2, was charged with the first four Montreal runs as the Expos broke the right-hander's five-game winning streak.

Unbeaten Shamrocks Turn Back Panthers

McNutt Two-Hitter Trips Lakers

Berrien Springs took a giant step towards the Red Arrow baseball title Wednesday night by downing second-place Watervliet 6-2 at home.

In a non-league affair, Benton Harbor downed Lake Michigan Catholic 5-2 at Riverview Park.

The Shamrocks are now 9-0 in the conference while the Panthers drop into a tie for second spot at 7-3 with Catholic.

Barry Adams pitched a no-hitter through five innings for Berrien Springs before having to leave the game with a back injury, suffered when he singled in a run in the fifth inning. Rick Sanders went the last two innings to secure Adams' victory.

Berrien Springs got all the runs it needed in the third inning as Tim Sunday scored on an error, Mike Shemberger singled in two runs and Terry Hosbein sacrificed in the fourth run of the inning.

The Shamrocks, now 11-0 overall, added two more in the fifth on Adams' RBI single and a wild pitch.

Watervliet, now 9-4 this season, got one tally in the sixth inning when Tim Hardy doubled in Bill Lindemann who had walked. The Panthers scored their other run in the seventh on a fielder's choice with the bases loaded.

Tony Sammons had three hits and one RBI for Berrien Springs while Sunday, Adams and Shemberger each had a pair of safties.

Rick Sabadin took the loss for Watervliet.

Steve McNutt hurled a two-hitter to give the Tigers their third win in 12 games this season. He gave up a two-RBI single to Richard Muxwell in the fourth inning and a single to Kevin Wheeler in the sixth.

Benton Harbor got single runs in the first and second innings then scored the winner in the fourth when Jerry McClinton doubled and came home on two fielder's choices.

Tom Driscoll was tagged with the loss as the Lakers fall to a 10-8 overall record.

White Sox Earn Exhibition Tie

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Jim Spencer's home run with two outs in the third inning lifted the Chicago White Sox into a 3-3 tie with the Iowa Oaks in a rain-abbreviated exhibition game in Des Moines.

The White Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first on run-scoring singles by Carlos May and Pete Varney.

The Oaks countered with 3 run in the bottom of the inning on Alan Bannister's triple and a ground out by Nyls Nyman. Iowa moved ahead 3-2 in the second on a two-run single by pitcher Paul Patterson.

The game, which was delayed Wednesday for almost an hour because of rain, was ended early when rain began to fall again in the fourth.

Three-Error Play Dooms Detroit

Yanks Run While Tigers Bobble

NEW YORK (AP) — Run, sheep, run, Casey Stengel used to say.

And that's exactly what the New York Yankees did in one hilarious sequence that produced two runs and three Detroit errors on one play, just enough to give the Yanks a 7-6 triumph over the Tigers Wednesday night.

Lou Piniella opened the New York fourth against reliever Bill Laxton with his second home run of the season and the Tigers then donated the two runs that eventually cost them the game.

Following one-out singles by Jim Mason and Mickey Rivers, Roy White lifted a fly ball to center field. Ron LeFlore dropped it, but recovered in time to throw Mason out at the plate as he tried to score from second base. However, catcher John Wockenfuss, thinking it was the third out, rolled the ball toward the mound and the speedy Rivers kept running and scored easily.

Laxton retrieved the ball and heaved it wildly past third base, allowing White to romp home with what proved to be the winning run.

"I can't remember anything quite like that," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk, who will do his best to forget it. "I just looked on in amazement. I wasn't sure what anybody was thinking about or doing. I'm gonna have to talk to a couple of these guys because even catching a ball is a matter of concentration."

It wasn't LeFlore's night. He doubled leading off the game but was cut down trying to stretch the hit into a triple. In the bottom of the first, he dropped a drive by Chris Chambliss for a two-base error that cost another unearned run.

"I thought the ball had been caught in center field," said Wockenfuss. "I just wasn't thinking right."

Houk knew that. "I have never seen a catcher roll the ball back to the mound with runners moving around the bases," the manager said.

The Yankees took a 4-1 lead in the first inning against Ray Bare, who pitched a one-hitter in his last outing. Rivers singled, stole second and scored on a single by White. After LeFlore failed to hold Chambliss' drive for a two-base error, Oscar Gamble delivered an RBI single and Graig Nettles slammed his third home run and second in two games.

New York starter Dock Ellis, 4-0, breezed into the seventh with a 7-1 lead but the Tigers rapped him and Sparky Lyle for five runs, two on Mickey Stanley's pinch double. The victory was the 100th of Ellis' major league career.

"Dock was aiming the ball and walking people when I finally went out for him," said Yankee Manager Billy Martin, "but he gave us six good innings, and if he keeps doing that we have the bullpen to pick him up."

Chicago Cubs Chalk Up Second Straight Shutout

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Swisher's single to right field in the bottom of the 11th inning knocked in Jerry Morales to give Chicago a 1-0 victory over San Francisco Wednesday for the Cubs' second straight shutout of the Giants.

Reliever Mike Garman picked up the victory for the Cubs after starter Rick Reuschel gave up three hits in the first 10 innings.

The Cubs pitching staff has now strung together 24 straight scoreless innings.

The loss was the Giants' eighth in nine games and their 14th in the last 16.

Randy Moffitt was tagged with the loss to even his record at 1-1. Garman is now 2-2.

Morales singled to right after Andy Thornton had grounded out in the 11th. Manny Trillo also grounded out before Swisher's game-winning single, his third hit of the game.

The Giants got four hits, two by Von Joshua, and never threatened.

McNutt Two-Hitter Trips Lakers

Berrien Springs took a giant step towards the Red Arrow baseball title Wednesday night by downing second-place Watervliet 6-2 at home.

In a non-league affair, Benton Harbor downed Lake Michigan Catholic 5-2 at Riverview Park.

The Shamrocks are now 9-0 in the conference while the Panthers drop into a tie for second spot at 7-3 with Catholic.

Barry Adams pitched a no-hitter through five innings for Berrien Springs before having to leave the game with a back injury, suffered when he singled in a run in the fifth inning. Rick Sanders went the last two innings to secure Adams' victory.

Berrien Springs got all the runs it needed in the third inning as Tim Sunday scored on an error, Mike Shembarger singled in two runs and Terry Hosbein sacrificed in the fourth run of the inning.

The Shamrocks, now 11-0 overall, added two more in the fifth on Adams' RBI single and a wild pitch.

Watervliet, now 9-4 this season, got one tally in the sixth inning when Tim Hardy doubled in Bill Lindemann who had walked. The Panthers scored their other run in the seventh on a fielder's choice with the bases loaded.

Tony Sammons had three hits and one RBI for Berrien Springs while Sunday, Adams and Shembarger each had a pair of safties.

Rick Sabadin took the loss for Watervliet.

Steve McNutt hurled a two-hitter to give the Tigers their third win in 12 games this season. He gave up a two-RBI single to Richard Maxwell in the fourth inning and a single to Kevin Wheeler in the sixth.

Benton Harbor got single runs in the first and second innings then scored the winner in the fourth when Jerry McClinton doubled and came home on two fielder's choices.

Tom Driscoll was tagged with the loss as the Lakers fall to a 10-6 overall record.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ken Kuhn, an All-Big Ten linebacker who was a three-year starter for Ohio State, has become the third rookie to sign with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

White Sox Earn Exhibition Tie

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Jim Spencer's home run with two outs in the third inning lifted the Chicago White Sox into a 3-3 tie with the Iowa Oaks in a rain-abbreviated exhibition game in Des Moines.

The White Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first on run-scoring singles by Carlos May and Pete Varney.

The Oaks countered with 3 run in the bottom of the inning on Alan Bannister's triple and a ground out by Nyls Nyman. Iowa moved ahead 3-2 in the second on a two-run single by pitcher Paul Patterson.

The game, which was delayed Wednesday for almost an hour because of rain, was ended early when rain began to fall again in the fourth.

Bridgman's Schaller Leading High Jumper

Aiming For State Championship

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BRIDGMAN — Mike Schaller has the word 'High' printed on the back of his Bridgman track jersey...and it couldn't be more appropriate.

Schaller is currently the leading high jumper on this week's track honor roll, going 6' 6" at the Watervliet Relays. He is also tied for first in the 100-yard dash (10.0), second in the long jump (21' 7½") and tied for fourth in the pole vault (12' 0").

Although he excells in quite a few events, the 5-10, 155-pound senior admits the high jump is his favorite. "My big intention is to win the state high jump," he admits.

"The high jump is what I really like to do. I run because I like to but I'm probably the best high jumper state-wide in class D."

That is not just a boastful brag by Schaller. In last year's state meet, the only person to beat him was Mike Winsor of Fulton-Middleton who went 6' 9½". Winsor, now a freshman at Central Michigan University, has gone 7' 2" this season.

Schaller is slowly rewriting the record books of many area relay meets, especially when it comes to the high jump. He teamed with Brian Ott to establish a new mark of 12' 8" at this year's Watervliet Relays and Schaller, Ott and Don Skorpa hold the Blossomtime Relays high jump mark of 17' 7".

He set a new mark of 6' 7¼" in the Rotary meet last year, did 6' 7" when he finished second in the state meet and set the Red Arrow conference record of 6' 4" last season.

Just to make sure everything is his, Schaller also owns the class D regional record of 6' 4¾".

The senior also holds three other records. Schaller teamed with Ott for a new long jump mark (40' 11¼") and teamed with Dennis Miller for a new pole vault standard (24' 0") at the Watervliet Relays. Schaller also owns the regional pole vault record (12' 5½").

Some trackmen can peak too early in a season and not do their best when it comes to some of the important meets, especially regionals and state. Schaller, however, doesn't seem to have this problem. "I think it is a psycological thing to peak at the regionals and state," he says. "You just have to keep a cool head about it."

Schaller states that a high jumper has to be very sure of himself. "You have to have a lot of self-confidence in high jumping," he says. "Some jumpers get psyched out when the bar goes to a height they have never cleared before."

"One of the keys to Mike's success is Ott," reports Bridgman's head track coach Dick Fodor. "They have been competing against each other for years now."

Schaller agrees with his coach's statement. "Brian is always there," he explains. "It helps to have him there pushing me. He loves the sport just as much as I do and it's fantastic."

Just by talking to the senior, a fan can see that the senior is really keying up for the upcoming conference, regional and state meets. "I did 6' 7¼" but that's not my best," he says. "I can do better than that.

"There are four weeks left in my high school career and I want to go out a winner."

The senior has a little extra incentive going for him this year. Schaller will be attending Ferris State College to study Pharmacy in the fall...but he won't be going out for sports. "I've accomplished just about all the things I set out to do," he states. "I want to quit while I'm ahead.

"My major is Pharmacy and I should stick with the books because it is a very hard program."

Another reason for him getting out of sports is the tendonitis in his left knee. "I got it last year jumping," Schaller explains. "It went away during football but came back during the latter part of basketball and has been with me ever since.

"It doesn't hurt me that much. You've just got to put it to the back of your mind when you're competing."

So with all the things going for Schaller, more records could fall by the end of the month and the beginning of June.

There are a bundle of new leaders on this week's track honor roll as both men and women start hard preparation for the upcoming regional and state meets. The new leaders in the boys group are Mickey Ashbrook of Lake Michigan Catholic in the long jump, the Lakers' Tony Nelson in the 220-yard dash and Mike Larrabee of Niles in the 180-yard low hurdles.

On the girls side, Jackie Ziebart of St. Joseph leads in the discus, Lakeshore's Peggy Root is tops in the 440-yard dash and sister Janet now leads in the 880-yard run.

Bridgman's Schaller Leading High Jumper

Aiming For State Championship

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BRIDGMAN — Mike Schaller has the word 'High' printed on the back of his Bridgman track jersey...and it couldn't be more appropriate.

Schaller is currently the leading high jumper on this week's track honor roll, going 6' 6" at the Watervliet Relays. He is also tied for first in the 100-yard dash (10.0), second in the long jump (21' 7½") and tied for fourth in the pole vault (12' 0").

Although he excells in quite a few events, the 5-10, 155-pound senior admits the high jump is his favorite. "My big intention is to win the state high jump," he admits.

"The high jump is what I really like to do. I run because I like to but I'm probably the best high jumper state-wide in class D."

That is not just a boastful brag by Schaller. In last year's state meet, the only person to beat him was Mike Winsor of Fulton-Middleton who went 6' 9½". Winsor, now a freshman at Central Michigan University, has gone 7' 2" this season.

Schaller is slowly rewriting the record books of many area relay meets, especially when it comes to the high jump. He teamed with Brian Ott to establish a new mark of 12' 8" at this year's Watervliet Relays and Schaller, Ott and Don Skorpa hold the Blossomtime Relays high jump mark of 17' 7".

He set a new mark of 6' 7¼" in the Rotary meet last year, did 6' 7" when he finished second in the state meet and set the Red Arrow conference record of 6' 4" last season.

Just to make sure everything is his, Schaller also owns the class D regional record of 6' 4¾".

The senior also holds three other records. Schaller teamed with Ott for a new long jump mark (40' 11¼") and teamed with Dennis Miller for a new pole vault standard (24' 0") at the Watervliet Relays. Schaller also owns the regional pole vault record (12' 5½").

Some trackmen can peak too early in a season and not do their best when it comes to some of the important meets, especially regionals and state. Schaller, however, doesn't seem to have this problem. "I think it is a psycological thing to peak at the regionals and state," he says. "You just have to keep a cool head about it."

Schaller states that a high jumper has to be very sure of himself. "You have to have a lot of self-confidence in high jumping," he says. "Some jumpers get psyched out when the bar goes to a height they have never cleared before."

"One of the keys to Mike's success is Ott," reports Bridgman's head track coach Dick Fodor. "They have been competing against each other for years now."

Schaller agrees with his coach's statement. "Brian is always there," he explains. "It helps to have him there pushing me. He loves the sport just as much as I do and it's fantastic."

Just by talking to the senior, a fan can see that the senior is really keying up for the upcoming conference, regional and state meets. "I did 6' 7¼" but that's not my best," he says. "I can do better than that.

"There are four weeks left in my high school career and I want to go out a winner."

The senior has a little extra incentive going for him this year. Schaller will be attending Ferris State College to study Pharmacy in the fall...but he won't be going out for sports. "I've accomplished just about all the things I set out to do," he states. "I want to quit while I'm ahead.

"My major is Pharmacy and I should stick with the books because it is a very hard program."

Another reason for him getting out of sports is the tendonitis in his left knee. "I got it last year jumping," Schaller explains. "It went away during football but came back during the latter part of basketball and has been with me ever since.

"It doesn't hurt me that much. You've just got to put it to the back of your mind when you're competing."

So with all the things going for Schaller, more records could fall by the end of the month and the beginning of June.

There are a bundle of new leaders on this week's track honor roll as both men and women start hard preparation for the upcoming regional and state meets. The new leaders in the boys group are Mickey Ashbrook of Lake Michigan Catholic in the long jump, the Lakers' Tony Nelson in the 220-yard dash and Mike Larrabee of Niles in the 180-yard low hurdles.

On the girls side, Jackie Ziebart of St. Joseph leads in the discus, Lakeshore's Peggy Root is tops in the 440-yard dash and sister Janel now leads in the 880-yard run.

Guthrie Still Has Problems

Speed Lacking At Indy

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While virtually everyone fawns over Janet Guthrie's every move, a curious thing is happening to a lot of other drivers preparing for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

Their cars aren't going fast enough.

Not fast enough to chance a qualifying run, not fast enough to warrant timing, not fast enough to even attract any interest.

"You've got three guys running 189, 190 miles per hour, and except for five other guys, no one else is even over 178. That's got to have a few people worried," said one veteran observer. "The word is, no one is going to accept a qualifying run under 182 m.p.h. the first weekend. If that's the case, the way it stands now, we're only looking at six or eight qualifiers."

Drivers only had today and Friday to find the extra speed they needed before pole position qualifying, scheduled Saturday.

"The speeds will go up, you can bet on that," said veteran Lloyd Ruby. "It's just a matter of some drivers getting their act together."

Ruby predicted it would take speeds "at least the same as last year" to make the field for the $1 million May 30th race. The slow qualifier in 1975 was Mike Hiss at 181.754 m.p.h.

"There's more good cars than last year, fewer varinbles," Ruby added.

Last year, there were 14 different types of tires alone to choose from. This year it's down to "front, back and backup," according to tire suppliers.

The early line on the three front-row qualifiers is Johnny Rutherford, fastest in practice so far, Al Unser and A.J. Foyt.

Foyt won the pole position for the last race here with a speed of 193.926 miles per hour, but new power restrictions might keep speeds below that this time.

Rutherford cracked the 190 m.p.h. barrier for the first time this year, in practice Wednesday. Officials agree he did it, but the electric timing clocks didn't catch it.

Others among the swift group are Gordon Johncock, Tom Sneva, Wally Dallenbach, Pancho Carter and Mario Andretti.

Andretti will be forced to wait until the second weekend of qualifying, since he's left to compete this weekend in the Belgian Grand Prix.

Another driver likely to qualify the second weekend is Miss Guthrie, whose crew just can't seem to keep her car running more than just a few laps at a time.

Her hopes of completing the final half of her rookie test Wednesday were dashed by a persistent, mysterious electrical problem.

Miss Guthrie, the first woman to compete at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, hoped to finish up the final 50 miles of the test today or Friday and qualify Saturday or Sunday.

"I have no idea how fast I can go until I get the rookie test out of the way," Miss Guthrie said.

So far, her top speed has been 164.414 m.p.h., which was limited to less than 165 m.p.h. under provisions of the rookie test rules. Under the second phase of the test, she would be able to exceed 165 m.p.h.

Cordero Getting No Tips From Bold Forbes' Trainer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Laz Barrera knows exactly what he will tell jockey Angel Cordero before he goes to the post on Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes Saturday in the Preakness.

Nothing.

Barrera said he will discuss the race with Cordero but "when you have a good rider on your horse, you don't give instructions on how to ride your horse."

Bold Forbes broke on top in the Derby and stayed in front all the way for a one-length victory over Honest Pleasure. It is impossible to say whether a horse will break on the lead, but Barrera said, "One thing I'm going to tell you, he ain't gonna be behind anyone for long."

Bold Forbes, Honest Pleasure and four other 3-year-olds were expected to be entered today for the $150,000-added Preakness, which at 1 3-16 miles is one-sixteenth shorter than the Derby. The other four were Life's Hope, Bold Forbes' stablemate; Elocutionist, third in the Derby; Cojak, sixth in the Derby, and Play The Red, eighth in the Derby.

Barrera's Preakness entry developed when Life's Hope, who runs from off the pace, won the Illinois Derby the same day Bold Forbes won the Kentucky Derby. After the Illinois Derby, Louis Wolfson, owner of Life's Hope, wanted his colt to join the Triple Crown competition. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

The Preakness shapes up like the Derby — a duel on the lead between Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure, with the others hoping the two speed burners will falter so that they can make a winning run in the stretch.

"That's the wish everybody got — they kill each other and they come from behind," said Barrera. "But you better believe one thing. Bold Forbes hasn't stopped on the lead yet."

Honest Pleasure, the 1975 2-year-old champion who had a nine-race winning streak snapped in the Derby, worked Wednesday, going five-eighths of a mile in 58 3-5 seconds, with the half in 48 3-5.

"Before all of his good races he had the same type of blowout," said trainer LeRoy Jolley, who has had little to say to the reporters since the Derby.

Comets Surprised By Lowly Rangers

Cassopolis won just its second Blossomland conference baseball game Wednesday night as the Rangers topped host Coloma 10-5.

In the only other games involving Bud squads, Buchanan beat Niles twice, 5-3 and 8-4 at Niles.

Coloma, now 6-5 in the league and 9-8 overall, actually tied the game up at 5-5 in the third inning by scoring three runs. Dewey Wheeler doubled in two runs and Pete Fairbairn doubled home the other.

Cass got the winning runs in the fifth inning when Leon Gilliam smacked a RBI single and a run scored on an error.

Tony Pompey was the winning pitcher as the Rangers raised their league mark to 2-9 and their overall record to 3-10. Gilliam had two hits and one RBI and Richard Lee notched a pair of singles and scored four runs for Cass.

Fairbairn had a single, double and one RBI while Don Davis had two singles and knocked in a pair of runs for the Comets. Dan Saiz took the loss.

Niles took a 2-1 lead in its first game with Buchanan only to see the Bucks come up with four runs in the sixth inning to ice the game. Mac Kyles drove in one Buck run with a walk, Jeff Swank singled in two more and Dan Pinkerton doubled in the other.

Kevin Vanderbush got the win in the first contest as Brian Virgil had two doubles for the Bucks. Bob Ramft took the loss. Tom Donley contributed a pair of singles for Niles.

Buchanan secured its 10th win in 16 starts in the second game with a six-run fourth inning. John Donley and Larry Granger each smacked two-run homers and Swank drove in a pair with a double.

Granger also had a two-run roundtripper in the sixth inning to help Barry Manley gain the victory.

Duff Plummer had two hits and two RBI's and Arnie White added a pair of singles for Niles, now 10-4 overall. Steve Gregory was lagged with the loss.

Rick Plangger Hurls No-Hitter, Fans 15

MISHAWAKA, Ind. — Rick Plangger hurled a no-hitter here Wednesday night, but Plangger's was only able to gain a split with Mr. Sanitation.

Plangger struck out 15 and walked just two as the locals won the first game 5-0. But Mr. Sanitation came back to capture the nightcap 3-2.

The shutout was the third for the younger Plangger this season.

Rick Davis collected three singles, and Nick Shushman and Jerry Hinman added two apiece for Planggers.

John Laidlow's fourth-inning homer decided the second game and gave Rich Plangger the loss.

Mr. Sanitation had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a walk, Phil Gray's single and three errors. But Planggers came back to tie the score in the second on a walk, an error, a wild pitch and Rick Davis' single. That set the stage for Laidlow's winning clout.

Plangger's, now 6-0, host Ft. Wayne, Inc. in a doubleheader at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Kankakee, Ill. in a twin bill at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Both games will be played at Plangger's Park.

Fennville Wins Big

SAUGATUCK — Jim Scudder fired a two-hitter, striking out seven and walking just two, as Fennville downed Saugatuck 16-2 in five innings here Wednesday night in an Allegan-Ottawa conference baseball game.

The Blackhawks, now 4-2 in the league and 1-4 overall, pounded out seven hits. Ken Onken had a single and a double for the only Fennville player with two hits. The Indians didn't help themselves any by walking seven batters and committing 10 errors.

Saugatuck is now 1-5 in the A-O.

Lions Open With Bills

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who Detroit plays at home in a regular National Football League game on Thanksgiving, also will be a Lions home opponent during the exhibition schedule.

Superstar halfback O.J. Simpson and the Bills will visit Pontiac Stadium on July 31, the first home date on the Lions' seven-game preseason slate.

Miami and Baltimore are Detroit's other exhibition home opponents, in the schedule announced Wednesday. The Dolphins will be in Aug. 8, while the Colts' game is scheduled for Thursday night, Sept. 2, in an effort to get ahead of the Labor Day holiday weekend.

The Lions away exhibitions are against Denver, July 24; Cincinnati, Aug. 14; Dallas, (date and site to be determined); and Kansas City, Aug. 28. The Denver game will be the annual NFL Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio.

KNOWS HIS BUSINESS: Eric Alwan, the youngest handicapper in the business, is still at it and getting better. The 11-year-old sixth grader from El Paso, Tex. wound up as the top horse picker at Sunland Park, N.M., choosing 194 winners in the 60-day spring meeting. He is in competition with three adults and his nearest rival had 180 winners. (AP Wirephoto)

Lawton Snaps Losing Streak

LAWTON — Don't mind coach Dave Anderson if he goes out and celebrates a little this week.

His Lawton baseball team broke a 26-game losing streak by downing Michigan Lutheran twice, 9-7 and 5-4 in five innings, here Wednesday night.

Dean Weurding helped the Blue Devils with a single, double and three RBIs in the first game and Brian Cronenwett drove in a pair of runs with two singles. John Lepley started and got the win.

Bruce Morris carried a hot bat for the Titans. He stroked a pair of doubles and drove in four Lutheran runs. Steve Hasse took the loss.

Lawton scored four runs in the first, three more in the third and put the game away with one in the fifth and one in the sixth.

In the second game, the Blue Devils won the game by notching two runs in the third inning. Weurding tripled home one run and John Lepley sacrificed in the other. Art Korteway was the winning pitcher as Lawton raised its record to 2-9.

Steve Hasse drove in a pair of runs with a single as brother Tom took the loss.

Counting on the biggest payload, the best gas mileage, and the lowest price of any pickup made in America?

THEN COUNT ON A DODGE PICKUP.

1 LOWEST PRICE. The manufacturer's suggested retail price for a Dodge D100 conventional cab is only $3,677, excluding taxes, optional equipment, destination charges, and license and title fees.

2 BEST GAS MILEAGE. According to EPA estimates, a Dodge D100 with a 225 six-cylinder engine with a manual transmission got 25 miles per gallon on the highway and 18 in the city. Your actual mileage may differ depending on the type of driving you do, your truck's condition and its optional equipment.

3 BIGGEST PAYLOAD. Dodge has a payload that can make small work of the biggest jobs. Without beefing it up one bit, you can haul up to 1,805 pounds.

DODGE TRUCKS HAVE GOT IT WHERE IT COUNTS.

Guthrie Still Has Problems

Speed Lacking At Indy

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While virtually everyone fawns over Janet Guthrie's every move, a curious thing is happening to a lot of other drivers preparing for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

Their cars aren't going fast enough.

Not fast enough to chance a qualifying run, not fast enough to warrant timing, not fast enough to even attract any interest.

"You've got three guys running 189, 190 miles per hour, and except for five other guys, no one else is even over 176. That's got to have a few people worried," said one veteran observer. "The word is, no one is going to accept a qualifying run under 182 m.p.h. the first weekend. If that's the case, the way it stands now, we're only looking at six or eight qualifiers."

Drivers only had today and Friday to find the extra speed they needed before pole position qualifying, scheduled Saturday.

"The speeds will go up, you can bet on that," said veteran Lloyd Ruby. "It's just a matter of some drivers getting their act together."

Ruby predicted it would take speeds "at least the same as last year" to make the field for the $1 million May 30th race. The slow qualifier in 1975 was Mike Hiss at 181.754 m.p.h.

"There's more good cars than last year, fewer variables," Ruby added.

Last year, there were 14 different types of tires alone to choose from. This year it's down to "front, back and backup," according to tire suppliers.

The early line on the three front-row qualifiers is Johnny Rutherford, fastest in practice so far, Al Unser and A.J. Foyt.

Foyt won the pole position for the last race here with a speed of 193.926 miles per hour, but new power restrictions might keep speeds below that this time.

Rutherford cracked the 190 m.p.h. barrier for the first time this year, in practice Wednesday. Officials agree he did it, but the electric timing clocks didn't catch it.

Others among the swift group are Gordon Johncock, Tom Sneva, Wally Dallenbach, Pancho Carter and Mario Andretti.

Andretti will be forced to wait until the second weekend of qualifying, since he's left to compete this weekend in the Belgian Grand Prix.

Another driver likely to qualify the second weekend is Miss Guthrie, whose crew just can't seem to keep her car running more than just a few laps at a time.

Her hopes of completing the final half of her rookie test Wednesday were dashed by a persistent, mysterious electrical problem.

Miss Guthrie, the first woman to compete at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, hoped to finish up the final 50 miles of the test today or Friday and qualify Saturday or Sunday.

"I have no idea how fast I can go until I get the rookie test out of the way," Miss Guthrie said.

So far, her top speed has been 164.414 m.p.h., which was limited to less than 165 m.p.h. under provisions of the rookie test rules. Under the second phase of the test, she would be able to exceed 165 m.p.h.

Cordero Getting No Tips From Bold Forbes' Trainer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Laz Barrera knows exactly what he will tell jockey Angel Cordero before he goes to the post on Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes Saturday in the Preakness.

Nothing.

Barrera said he will discuss the race with Cordero but "when you have a good rider on your horse, you don't give instructions on how to ride your horse."

Bold Forbes broke on top in the Derby and stayed in front all the way for a one-length victory over Honest Pleasure. It is impossible to say whether a horse will break on the lead, but Barrera said, "One thing I'm going to tell you, he ain't gonna be behind anyone for long."

Bold Forbes, Honest Pleasure and four other 3-year-olds were expected to be entered today for the $150,000-added Preakness, which at 1 3-16 miles is one-sixteenth shorter than the Derby. The other four were Life's Hope, Bold Forbes' stablemate; Elocutionist, third in the Derby; Cojak, sixth in the Derby, and Play The Red, eighth in the Derby.

Barrera's Preakness entry developed when Life's Hope, who runs from off the pace, won the Illinois Derby the same day Bold Forbes won the Kentucky Derby. After the Illinois Derby, Louis Wolfson, owner of Life's Hope, wanted his colt to join the Triple Crown competition. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

The Preakness shapes up like the Derby — a duel on the lead between Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure, with the others hoping the two speed burners will falter so that they can make a winning run in the stretch.

"That's the wish everybody got — they kill each other and they come from behind," said Barrera. "But you better believe one thing. Bold Forbes hasn't stopped on the lead yet."

Honest Pleasure, the 1975 2-year-old champion who had a nine-race winning streak snapped in the Derby, worked Wednesday, going five-eights of a mile in 58 3-5 seconds, with the half in 46 3-5.

"Before all of his good races he had the same type of blowout," said trainer LeRoy Jolley, who has had little to say to the reporters since the Derby.

Comets Surprised By Lowly Rangers

Cassopolis won just its second Blossomland conference baseball game Wednesday night as the Rangers topped host Coloma 10-5.

In the only other games involving Bud squads, Buchanan beat Niles twice, 5-3 and 8-4 at Niles.

Coloma, now 6-5 in the league and 9-8 overall, actually tied the game up at 5-5 in the third inning by scoring three runs. Dewey Wheeler doubled in two runs and Pete Fairbairn doubled home the other.

Cass got the winning runs in the fifth inning when Leon Gilliam smacked a RBI single and a run scored on an error.

Tony Pompey was the winning pitcher as the Rangers raised their league mark to 2-9 and their overall record to 3-10. Gilliam had two hits and one RBI and Richard Lee notched a pair of singles and scored four runs for Cass.

Fairbairn had a single, double and one RBI while Don Davis had two singles and knocked in a pair of runs for the Comets. Dan Saiz took the loss.

Niles took a 2-1 lead in its first game with Buchanan only to see the Bucks come up with four runs in the sixth inning to ice the game. Moe Kyles drove in one Buck run with a walk, Jeff Swank singled in two more and Dan Pinkerton doubled in the other.

Kevin Vanderbush got the win in the first contest as Brian Virgil had two doubles for the Bucks. Bob Ramft took the loss. Tom Donley contributed a pair of singles for Niles.

Buchanan secured its 10th win in 16 starts in the second game with a six-run fourth inning. John Donley and Larry Granger each smacked two-run homers and Swank drove in a pair with a double.

Granger also had a two-run roundtripper in the sixth inning to help Barry Manley gain the victory.

Duff Plummer had two hits and two RBI's and Arnie White added a pair of singles for Niles, now 10-4 overall. Steve Gregory was tagged with the loss.

Sweeney Signs

KALAMAZOO — Tom Sweeney, a 6-8 center from Redford Union high school in Detroit, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Western Michigan University, according to Bronco basketball coach Dick Shilts.

Rick Plangger Hurls No-Hitter, Fans 15

MISHAWAKA, Ind. — Rick Plangger hurled a no-hitter here Wednesday night, but Plangger's was only able to gain a split with Mr. Sanitation.

Plangger struck out 15 and walked just two as the locals won the first game 5-0. But Mr. Sanitation came back to capture the nightcap 3-2.

The shutout was the third for the younger Plangger this season.

Rick Davis collected three singles, and Nick Shushman and Jerry Hinman added two apiece for Planggers.

John Laidlow's fourth-inning homer decided the second game and gave Rich Plangger the loss.

Mr. Sanitation had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a walk, Phil Gray's single and three errors. But Planggers came back to tie the score in the second on a walk, an error, a wild pitch and Rick Davis' single. That set the stage for Laidlow's winning clout.

Plangger's, now 6-6, host Ft. Wayne, Inc. in a doubleheader at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Kankakee, Ill. in a twin bill at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Both games will be played at Plangger's Park.

Fennville Wins Big

SAUGATUCK — Jim Scudder fired a two-hitter, striking out seven and walking just two, as Fennville downed Saugatuck 16-2 in five innings here Wednesday night in an Allegan-Ottawa conference baseball game.

The Blackhawks, now 4-2 in the league and 1-4 overall, pounded out seven hits. Ken Onken had a single and a double for the only Fennville player with two hits. The Indians didn't help themselves any by walking seven batters and committing 10 errors.

Saugatuck is now 1-5 in the A-O.

Lions Open With Bills

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who Detroit plays at home in a regular National Football League game on Thanksgiving, also will be a Lions home opponent during the exhibition schedule.

Superstar halfback O.J. Simpson and the Bills will visit Pontiac Stadium on July 31, the first home date on the Lions' seven-game preseason slate.

Miami and Baltimore are Detroit's other exhibition home opponents, in the schedule announced Wednesday. The Dolphins will be in Aug. 8, while the Colts' game is scheduled for Thursday night, Sept. 2, in an effort to get ahead of the Labor Day holiday weekend.

The Lions away exhibitions are against Denver, July 24; Cincinnati, Aug. 14; Dallas, (date and site to be determined); and Kansas City, Aug. 28. The Denver game will be the annual NFL Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio.

Lawton Snaps Losing Streak

LAWTON — Don't mind coach Dave Anderson if he goes out and celebrates a little this week.

His Lawton baseball team broke a 26-game losing streak by downing Michigan Lutheran twice, 9-7 and 5-4 in five innings, here Wednesday night.

Dean Weurding helped the Blue Devils with a single, double and three RBIs in the first game and Brian Cronenwett drove in a pair of runs with two singles. John Lepley started and got the win.

Bruce Morris carried a hot bat for the Titans. He stroked a pair of doubles and drove in four Lutheran runs. Steve Hasse took the loss.

Lawton scored four runs in the first, three more in the third and put the game away with one in the fifth and one in the sixth.

In the second game, the Blue Devils won the game by notching two runs in the third inning. Weurding tripled home one run and John Lepley sacrificed in the other. Art Korteway was the winning pitcher as Lawton raised its record to 2-9.

Steve Hasse drove in a pair of runs with a single as brother Tom took the loss.

Counting on the biggest payload, the best gas mileage, and the lowest price of any pickup made in America?

THEN COUNT ON A DODGE PICKUP.

1. LOWEST PRICE. The manufacturer's suggested retail price for a Dodge D100 conventional cab is only $3,677, excluding taxes, optional equipment, destination charges, and license and title fees.

2. BEST GAS MILEAGE. According to EPA estimates, a Dodge D100 with a 225 six-cylinder engine with a manual transmission got 25 miles per gallon on the highway and 18 in the city. Your actual mileage may differ depending on the type of driving you do, your truck's condition and its optional equipment.

3. BIGGEST PAYLOAD. Dodge has a payload that can make small work of the biggest jobs. Without beefing it up one bit, you can haul up to 1,505 pounds.

DODGE TRUCKS HAVE GOT IT WHERE IT COUNTS.

BH Woman, 80, Loyal Cub Fan

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Mrs. Mabel Bryant has been a die-hard Chicago Cubs' fan for 56 years, and she's still rooting on her favorites with plenty of enthusiasm at age 80.

"Oh my, yes, I still follow the Cubs... sometimes I think I get too involved though," states Mrs. Bryant, who lives at 3951 Pier Road, Benton Harbor.

She started listening to the Cubs over her mother-in-law's radio in 1926. "I just got to liking them then and I've stuck to them ever since," she relates.

Mrs. Bryant still follows the Cubs over television and radio. She used to attend Wrigley Field games frequently, but last year she only made it to one Cub game. She says she would like to get to a game this season when the weather warms up.

Her favorite Cub players include Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson of the 1945 Cub team that won the pennant, the great Ernie Banks, ex-Cubs Ferguson Jenkins, Don Kessinger and Ken Holtzman and current Cubs Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal.

Mrs. Bryant admits she gets disgusted at the Cubs, who have gotten off to a shaky start this season.

"My, yes, I get disgusted. But I guess I should get angry at the wind which blows the ball out of the park all the time."

Mrs. Bryant also likes to second guess the manager occasionally.

"I can't understand why Marshall (manager Jim Marshall) doesn't take a pitcher out right away instead of after he allows two or three runs. But then who am I to tell the manager what to do...but I'd like to.

"Also I can't understand why they don't get better players in trades. Why not get someone like Rusty Staub?"

The Cubs haven't won a pennant since 1945, but Mrs. Bryant hasn't given up hope.

"Maybe it's better they're down in the standings the early part of the season so they'll come back and finish higher at the end of the season. I'm not discouraged...I haven't given up hope."

Denver Placed On Probation

DENVER (AP) — The University of Denver has been placed on two years probation for violating collegiate hockey eligibility rules, the NCAA has announced.

The university's hockey team will be ineligible for postseason competition following the 1977 and 1978 seasons and will be banned from appearing on any NCAA-controlled television programs during the probation period.

Denver's other athletic teams also will be prohibited from appearing in postseason play or on television for one year, according to sanctions in the probation.

The violations concerned five athletes who played on the university hockey team after earlier receiving room and board in excess of NCAA rules from outside hockey squads, according to a statement by the NCAA.

The committee also said that two Denver athletes were permitted to play in the 1973 National Collegiate Ice Hockey Championships when they were actually ineligible.

Scramble Golf Event Set At Wyndwicke

A Michigan Scramble Golf Tournament, sponsored by Joe Hayden Ford of Niles and having $25,000 in prizes, gets underway Saturday on the Wyndwicke course in St. Joseph.

The amateur event includes qualifying events at several courses around southwestern Michigan, a regional and eventually the state championship Aug. 28 at Jackson.

The tourney is played with four-man teams. Each player on winning regional teams will receive $100. The state title will be worth $250 per person. There is an entry fee of $6 per person, which does not include green fees.

Each team must have a combined handicap of 45 or more, and only one golfer on the team may have a handicap of eight or less.

Interested golfers should check at area golf courses for further information and additional qualifying dates.

Houston To San Jose?

MILLIGAN, Fla. (AP) — The mystery of just what world class sprinter Houston McTear will do after leaving high school has deepened with a Miami newspaper report that the youngster will attend San Jose City College in California.

McTear, co-holder of the world record of 9.0 seconds for the 100-yard dash and considered a bright hope for the Olympics, has signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Florida on a football-track scholarship.

But McTear has told the Miami Herald, "I ain't going to no Gainesville (the site of the Florida campus). I just signed with Florida to get them off my back.

"I done made up my mind and it's set. I like everything about California. They (San Jose CC) should know I'm coming."

Sexes Battle At Escanaba

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — What happens when 250 male and 100 female softball players want to use the same field at the same time?

The answer is that a hot argument develops, involving the city council, a circuit court and an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU).

The female softball players were miffed because men were given all the playing dates, Mondays through Thursdays, on the well-lighted diamonds on the campus of Bay de Noc Community College. The women were given Friday nights and Sundays — which they said were less than prime times.

The women were also irritated because another diamond was reserved strictly for men's fast-pitch softball while an undeveloped, unlighted field was made available for women during the week.

Attorney James Rettig and the ACLU cried, "Foul!" and made plans to file suit in Delta County Circuit Court to get a better break for the women.

"It is a civil rights matter and there is a pattern of sex discrimination," he declared.

The women tried to win concessions from the city council. Its lone female member, Jean Jokippi, moved that women be allowed to have the best diamond one night a week.

The motion died for lack of a second from any of Mrs. Jokippi's four colleagues. The women softball players then appealed to the ACLU and Rettig for help.

Laing Headed For Stanford

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac's Jim Laing, an all-conference golfer the past three seasons and his league's No. 1 golfer the past two seasons, will attend Stanford University in California this fall.

Laing, 18, who carries a 3.83 grade average and had a 73 season golf average last fall, turned down three college golf scholarships.

Laing, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bruce Laing of Dowagiac, has a busy golf schedule planned for this summer. He would like to play in the Western Michigan Amateur, the Western Amateur Junior, the Western Amateur, the Porter Cup, the Southern Amateur and the U.S. Amateur.

Johncock Tops Point Standings Among U.S. Auto Club Drivers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock leads the championship division point standings among U.S. Auto Club drivers.

Johncock, who finished second in the recent Trenton 200, has 530 points. The 1974 Indy 500 winner, Johnny Rutherford, who won the Trenton race, is second with 400 points.

Trailing the leaders are Johnny Parsons and Pancho Carter, with 360 points each, and Mike Mosley, with 350.

In the sprint car division, defending champion Larry Dickson leads with 132 points, followed by Carter, 117; Tom Bigelow, 110; Jan Opperman, 105, and Sheldon Kinser, 102.

Olympic Stadium Costs Zoom Up

MONTREAL (AP) — The main Olympic stadium now is expected to cost $825 million, up from the last official estimate of $580 million, according to a report in the Montreal Star.

The newspaper said it has learned that the new cost is attributed to frost, technical problems and a winter heating bill of $500,000 per day.

Close to $700 million will have been spent on the 70,000-seat facility by the time the Games open, the Star said. The additional $125 million would be required to complete the stadium's mast and folding-membrane roof after the Games.

Keeping workers warm during four winter months of construction has cost $80 million alone, the newspaper reported, adding that this is almost the entire cost of the Houston Astrodome.

The Star said the new stadium estimate would bring total cost of staging the Games to $1.5 billion, and would bring the deficit to $1.1 billion from $900 million.

The $825 million, almost seven times the original estimate, does not include financing costs, the newspaper said.

Victor Goldbloom, Quebec minister in charge of the Olympic installations board, had said last March that estimated daily operating costs for the massive facility would be $50,000, compared to $37,000 for the recently-opened New Orleans Superdome.

These costs remain constant regardless of whether events are held in the facilities.

The 550-foot mast and folding roof were to have been completed in time for the July 17 opening date, but Olympic Organizing Committee officials have said numerous working days were lost because of construction-worker walkouts last year.

BH Woman, 80, Loyal Cub Fan

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Mrs. Mabel Bryant has been a die-hard Chicago Cubs' fan for 56 years, and she's still rooting on her favorites with plenty of enthusiasm at age 80.

"Oh my, yes, I still follow the Cubs... sometimes I think I get too involved though," states Mrs. Bryant, who lives at 3951 Pier Road, Benton Harbor.

She started listening to the Cubs over her mother-in-law's radio in 1920. "I just got to liking them then and I've stuck to them ever since," she relates.

Mrs. Bryant still follows the Cubs over television and radio. She used to attend Wrigley Field games frequently, but last year she only made it to one Cub game. She says she would lke to get to a game this season when the weather warms up.

Her favorite Cub players include Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson of the 1945 Cub team that won the pennant, the great Ernie Banks, ex-Cubs Ferguson Jenkins, Don Kessinger and Ken Holtzman and current Cubs Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal.

Mrs. Bryant admits she gets disgusted at the Cubs, who have gotten off to a shaky start this season.

"My, yes, I get disgusted. But I guess I should get angry at the wind which blows the ball out of the park all the time."

Mrs. Bryant also likes to second guess the manager occasionally.

"I can't understand why Marshall (manager Jim Marshall) doesn't take a pitcher out right away instead of after he allows two or three runs. But then who am I to tell the manager what to do...but I'd like to.

"Also I can't understand why they don't get better players in trades. Why not get someone like Rusty Staub?"

The Cubs haven't won a pennant since 1945, but Mrs. Bryant hasn't given up hope.

"Maybe it's better they're down in the standings the early part of the season so they'll come back and finish higher at the end of the season. I'm not discouraged...I haven't given up hope."

Denver Placed On Probation

DENVER (AP) — The University of Denver has been placed on two years probation for violating collegiate hockey eligibility rules, the NCAA has announced.

The university's hockey team will be ineligible for postseason competition following the 1977 and 1978 seasons and will be banned from appearing on any NCAA-controlled television programs during the probation period.

Denver's other athletic teams also will be prohibited from appearing in postseason play or on television for one year, according to sanctions in the probation.

The violations concerned five athletes who played on the university hockey team after earlier receiving room and board in excess of NCAA rules from outside hockey squads, according to a statement by the NCAA.

The committee also said that two Denver athletes were permitted to play in the 1973 National Collegiate Ice Hockey Championships when they were actually ineligible.

Scramble Golf Event Set At Wyndwicke

A Michigan Scramble Golf Tournament, sponsored by Joe Hayden Ford of Niles and having $25,000 in prizes, gets underway Saturday on the Wyndwicke course in St. Joseph.

The amateur event includes qualifying events at several courses around southwestern Michigan, a regional and eventually the state championship Aug. 28 at Jackson.

The tourney is played with four-man teams. Each player on winning regional teams will receive $100. The state title will be worth $250 per person. There is an entry fee of $6 per person, which does not include green fees.

Each team must have a combined handicap of 45 or more, and only one golfer on the team may have a handicap of eight or less.

Interested golfers should check at area golf courses for further information and additional qualifying dates.

Houston To San Jose?

MILLIGAN, Fla. (AP) — The mystery of just what world class sprinter Houston McTear will do after leaving high school has deepened with a Miami newspaper report that the youngster will attend San Jose City College in California.

McTear, co-holder of the world record of 9.0 seconds for the 100-yard dash and considered a bright hope for the Olympics, has signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Florida on a football-track scholarship.

But McTear has told the Miami Herald, "I ain't going to no Gainesville (the site of the Florida campus). I just signed with Florida to get them off my back.

"I done made up my mind and it's set. I like everything about California. They (San Jose CC) should know I'm coming."

Sexes Battle At Escanaba

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — What happens when 250 male and 100 female softball players want to use the same field at the same time?

The answer is that a hot argument develops, involving the city council, a circuit court and an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU).

The female softball players were miffed because men were given all the playing dates, Mondays through Thursdays, on the well-lighted diamonds on the campus of Bay de Noc Community College. The women were given Friday nights and Sundays — which they said were less than prime times.

The women were also irritated because another diamond was reserved strictly for men's fast-pitch softball while an undeveloped, unlighted field was made available for women during the week.

Attorney James Rettig and the ACLU cried, "Foul!" and made plans to file suit in Delta County Circuit Court to get a better break for the women.

"It is a civil rights matter and there is a pattern of sex discrimination," he declared.

The women tried to win concessions from the city council. Its lone female member, Jean Jokippi, moved that women be allowed to have the best diamond one night a week.

The motion died for lack of a second from any of Mrs. Jokippi's four colleagues. The women softball players then appealed to the ACLU and Rettig for help.

Laing Headed For Stanford

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac's Jim Laing, an all-conference golfer the past three seasons and his league's No. 1 golfer the past two seasons, will attend Stanford University in California this fall.

Laing, 18, who carries a 3.83 grade average and had a 73 season golf average last fall, turned down three college golf scholarships.

Laing, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bruce Laing of Dowagiac, has a busy golf schedule planned for this summer. He would like to play in the Western Michigan Amateur, the Western Amateur Junior, the Western Amateur, the Porter Cup, the Southern Amateur and the U.S. Amateur.

Johncock Tops Point Standings Among U.S. Auto Club Drivers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock leads the championship division point standings among U.S. Auto Club drivers.

Johncock, who finished second in the recent Trenton 200, has 530 points. The 1974 Indy 500 winner, Johnny Rutherford, who won the Trenton race, is second with 400 points.

Trailing the leaders are Johnny Parsons and Pancho Carter, with 360 points each, and Mike Mosley, with 350.

In the sprint car division, defending champion Larry Dickson leads with 132 points, followed by Carter, 117; Tom Bigelow, 110; Jan Opperman, 105, and Sheldon Kinser, 102.

Olympic Stadium Costs Zoom Up

MONTREAL (AP) — The main Olympic stadium now is expected to cost $825 million, up from the last official estimate of $580 million, according to a report in the Montreal Star.

The newspaper said it has learned that the new cost is attributed to frost, technical problems and a winter heating bill of $500,000 per day.

Close to $700 million will have been spent on the 70,000-seat facility by the time the Games open, the Star said. The additional $125 million would be required to complete the stadium's mast and folding-membrane roof after the Games.

Keeping workers warm during four winter months of construction has cost $60 million alone, the newspaper reported, adding that this is almost the entire cost of the Houston Astrodome.

The Star said the new stadium estimate would bring total cost of staging the Games to $1.5 billion, and would bring the deficit to $1.1 billion from $900 million.

The $825 million, almost seven times the original estimate, does not include financing costs, the newspaper said.

Victor Goldbloom, Quebec minister in charge of the Olympic installations board, had said last March that estimated daily operating costs for the massive facility would be $50,000, compared to $37,000 for the recently-opened New Orleans Superdome.

These costs remain constant regardless of whether events are held in the facilities.

The 550-foot mast and folding roof were to have been completed in time for the July 17 opening date, but Olympic Organizing Committee officials have said numerous working days were lost because of construction-worker walkouts last year.

For 1980 Olympic Games At Lake Placid

Networks Battling Over TV Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — Organizers of the 13th Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid, N.Y., in 1980 are hurting for money while the three major American networks haggle over television rights.

On March 15, the American Broadcasting Company, which has shown six of the past eight Olympics since 1964, announced it had reached an agreement in principle with the Lake Placid Organizing Committee subject to approval by the International Olympic Committee.

The rival National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System immediately yelled "foul."

"Covert negotiations . . . secret agreement . . . questionable practices . . . unfair," charged NBC.

"Completely unfair . . . never had a chance to negotiate . . . ABC has an employe, Alin, on the Lake Placid communications committee, making it a flagrant conflict of interest," argued Barry Frank, the new sports boss of CBS.

While bitter words are being hurled back and forth and NBC has turned the case over to its attorneys, the hot potato has been dropped in the lap of the International Olympic Committee.

The IOC, meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland, this weekend, must either approve the ABC's draft agreement, reportedly calling for $10 million payment for TV rights, or throw the matter onto the open market for a new bidding war.

That's what NBC and CBS want, and ABC doesn't want. Also, the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee, in dire need of operating funds, is seeking quick approval of the ABC deal.

"NBC and CBS totally defaulted on the Games," insists Norman Hess, counsel of the LPOOC and former chairman of the Marketing and Television Committee which negotiated the contract.

"They showed no interest in the contract until they saw the success of the Innsbruck Games. I interpret their moanings now as crying over spilled milk. Belately, they now want to jump into the pot."

John M. Wilkins, an insurance executive who succeeded Hess as communications chairman, insisted that the draft agreement was reached with ABC in February during the Innsbruck Games after NBC and CBS evinced complete disinterest.

"We are down to rock bottom," Wilkins said. "We are already in debt, don't have enough money to buy stamps, make phone calls and pay our bills. We figure TV and marketing expenses at around $220,000. The U.S. Olympic Committee guaranteed us $100,000 a year ago. We got another $100,000 from a bank loan. Now we are down to our last $1,000. We need the TV advance for marketing operations."

Under the ABC agreement, the network would pay $3 million to the Lake Placid committee and $7 million to the IOC. Lake Placid is petitioning the state government for $13 million and the federal government for $50 million for new and renovated facilities. Administrative costs are figured at $11½ million, these funds coming solely from the TV contract and gate receipts.

To meet Lake Placid's needs, ABC agreed to put up $2 million in up-front money if the contract were approved. NBC and CBS both reacted favorably to the suggestion that the three networks each put up one-third of the amount — $666,666 — pending IOC settlement of the issue.

Toros Keeping Fit With Ballet Lessons

MIAMI (AP) — "Even me bloody toe was simply amazing."

Proctor had company. All his teammates on the Miami club of the North American Soccer League are practicing their entrechats and pirouttes on the ballet barre these days. Toros Coach Greg Myers claims it'll keep them healthy in the coming NASL season.

"I thought he was out of his bloody mind," Proctor said when Young first called them in and told them they were enrolled at the Andreas Skouras Academy of Dance. "He had to be joking or something."

But after the initial shock, Proctor and the others found out that ballet is no joke. If you're not in shape, it can kill you.

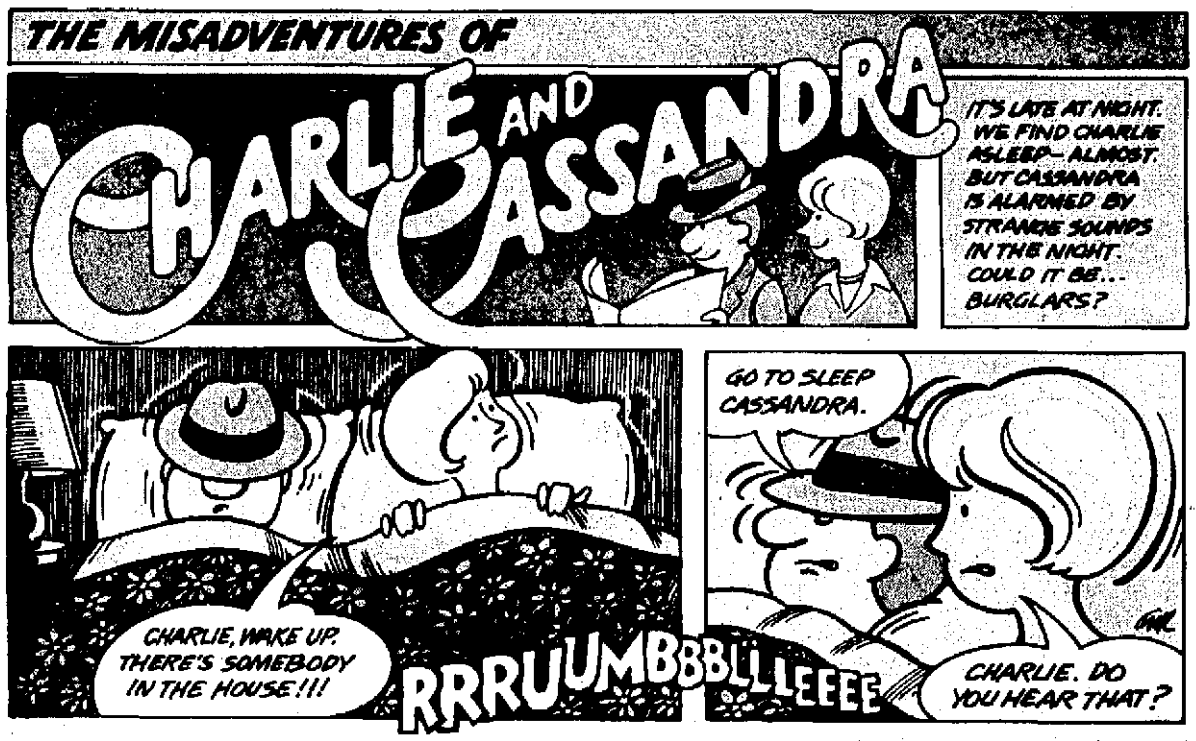

"The first time we met, there was a lot of joking and laughing," said Myers. "The guys were a little self-conscious. But they took a look at Andreas, who is built like a rock, and said, 'If a 41-year-old can look that good, it can't be all bad.'

"The first session was two hours long and when they walked out, they could hardly move. Every muscle in their bodies hurt."

It was an improbable scene. Bill Nuttall — tall, blond, muscular — draping his body over the flimsy metal barre, attempting to twist his feet into the classic first position, while strains of Czerny's Opus 335 played in the background.

Two Bikathons Slated June 5 By Easter Seal

The Berrien County Easter Seal Society has scheduled two bikathon fund-raising events in St. Joseph and New Buffalo on June 5, according to John E. Gessert, Easter Seal Bikathon chairman.

JOHN E. GESSERT
Bikathon chairman

Bikathons are fund-raising events in which individuals, families and groups set out to bicycle on established routes. Gessert said bicyclists raise money for the Easter Seal Society by signing up sponsors who pledge a sum of money for every mile the contestant travels.

Gessert said bikathons will be held in two places, St. Joseph and New Buffalo, for the first time this year to involve more county-wide participation. Registration-sponsor sheets will soon be available throughout the county, Gessert said.

Gessert, director of taxes for Whirlpool Corp., and his wife, Elaine, have two daughters, and live at 2606 Old Lakeshore road in St. Joseph.

Coloma Board To Field Tax Questions May 18

COLOMA — The Coloma school board will meet Tuesday, May 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Coloma high school cafeteria to answer questions pertaining to its request for an additional 2.5-mill property tax levy. The annual levy is to be voted on at the annual school election Monday, June 14.

The levy, if approved, would run for three years, 1976 through 1978.

The district presently levies 23.376 mills for operating costs, and an additional 2.304 mills for debt retirement. All residents of the district may attend the meeting.

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Washington — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending May 7 were:

SENATE

Federal Election Commission — Forty-three days after the Federal Election Commission (FEC) lost its power to hand out campaign funds, the Senate passed, by a 62-29 vote, and sent to the President a bill to reestablish the panel as a presidentially appointed body and to free matching campaign funds for cash-starved presidential candidates.

In addition to reconstituting the commission, the bill moves to restrict the role of special interest groups as political financiers.

The House had passed the bill earlier by an overwhelming margin.

Supporters of the bill reconstituting the FEC said it met the objections of President Ford and business, who had opposed earlier versions of the legislation that placed tight restrictions on the fund-raising ability of corporate campaign committees. Backers called the measure a fair compromise between the labor and business positions.

Opponents charged that the bill curbed business' political fund raising activities while not substantially limiting labor's activities and unfairly changed campaign financing rules in the middle of the 1976 campaign.

Voting for FEC reconstitution bill: Hart (D).

Voting against FEC reconstitution bill: Griffin (R).

Day Care Standards Veto — By a 60-34 vote, three votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority, the Senate upheld President Ford's veto of a bill providing $125-million to help states meet standards for federally funded day care centers. These health, safety and staffing standards applied to centers primarily serving low-income families and former welfare recipients.

Members supporting an override of the President's veto argued that denying states the extra money would force some day care centers to close down and push some working mothers back on welfare as a result. If states did not meet the standards, supporters pointed out, they also would have to repay some federal funds they had already received. This loss of funding would also cripple day care programs in some states, they said.

Supporters of the President's veto argued that it made no sense to spend extra millions of the taxpayers' dollars to help states meet staffing requirements that many believe are too strict. Congress should suspend these requirements, they contended and then write legislation leaving staffing decisions up to the states. States know their needs better than federal bureaucrats, opponents concluded.

President Ford favored letting the states decide their own staffing standards and objected to the increased federal spending involved.

The House had voted previously to override the veto.

Voting to override veto of federal day care standards bill: Hart (D).

Voting not to override veto of federal day care standards bill: Griffin (R).

HOUSE

Day Care Standards Veto — With 33 votes to spare the House overrode President Ford's veto of the federal day care standards bill. The bill would have provided $125-million to help states meet health, safety and staffing requirements for centers serving low-income families and former welfare recipients.

Voting to override veto of federal day care standards bill: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

Voting to sustain veto of federal day care standards bill: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Congressional EPA Veto — The House voted 228-167 to give Congress authority to veto certain regulations proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Supporters of providing Congress with review authority said they wanted to apply the "congressional veto" system to all regulations as a way of reasserting control over a runaway bureaucracy.

Opponents said Congress does not have the time or expertise to review federal regulations, and should try instead to draft better laws.

Voting to allow congressional veto power over certain EPA regulations: Blanchard (D), Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Voting not to allow congressional veto power over certain EPA regulations: Conyers (D), Vander Jagt (R), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

Too Much Sleep

LONDON (AP) — British psychiatrist Jane Gomez says too much sleep can shorten your life but sex can make a woman live longer. Sex also stimulates the glands that keep women youthful, but male glands just don't respond to the treatment, the book says. Seven hours sleep a night is enough for any woman, Mrs. Gomez claims. She says men need 10 minutes more but doesn't explain why.

C.W. McCALL
To his fans

C.W. McCall 'Changes Spots' For Fans

By VIRGINIA L. TYSON
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — He's Bill Fries to his mother, but C.W. McCall to his fans.

Like Clark Kent in a phone booth, Fries has to make some changes before he becomes his alter-ego. The biggest change comes in his voice — once in the recording studio he switches into the raspy, country-twangy voice that once sold bread. Now that voice produces top selling records such as "Convoy," which rose to the No. 1 on the charts with its citizens band radio-trucker theme.

Fries, a former advertising man, also has to dress as McCall: blue jeans, denim jacket, cowboy boots, beige-tinted sunglasses. On his new album, Fries lists himself and C.W. McCall as writers.

"Well, I really put the Bill Fries in there strictly for my mother," he said with a laugh. "That way she'll know that her son has finally done something. Everyone else in the family understands."

But Fries says becoming C.W. McCall isn't that much of a change for him. "I never wanted to be the guy who wore a suit day after day; I never was a social climber, never an executive type," Fries said. "C.W. is what I really wanted to be, not a truck driver, per se, but what he represents: freedom, spirit, the love of outdoors.

"But my life-style has changed drastically. I don't have much time at home or to do things I like to do — like get in the Jeep, get my fishing rod and go fishing. I just don't have the time."

The road shows and the live performances represent a new education that he says he is trying to cram into a few short months. Others, he said, gain that experience as they work their way up to success.

"My biggest problem is just remembering my own lyrics," he said, noting that some of the songs have up to three pages of words.

Fries said he doesn't regret his former career in advertising — "I look back, and if I had to do it over again I'd be in advertising." Advertising, he said, is one of the most challenging careers, which unfortunately has earned a bad reputation because of some "Madison Avenue" types.

"I'd go back to it in an instant, if I didn't have all this going on," Fries said. But he said that at the time C.W. McCall caught on, he was toying with the idea of giving up advertising to open a little theater somewhere — a place where he could do "multimedia productions of my own, a strictly creative thing to do.

"This has come along now: It got me out of advertising, but it's allowed me less time to think about anything else."

He still keeps his hand in the advertising business by writing and recording commercials as C.W. McCall for Old Home Bread, the account which launched his success. And he said he would like to write for other artists, maybe lure them to Omaha away from what he calls "the big centers of confusion."

Fries said everyone expected him to come up with a sequel to Convoy. But he said, "We've done the CB (citizens band radio) story as well as we can do it. To come back would be a cheap shot."

C.W. McCall 'Changes Spots' For Fans

By VIRGINIA L. TYSON
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — He's Bill Fries to his mother, but C.W. McCall to his fans.

Like Clark Kent in a phone booth, Fries has to make some changes before he becomes his alter-ego. The biggest change comes in his voice — once in the recording studio he switches into the raspy, country-twangy voice that once sold bread. Now that voice produces top selling records such as "Convoy," which rose to the No. 1 on the charts with its citizens band radio-trucker theme.

Fries, a former advertising man, also has to dress as McCall: blue jeans, denim jacket, cowboy boots, beige-tinted sunglasses. On his new album, Fries lists himself and C.W. McCall as writers.

"Well, I really put the Bill Fries in there strictly for my mother," he said with a laugh. "That way she'll know that her son has finally done something. Everyone else in the family understands."

But Fries says becoming C.W. McCall isn't that much of a change for him. "I never wanted to be the guy who wore a suit day after day; I never was a social climber, never an executive type," Fries said. "C.W. is what I really wanted to be, not a truck driver, per se, but what he represents: freedom, spirit, the love of outdoors.

"But my life-style has changed drastically. I don't have much time at home or to do things I like to do — like get in the Jeep, get my fishing rod and go fishing. I just don't have the time."

The road shows and the live performances represent a new education that he says he is trying to cram into a few short months. Others, he said, gain that experience as they work their way up to success.

"My biggest problem is just remembering my own lyrics," he said, noting that some of the songs have up to three pages of words.

Fries said he doesn't regret his former career in advertising — "I look back, and if I had to do it over again I'd be in advertising." Advertising, he said, is one of the most challenging careers, which unfortunately has earned a bad reputation because of some "Madison Avenue" types.

"I'd go back to it in an instant, if I didn't have all this going on," Fries said. But he said that at the time C.W. McCall caught on, he was toying with the idea of giving up advertising to open a little theater somewhere — a place where he could do "multimedia productions of my own, a strictly creative thing to do.

"This has come along now: It got me out of advertising, but it's allowed me less time to think about anything else."

He still keeps his hand in the advertising business by writing and recording commercials as C.W. McCall for Old Home Bread, the account which launched his success. And he said he would like to write for other artists, maybe lure them to Omaha away from what he calls "the big centers of confusion."

Fries said everyone expected him to come up with a sequel to Convoy. But he said, "We've done the CB (citizens band radio) story as well as we can do it. To come back would be a cheap shot."

NEBRASKA: A 'Desert' Brought Into Bloom

By KRISS HENION

HASTINGS, Neb. (NEA) — Government reports in the mid 1800s referred to the land as a desert "almost wholly unfit for cultivation," important only as a route west.

But that land would prove to be richly fertile. And agriculture would become the dominant force shaping Nebraska.

Even before white settlers dreamed of sustaining themselves on the land of Nebraska, agriculture had begun there. The Indians most closely associated historically with the state were the Pawnees, a semi-sedentary farming tribe.

Prior to the nation's financial panic of 1857, white men in the area had little serious interest in agriculture. Instead, elaborate claims on the future of commerce and industry were made by speculators. Others searched for wealth from minerals.

But farming, with all its uncertainties, proved to be the most dependable way to make a living.

Nebraska eventually developed two personalities, determined largely by geography. In the subhumid eastern farming sector, the appearance and point of view of the people are midwestern. To the west, the Sandhills ranches and great cattle ranges have a western flavor.

The Homestead Act, signed by President Lincoln in 1862, ultimately brought more than a hundred thousand homesteaders into the state. Nebraskans have been traditionally conservative in politics and finance. But in other ways they have been gamblers. Their dependence on the basic and on their fellow man was a gamble at times. And they gambled on the things they could not control — weather, soil, prices.

But, sometimes through gambles, they gradually learned to exert some control on those forces.

Coming from the eastern states and European countries, settlers in Nebraska were accustomed to abundant timber and water. Lacking this in the new land, they innovated. Sod was used to build houses. Buffalo chips became fuel. Deep wells were sunk to pump water. And cultivation for dryland farming was developed.

Those who endured had to persevere against prairie fires, droughts, blizzards and grasshopper scourges.

In an attempt to control their poor economic position in the late 1800s, discontented farmers protested through the Farmer's Alliance, from which grew the Populist party. A young congressman from Lincoln, William Jennings Bryan, came to prominence then by helping to persuade the Populists and Democrats to unite as an effective political force.

In the boom period of the 1890s, Nebraska temporarily ignored its conservative tradition in favor of a speculative binge. James C. Olson wrote: "Progress was in the air. The good crops, the railroads, the growing population all suggested great things. Any town could become a commercial center or a great railway metropolis, or both. Not a few believed that in time the greatness of the new West would necessitate the abandonment of Washington for a national headquarters on the Plains. Raw villages indulged in rosy dreams of greatness, and gas lights twinkled where the coyotes should have been left undisturbed. Everywhere the dreams of greatness were implemented with borrowed money ..."

But the next decade brought hard times and the state back to reality. Though gains had been made in other areas, Nebraska remained an agricultural state of small towns.

By the end of the nineteenth century the Nebraska homesteaders were beginning to enjoy some comforts of town life, centered around church and school.

After the frontier period ended, to preserve its memory William F. Cody planned a Wild West Show. It was first presented in Omaha in 1883, and eventually played around the world. Adequate rainfall and good crops blessed Nebraska during the first three decades of the twentieth century as farming advanced.

When the first world war broke out, many Nebraskans sided with native son Bryan who resigned as Secretary of State when he believed President Wilson was becoming overinvolved with the Allies. Another Nebraskan, Sen. George W. Norris, fought to preserve American neutrality and voted against America's entry into the war.

But pro-Ally feeling prevailed in Nebraska, and after America was committed to fight, anti-German feelings brought hardships for the largest single ethnic group in the state.

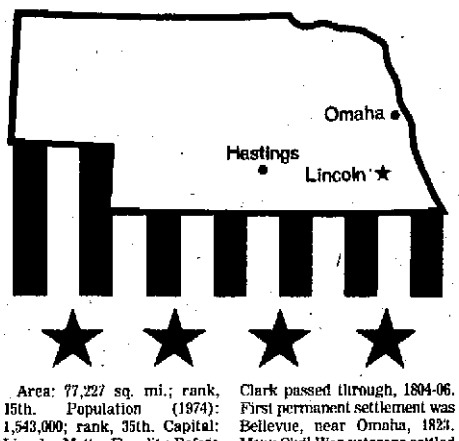

Innovations in Nebraska included two unique actions in the 1930s. A one-house nonpartisan legislature was approved and a law was enacted permitting Nebraskans to organize public power and irrigation districts. The Consumers Public Power district was organized and purchased all the private electric companies, making this the only state with all power systems publicly owned.

Often cultural trends — fads, styles, crime — arrived in Nebraska later and with less impact than on the coasts.

Yet, changes are underway. The farms are becoming larger and more mechanized, the people more sophisticated and the industry more diversified.

The pace of changes may be conservative — but the uncertainties of the weather and agricultural economy still demand constant gambles.

NEBRASKA: A 'Desert' Brought Into Bloom

By KRISS HENION

HASTINGS, Neb. (NEA) — Government reports in the mid 1800s referred to the land as a desert "almost wholly unfit for cultivation," important only as a route west.

But that land would prove to be richly fertile. And agriculture would become the dominant force shaping Nebraska.

Even before white settlers dreamed of sustaining themselves on the land of Nebraska, agriculture had begun there. The Indians most closely associated historically with the state were the Pawnees, a semi-sedentary farming tribe.

Prior to the nation's financial panic of 1857, white men in the area had little serious interest in agriculture. Instead, elaborate claims on the future of commerce and industry were made by speculators. Others searched for wealth from minerals.

But farming, with all its uncertainties, proved to be the most dependable way to make a living.

Nebraska eventually developed two personalities, determined largely by geography. In the subhumid eastern farming sector, the appearance and point of view of the people are midwestern. To the west, the Sandhills ranches and great cattle ranges have a western flavor.

The Homestead Act, signed by President Lincoln in 1862, ultimately brought more than a hundred thousand homesteaders into the state. Nebraskans have been traditionally conservative in politics and finance. But in other ways they have been gamblers. Their dependence on the basic and on their fellow man was a gamble at times. And they gambled on the things they could not control — weather, soil, prices.

But, sometimes through gambles, they gradually learned to exert some control on those forces.

Coming from the eastern states and European countries, settlers in Nebraska were accustomed to abundant timber and water. Lacking this in the new land, they innovated. Sod was used to build houses. Buffalo chips became fuel. Deep wells were sunk to pump water. And cultivation for dryland farming was developed.

Those who endured had to persevere against prairie fires, droughts, blizzards and grasshopper scourges.

In an attempt to control their poor economic position in the late 1800s, discontented farmers protested through the Farmer's Alliance, from which grew the Populist party. A young congressman from Lincoln, William Jennings Bryan, came to prominence then by helping to persuade the Populists and Democrats to unite as an effective political force.

In the boom period of the 1880s, Nebraska temporarily ignored its conservative tradition in favor of a speculative binge. James C. Olson wrote: "Progress was in the air. The good crops, the railroads, the growing population all suggested great things. Any town could become a commercial center or a great railway metropolis, or both. Not a few believed that in time the greatness of the new West would necessitate the abandonment of Washington for a national headquarters on the Plains. Raw villages indulged in rosy dreams of greatness, and gas lights twinkled where the coyotes should have been left undisturbed. Everywhere the dreams of greatness were implemented with borrowed money ..."

But the next decade brought hard times and the state back to reality. Though gains had been made in other areas, Nebraska remained an agricultural state of small towns.

By the end of the nineteenth century the Nebraska homesteaders were beginning to enjoy some comforts of town life, centered around church and school.

After the frontier period ended, to preserve its memory William F. Cody planned a Wild West Show. It was first presented in Omaha in 1883, and eventually played around the world. Adequate rainfall and good crops blessed Nebraska during the first three decades of the twentieth century as farming advanced.

When the first world war broke out, many Nebraskans sided with native son Bryan who resigned as Secretary of State when he believed President Wilson was becoming overinvolved with the Allies. Another Nebraskan, Sen. George W. Norris, fought to preserve American neutrality and voted against America's entry into the war.

But pro-Ally feeling prevailed in Nebraska, and after America was committed to fight, anti-German feelings brought hardships for the largest single ethnic group in the state.

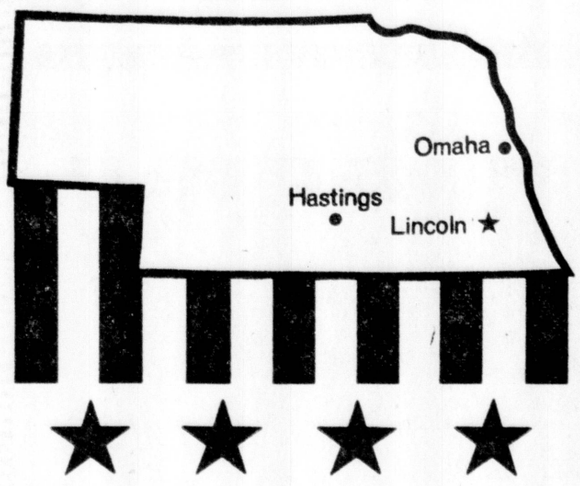

Innovations in Nebraska included two unique actions in the 1930s. A one-house nonpartisan legislature was approved and a law was enacted permitting Nebraskans to organize public power and irrigation districts. The Consumers Public Power district was organized and purchased all the private electric companies, making this the only state with all power systems publicly owned.

Often cultural trends — fads, styles, crime — arrived in Nebraska later and with less impact than on the coasts.

Yet, changes are underway. The farms are becoming larger and more mechanized, the people more sophisticated and the industry more diversified.

The pace of changes may be conservative — but the uncertainties of the weather and agricultural economy still demand constant gambles.

Van Buren Eyes $3,046,351 Budget In '77

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A tentative 1977 Van Buren county budget released this week by the finance committee of the board of commissioners calls for expenditures of $3,046,351, an increase of $273,083 over this year's budget. But Finance Chairman Gerald Rendel said the budget is only for purposes of presentation at Monday's meeting of the county tax allocation board, and that he expected there would be a lot of trimming done before the final draft is approved next October.

Rendel said department heads were asked to estimate what they would need for next year, and that the finance committee has not yet studied the requests in depth. The budget, with the 1976 figure in parentheses, is based on revenue of: property taxes, $1,775,948 ($1,509,285); four-tenths mill for ambulance service, $120,493 ($114,993); and estimated income tax returns of $330,000, fees and other revenues, $570,000; and a surplus of $250,000, all of which are unchanged from this year. In order to balance the budget, Rendel said a figure of 5.81 mills was used to produce the projected local tax revenue. Presently, the county's share of 15 mills allocated to the township, county, and schools is 5.25 mills.

Over one-third of the budget, $1,122,409, is allocated to court or law enforcement related activities. Of that figure, the largest single item in the budget is a request by the sheriff's department for $530,025, up about $102,000 over this year. The next largest request, by the health department, is for $278,542, about $16,000 higher than the amount budgeted for this year.

Items in the budget, with this year's appropriation in parentheses, include:

Warshawsky Will Run To Fill Term

PAW PAW — Van Buren Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky announced today he will seek election this fall to the circuit judgeship, a post he has held since being appointed Jan. 1. Warshawsky, 53, is the only announced candidate so far in the November non-partisan election for the judgeship.

He will seek to fill the remaining two years of a six-year term cut short last January when Judge David Anderson, Jr. retired.

Warshawsky served as Anderson's temporary replacement until March when Gov. William Milliken made the appointment permanent until November. The circuit judgeship pays $32,500 annually.

Warshawsky continues to serve as the county's acting probate and juvenile court judge pending the appointment of his replacement by the governor. Milliken had named him to the office in 1970.

Prior to his service on the bench, Warshawsky served as the county's prosecutor from 1958 to 1962.

He and his wife, Esther, live in South Haven where she is a reading specialist with the South Haven school district. The couple has two children at Michigan State university.

Parker Resigns Watervliet Job For Tenn. Post

WATERVLIET — Howard Parker, administrator of Community hospital, Watervliet, for the past 5½ years, is leaving for a new job at a hospital in Greeneville, Tennessee, it was announced today. Parker, 43, came to Watervliet in October, 1970. He has accepted a job as assistant administrator at Takoma hospital, Greeneville, and will begin his duties there June 1. The hospital is affiliated with the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Richard Lindenberg, president of Community hospital's board of trustees, said the board had hoped to persuade Parker to stay.

"We like Howard and respect his professional administration of this hospital," Lindenberg said. "Although substantial efforts have been made to have him stay, his reasons for leaving, personal commitment and dedication are unquestioned," he added.

Lindenberg noted that Parker had guided the planning of a $5.2 million, 70-bed replacement facility for the hospital soon to be built.

"For compelling reasons, I have made a difficult decision to leave," Parker said. "The board, medical staff and hospital personnel have worked hard and effectively. I am grateful to all of them."

Parker said the approvals, financing and fund-raising for the new hospital are well underway making now an appropriate time for him to change jobs.

"I have complete confidence in the success of the project," he said.

Parker and his wife, Betty, live at route 3, Watervliet, and have three children. A 1960 graduate of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, Parker came to Watervliet from Mt. Pleasant, Mich., where he was administrator of Central Michigan Community hospital.

Parker and his family are members of the Hartford Seventh-day Adventist church.

Lindenberg indicated a replacement for Parker would soon be named.

Want Bottle Ban Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Commission of Agriculture favors putting the issue of banning non-returnable beverage containers on the November ballot. Michigan Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball said Wednesday the commission recently voted unanimously to support efforts to place the issue on the November ballot by petition. He said commissioners feel that discarded beverage containers pose special problems for Michigan farmers since they damage farm equipment, contaminate harvested crops and are hazardous to both humans and livestock.

Some Pro-Gambling, Some Not

DETROIT (AP) — A state-authorized survey of 800 households indicates Detroit residents favor legalized gambling casinos but Michigan residents on the whole are more against the idea than for it. The survey was conducted in January by Market Opinion Research, a Detroit polling firm, at the request of the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice Programs. The survey said 47 per cent of Michigan residents oppose casino gambling because they fear it would generate organized crime. Some 46 per cent favored the idea, saying they did so mainly because people gamble anyway and casino gambling would bring more revenue to the state. In Detroit, 55 per cent of those polled favored casino gambling while 35 per cent opposed it. In another phase of the poll, 53 per cent said that if gambling were legal, it should be state operated. Another 25 per cent said that in such cases, the casinos should be operated by the private sector under state license.

Marketers To Hail Area Winery Chief

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — James J. Warner, president of Warner Vineyards, Paw Paw, will be honored as the 1976 Marketing Man of the Year by the West Michigan chapter of the American Marketing association at its annual awards dinner May 18 at the Kalamazoo Center.

Warner's selection, according to the chapter, was made on the basis of his innovation in marketing approach, implementation of successful marketing strategies, and the development of new marketing principles and techniques.

Under Warner's guidance, a release said, Warner Vineyards decided to direct its future growth toward the production of premium table wines by grafting delicate French hybrid grapes to sturdy American rootstock.

The change meant convincing area growers to convert their vineyards to the French-American hybrid grapes, a process considered much riskier and costlier than growing the Delaware and Concord grapes native to Michigan, the release said.

To speed up the transition process, under Warner's direction in 1968 the company purchased 500 acres of vineyards to produce such French hybrid varieties as Marechal Foch, Baco Noir, Aurora Blanc, Seyval Blanc, and Chelois.

The first of the wines produced from the Aurora Blanc and Seyval Blanc grapes, Warner Brut Champagne, was named the Michigan Product of the Year in 1973.

The release also noted that Warner has been instrumental in instituting the 500-year-old Solera process, a method of aging and blending wines requiring complex attention. In 1975 Warner Solera Cream Sherry and Warner Solera Port were named the state's Product of the Year.

Presently, Warner is the state's largest winery and produces 13 premium wines. A subsidiary, the Paw Paw Grape Juice company, is the fourth largest producer of grape juice in the nation.

One wine buying chain, the release said, noted that Warner's leadership in marketing has "caused the major world suppliers to sit up and take notice...We predict that in the next five years, these wines, and additional varietals to come from the vineyard to be among the better sellers of domestic table and dessert wines."

Warner is the son of James K. Warner, chairman of the board and the son-in-law of the founder of the company's predecessor, Michigan Wineries. James J. Warner joined the firm as director of marketing in 1965, became executive vice-president in 1968, and was named president last month.

Public Land Purchase Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A House committee has tentatively expanded a bill which would use oil and gas drilling royalties for the purchase of public land. As the bill passed the Senate, it would have used royalties from any drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest for such land acquisition. But the House Conservation Committee is considering a new version which would use royalties from all drilling and mineral extraction in Michigan for the purchase of public land. Such a land trust fund has been proposed by Gov. William Milliken.

But Finance Chairman Gerald Rendel said the budget is only for purposes of presentation at Monday's meeting of the county tax allocation board, and that he expected there would be a lot of trimming done before the final draft is approved next October.

Rendel said department heads were asked to estimate what they would need for next year, and that the finance committee has not yet studied the requests in depth. The budget, with the 1976 figure in parentheses, is based on revenue of: property taxes, $1,775,948 ($1,509,285); four-tenths mill for ambulance service, $120,403 ($114,993); and estimated income tax returns of $330,000, fees and other revenues, $570,000; and a surplus of $250,000, all of which are unchanged from this year. In order to balance the budget, Rendel said a figure of 5.81 mills was used to produce the projected local tax revenue. Presently, the county's share of 15 mills allocated to the township, county, and schools is 5.25 mills.

Over one-third of the budget, $1,122,409, is allocated to court or law enforcement related activities. Of that figure, the largest single item in the budget is a request by the sheriff's department for $530,025, up about $102,000 over this year. The next largest request, by the health department, is for $278,542, about $16,000 higher than the amount budgeted for this year.

Items in the budget, with this year's appropriation in parentheses, include:

Warshawsky Will Run To Fill Term

PAW PAW — Van Buren Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky announced today he will seek election this fall to the circuit judgeship, a post he has held since being appointed Jan. 1. Warshawsky, 53, is the only announced candidate so far in the November non-partisan election for the judgeship.

He will seek to fill the remaining two years of a six-year term cut short last January when Judge David Anderson, Jr. retired.

Warshawsky served as Anderson's temporary replacement until March when Gov. William Milliken made the appointment permanent until November. The circuit judgeship pays $32,500 annually.

Warshawsky continues to serve as the county's acting probate and juvenile court judge pending the appointment of his replacement by the governor. Milliken had named him to the office in 1970.

Prior to his service on the bench, Warshawsky served as the county's prosecutor from 1958 to 1962.

He and his wife, Esther, live in South Haven where she is a reading specialist with the South Haven school district. The couple has two children at Michigan State university.

Want Bottle Ban Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Commission of Agriculture favors putting the issue of banning non-returnable beverage containers on the November ballot. Michigan Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball said Wednesday the commission recently voted unanimously to support efforts to place the issue on the November ballot by petition. He said commissioners feel that discarded beverage containers pose special problems for Michigan farmers since they damage farm equipment, contaminate harvested crops and are hazardous to both humans and livestock.

Parker Resigns Watervliet Job For Tenn. Post

WATERVLIET — Howard Parker, administrator of Community hospital, Watervliet, for the past 5½ years, is leaving for a new job at a hospital in Greeneville, Tennessee, it was announced today. Parker, 43, came to Watervliet in October, 1970. He has accepted a job as assistant administrator at Takoma hospital, Greeneville, and will begin his duties there June 1. The hospital is affiliated with the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Richard Lindenberg, president of Community hospital's board of trustees, said the board had hoped to persuade Parker to stay.

"We like Howard and respect his professional administration of this hospital," Lindenberg said. "Although substantial efforts have been made to have him stay, his reasons for leaving, personal commitment and dedication are unquestioned," he added.

Lindenberg noted that Parker had guided the planning of a $5.2 million, 70-bed replacement facility for the hospital soon to be built.

"For compelling reasons, I have made a difficult decision to leave," Parker said. "The board, medical staff and hospital personnel have worked hard and effectively. I am grateful to all of them."

Parker said the approvals, financing and fund-raising for the new hospital are well underway making now an appropriate time for him to change jobs.

"I have complete confidence in the success of the project," he said.

Parker and his wife, Betty, live at route 3, Watervliet, and have three children. A 1960 graduate of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, Parker came to Watervliet from Mt. Pleasant, Mich., where he was administrator of Central Michigan Community hospital.

Parker and his family are members of the Hartford Seventh-day Adventist church.

Lindenberg indicated a replacement for Parker would soon be named.

Marketers To Hail Area Winery Chief

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — James J. Warner, president of Warner Vineyards, Paw Paw, will be honored as the 1976 Marketing Man of the Year by the West Michigan chapter of the American Marketing association at its annual awards dinner May 18 at the Kalamazoo Center.

Warner's selection, according to the chapter, was made on the basis of his innovation in marketing approach, implementation of successful marketing strategies, and the development of new marketing principles and techniques.

Under Warner's guidance, a release said, Warner Vineyards decided to direct its future growth toward the production of premium table wines by grafting delicate French hybrid grapes to sturdy American rootstock.

The change meant convincing area growers to convert their vineyards to the French-American hybrid grapes, a process considered much riskier and costlier than growing the Delaware and Concord grapes native to Michigan, the release said.

To speed up the transition process, under Warner's direction in 1968 the company purchased 500 acres of vineyards to produce such French hybrid varieties as Marechal Foch, Baco Noir, Aurora Blanc, Seyval Blanc, and Chelois.

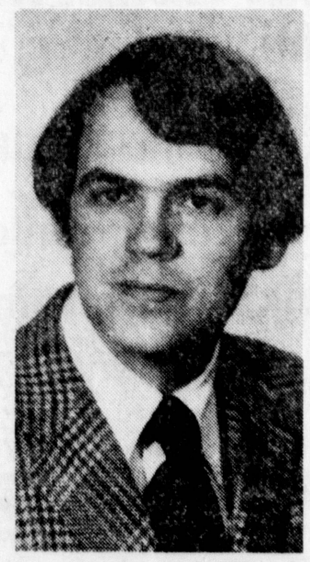

The first of the wines produced from the Aurora Blanc and Seyval Blanc grapes, Warner Brut Champagne, was named the Michigan Product of the Year in 1973.

The release also noted that Warner has been instrumental in instituting the 500-year-old Solera process, a method of aging and blending wines requiring complex attention. In 1975 Warner Solera Cream Sherry and Warner Solera Port were named the state's Product of the Year.

Presently, Warner is the state's largest winery and produces 13 premium wines. A subsidiary, the Paw Paw Grape Juice company, is the fourth largest producer of grape juice in the nation.

One wine buying chain, the release said, noted that Warner's leadership in marketing has "caused the major world suppliers to sit up and take notice...We predict that in the next five years, these wines, and additional varietals to come from the vineyard to be among the better sellers of domestic table and dessert wines."

Warner is the son of James K. Warner, chairman of the board and the son-in-law of the founder of the company's predecessor, Michigan Wineries. James J. Warner joined the firm as director of marketing in 1965, became executive vice-president in 1968, and was named president last month.

Some Pro-Gambling, Some Not

DETROIT (AP) — A state-authorized survey of 800 households indicates Detroit residents favor legalized gambling casinos but Michigan residents on the whole are more against the idea than for it. The survey was conducted in January by Market Opinion Research, a Detroit polling firm, at the request of the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice Programs. The survey said 47 per cent of Michigan residents oppose casino gambling because they fear it would generate organized crime. Some 46 per cent favored the idea, saying they did so mainly because people gamble anyway and casino gambling would bring more revenue to the state. In Detroit, 55 per cent of those polled favored casino gambling while 35 per cent opposed it. In another phase of the poll, 53 per cent said that if gambling were legal, it should be state operated. Another 25 per cent said that in such cases, the casinos should be operated by the private sector under state license.

Public Land Purchase Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A House committee has tentatively expanded a bill which would use oil and gas drilling royalties for the purchase of public land. As the bill passed the Senate, it would have used royalties from any drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest for such land acquisition. But the House Conservation Committee is considering a new version which would use royalties from all drilling and mineral extraction in Michigan for the purchase of public land. Such a land trust fund has been proposed by Gov. William Milliken.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Would-Be Rider Hits Bus Driver, Officers Learn

A bus driver for the Benton Harbor area schools said she was struck several times and knocked to the ground Wednesday after refusing a ride to a young woman who got on the bus as it waited to take junior high school students home, city police reported.

Nelline Robinson, 58, of 399 Brunson avenue, did not require medical treatment following the incident shortly before 3 p.m.

She told police the bus was parked at the intersection of Broadway and Lake street and that the young woman was not a Benton Harbor junior high student.

Police said no arrest was made, pending signing of a complaint.

Two pickup trucks were reported stolen Wednesday from car lots in Benton Harbor and Benton township including a 1976 truck that was to have been picked up by the owner yesterday, police reported.

Township police said the 1976 Ford Ranger pickup was reported stolen from the rear lot of Ashley Ford Sales, Inc., 1074 East Napier avenue. Police said employes discovered the theft of the white and brown vehicle when they went to ready it for delivery.

City police said a 1962 Chevrolet pickup was taken from the lot at Franklin's Body Shop, 395 East Main street. The light green truck had been towed to the shop by police order after its driver was ticketed Tuesday for having no operator's license, police reported.

Three CB radios were reported stolen Tuesday to Benton Harbor police, two from cars parked in a lot at Mercy hospital, 960 Agard avenue. Those units, valued at a total of $309, were from cars of Freeman Harrison, 718 Tower drive, Benton Heights, and Allen Dill, 5676 Clark street, Coloma. The other radio, valued at $139, was from the car of Mrs. Delores Forker, 1058 McAllister avenue.

Other thefts reported to Benton township police were:

—One hundred fifty gallons of gasoline, valued at $75, from a tank at the residence of Sam Azzario, 990 Zoschke road.

—A tape player and two recorded tapes, valued at $82, from the car of Kathy Price, 2088 East Empire avenue.

Benton Harbor police said window screens were reported torn and four windows broken at an apartment house at 725 McAllister avenue, Tuesday. Damage was estimated at more than $100, police reported.

William Kibler, 804 West John Beers road, Stevensville, told Berrien sheriff's deputies early today his mobile home was broken into and hi-fi equipment stolen. Missing were two tape recorders and a stereo receiver, all valued at $700, Kibler said.

Berrien sheriff's deputies arrested two men early today on charges of possession of stolen property after a computer check showed the car they were in was reported stolen in New York.

Deputy Fred Schaub said he spotted the 1969 Oldsmobile Toronado with New York license plates at the Holmstead restaurant, Napier avenue near I-94, Benton township, about 2 a.m. He said the computer check was delayed and that by the time it was learned the car was stolen, it was gone from the restaurant.

Deputy Dean Kugle stopped the car on I-94 near Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, about 2:30 a.m. The car was reported as stolen from New York City a week ago, Schaub said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Robert Awes, 51, Minneapolis, Minn., and William H. Bailey, 28, Montclair, N.J.

Holland Man Guilty Of Assault Charges

A Holland man accused of assaulting a Benton Harbor police lieutenant and another man with a knife was convicted Wednesday in Berrien Circuit court on two charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Jurors in Judge Julian E. Hughes' court deliberated about 50 minutes before returning guilty verdicts against Jesse James Fisk, 50, who was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing of up to four years in prison.

He was charged with assaulting Lt. Harry Lenardson and Willie Ervin with a knife July 19 at Second street and Territorial road in Benton Harbor. Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher and St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich.

Hartford Man Asks Van Buren Hearing

PAW PAW — Lloyd J. Urick, 21, of rural Hartford, demanded preliminary examination in Van Buren Seventh district court yesterday when arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Urick was arrested following a complaint by Arthur O. Kemm that he had been struck and kicked during an altercation at the John Babcock migrant camp on 77th avenue in Keeler township May 8, according to Van Buren sheriff's deputies.

Kemm, 27, of Coloma, was treated for cuts and bruises at Watervliet Community hospital, and released, deputies said.

Urick was released on his own recognizance pending a May 18 hearing.

In other cases, Thomas Brown, 56, no permanent address, was ordered held on $5,000 bond after demanding preliminary examination on charges of auto theft and carrying a concealed capon. A May 18 hearing was scheduled. Brown was arrested in Bloomingdale Tuesday. During the investigation a rifle was confiscated.

Charles Lee Colbert, 21, Hartford, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court after waiving preliminary examinato on a charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly rape). The information alleges he assaulted a 15-year-old girl near Decatu April 16.

James P. Johnson, 31, Detroit, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of forgery. The complaint alleges he cashed a forged check for $56 last Oct. 1 at the Ports of Call party store in Antwerp township.

BH Men Demand Hearings In Court

Two Benton Harbor men demanded preliminary hearings Wednesday in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100.

Leslie D. Malone, 23, of 770 Colfax avenue, and Kersey W. Barnes, 40, of 376 Miller street, are accused of the crime March 25 in Benton Harbor involving a citizens' band radio. They were jailed under bonds of $10,000 and $500, respectively.

Bound over to circuit court were:

James Tyes, 17, of 158 Townline road, Benton township, charged with breaking and entering a Benton township house April 16 and unarmed robbery of Minnie Patterson April 24 in Benton township. He remained jailed under $20,000 bond. He waived examinations.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Would-Be Rider Hits Bus Driver, Officers Learn

A bus driver for the Benton Harbor area schools said she was struck several times and knocked to the ground Wednesday after refusing a ride to a young woman who got on the bus as it waited to take junior high school students home, city police reported.

Nelline Robinson, 58, of 399 Brunson avenue, did not require medical treatment following the incident shortly before 3 p.m.

She told police the bus was parked at the intersection of Broadway and Lake street and that the young woman was not a Benton Harbor junior high student.

Police said no arrest was made, pending signing of a complaint.

Two pickup trucks were reported stolen Wednesday from car lots in Benton Harbor and Benton township including a 1976 truck that was to have been picked up by the owner yesterday, police reported.

Township police said the 1976 Ford Ranger pickup was reported stolen from the rear lot of Ashley Ford Sales, Inc., 1074 East Napier avenue. Police said employes discovered the theft of the white and brown vehicle when they went to ready it for delivery.

City police said a 1962 Chevrolet pickup was taken from the lot at Franklin's Body Shop, 395 East Main street. The light green truck had been towed to the shop by police order after its driver was ticketed Tuesday for having no operator's license, police reported.

Three CB radios were reported stolen Tuesday to Benton Harbor police, two from cars parked in a lot at Mercy hospital, 960 Agard avenue. Those units, valued at a total of $309, were from cars of Freeman Harrison, 718 Tower drive, Benton Heights, and Allen Dill, 5676 Clark street, Coloma. The other radio, valued at $139, was from the car of Mrs. Delores Forker, 1058 McAllister avenue.

Other thefts reported to Benton township police were:

—One hundred fifty gallons of gasoline, valued at $75, from a tank at the residence of Sam Azzario, 990 Zoschke road.

—A tape player and two recorded tapes, valued at $82, from the car of Kathy Price, 2088 East Empire avenue.

Benton Harbor police said window screens were reported torn and four windows broken at an apartment house at 725 McAllister avenue, Tuesday. Damage was estimated at more than $100, police reported.

William Kibler, 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville, told Berrien sheriff's deputies early today his mobile home was broken into and hi-fi equipment stolen. Missing were two tape recorders and a stereo receiver, all valued at $700, Kibler said.

Berrien sheriff's deputies arrested two men early today on charges of possession of stolen property after a computer check showed the car they were in was reported stolen in New York.

Deputy Fred Schaub said he spotted the 1969 Oldsmobile Toronado with New York license plates at the Holmstead restaurant, Napier avenue near I-94, Benton township, about 2 a.m. He said the computer check was delayed and that by the time it was learned the car was stolen, it was gone from the restaurant.

Deputy Dean Kugle stopped the car on I-94 near Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, about 2:30 a.m. The car was reported as stolen from New York City a week ago, Schaub said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Robert Awes, 54, Minneapolis, Minn., and William H. Bailey, 28, Montclair, N.J.

Holland Man Guilty Of Assault Charges

A Holland man accused of assaulting a Benton Harbor police lieutenant and another man with a knife was convicted Wednesday in Berrien Circuit court on two charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Jurors in Judge Julian E. Hughes' court deliberated about 50 minutes before returning guilty verdicts against Jesse James Fisk, 50, who was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing of up to four years in prison.

He was charged with assaulting Lt. Harry Lenardson and Willie Ervin with a knife July 19 at Second street and Territorial road in Benton Harbor. Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher and St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich.

Hartford Man Asks Van Buren Hearing

PAW PAW — Lloyd J. Urick, 21, of rural Hartford, demanded preliminary examination in Van Buren Seventh district court yesterday when arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Urick was arrested following a complaint by Arthur O. Kemm that he had been struck and kicked during an altercation at the John Babcock migrant camp on 77th avenue in Keeler township May 8, according to Van Buren sheriff's deputies.

Kemm, 27, of Coloma, was treated for cuts and bruises at Watervliet Community hospital, and released, deputies said.

Urick was released on his own recognizance pending a May 18 hearing.

In other cases, Thomas Brown, 56, no permanent address, was ordered held on $5,000 bond after demanding preliminary examination on charges of auto theft and carrying a concealed eapon. A May 18 hearing was scheduled. Brown was arrested in Bloomingdale Tuesday . During the investigation a nife was confiscated.

Charles Lee Colbert, 21, Hartford, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court after waiving preliminary examinato on a charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly rape). The information alleges he assaulted a 15-year-old girl near Decatu April 16.

Campaign Worries Delegates

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — American delegates at the fourth United Nations Conference on Trade and Development say they want to avoid a blowup that could harm President Ford's campaign in the presidential primaries. But Ronald Reagan's victories "underscore the fact that we cannot go any farther than we have already," one representative of the Ford administration said. "We have consulted with Congress and have broad congressional support," this American said. "But Secretary of State (Henry A.) Kissinger made it clear to ministers in Nairobi that this is not just our opening position — this is it."

Campaign Worries Delegates

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — American delegates at the fourth United Nations Conference on Trade and Development say they want to avoid a blowup that could harm President Ford's campaign in the presidential primaries. But Ronald Reagan's victories "underscore the fact that we cannot go any farther than we have already," one representative of the Ford administration said. "We have consulted with Congress and have broad congressional support," this American said. "But Secretary of State (Henry A.) Kissinger made it clear to ministers in Nairobi that this is not just our opening position — this is it."

House To Probe Fellow Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee, for the first time in its eight-year existence, is going to conduct a formal investigation into a congressman's conduct.

The panel voted 9-to-0 in closed session Wednesday to move from a preliminary inquiry to a formal investigation of conflict of interest charges against Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla.

NUCLEAR CAPABILITY

NEW YORK (AP) — South Africa is capable of producing nuclear weapons for its own defense, Prime Minister John Vorster says in an interview in this week's issue of Newsweek Magazine. "We are only interested in the peaceful application of nuclear power. But we can enrich uranium and we have the capability," he said.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Opening Stocks Retreat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today under the persistent pressure of rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped about 2 points in the early going, and losers took a moderate lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was unsettled by sharp increases of late in both short term money rates and long term rates in the bond market.

Rising interest rates have the effect of increasing the relative attractiveness of interest-bearing investments, which compete with stocks for investors' favor.

Today's early prices included Warnaco, down ⅛ at 10½; Potlatch Corp., up ⅜ at 57⅜; Canadian Pacific, unchanged at 18⅜, and Hillenbrand, ⅛ lower at 22.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average dipped .91 to 1,005.67 for its second straight fractional loss.

Declines held a 4-3 edge on gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was down .10 at 54.74.

Big Board volume was a moderate 18.51 million shares.

Sunday Banking Gets Nod

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Banks can stay open all weekend, the Michigan attorney general has ruled.

In an opinion issued Wednesday, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said banks or savings and loan associations may operate on Sundays.

Kelley said the legislature has passed no laws limiting the days or hours during which financial institutions may open for business. He said that if these institutions amend their bylaws they can operate on Sundays.

But he said the state Financial Institutions Bureau and the legislature should study whether "unlimited and uncontrolled operations of banks and savings and loan associations" could hurt smaller independent concerns that are unable to compete.

The opinion was requested by Russell Kropschot, chief deputy commissioner of the Financial Institutions Bureau.

Millions Ride On Coin Flip

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — A quick flip of a coin has given a $3.755 million contract to a Grand Rapids construction firm.

Owen-Ames-Kimball became prime contractor on the $7.2 million waste water treatment plant for Ionia and two townships through the flip of a coin this week at the Ionia County Courthouse.

Erhardt Construction, also of Grand Rapids, had submitted an identical bid. But its president, Lawrence Erhardt, called heads and the coin turned up tails — costing Erhardt the job.

Donald Holly, engineering consultant for the project which also involves five smaller contracts, said he sought advice from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on breaking the deadlock.

He said the coin flip method drew no objections.

STUDENTS INTERVIEWED

Whirlpool, Union Still 'Way Apart'

Spokesmen for Whirlpool Corp. and Local 1918 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace workers today reported there has still been no progress on contract negotiations.

And while contract talks are stalled, a company spokesman confirmed Whirlpool is interviewing students for possible employment, noting: "We may need a limited number."

The local's contract with Whirlpool's St. Joseph division expired Thursday at midnight and there has been no production since. The company's position is that the union is on strike, while the union contends the work stoppage is a lockout.

According to Jay VanDenBerg, director of industrial and community relations and chief spokesman for the St. Joseph division, both Whirlpool and the union were asked to meet yesterday afternoon at the request of the federal mediator.

He said, however, the two sides did not meet in joint session and there was no progress on a new contract.

Albert Romeo, Jr., president of the local, said the union and Whirlpool met separately with the mediator but held no joint meetings, and added he did not foresee any.

Romeo also noted that the two sides are "still way apart" on two primary issues—improved dental benefits and a 30 and out retirement program.

VanDenBerg confirmed the division is doing some interviewing of students but said there are "no firm plans for hiring."

He said the work stoppage is having some company-wide impact, since the St. Joseph division makes parts for some of the other Whirlpool divisions.

"If we're not back in full production by the beginning of next week we will have to do a pretty strong evaluation at that point," VanDenBerg said of the prospects of hiring some of the students. "We have requirdments to keep the other divisions in operation," he said, "and the situation is being evaluated as to what our needs would be."

VanDenBerg stressed there are no final plans or a deadline of when the students might be hired, but noted: "We do have an obligation to our customers, both Sears and Whirlpool." Whirlpool manufactures appliances under contract with Sears which are sold under Sears brand names.

First Home Buyers Find It Tougher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of new homes are rising at an annual rate of 22 per cent, throwing "a big question mark" over the ability of builders to construct houses that are cheap enough for families buying their first home, a government agency says.

The median sale price of a new home in February was $43,000, compared to $36,000 in February 1975, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Wednesday in its monthly economic analysis newsletter.

Prices rose 13 per cent in the 12-month period, but soared at the 22 per cent annual rate during the last six months. And early indicatios were that the median price rose to nearly $44,000 in March, the board added.

The median price of $43,000 means that half the new homes in the country were sold for less than that sum and half were sold for more.

The board, which regulates the savings and loan associations that provide most home mortgages, said the rising prices "throw a big question mark over the ability of builders to reach more of the mass market of first-time home purchasers."

The sharp upswing in house prices is "surprising" because it "is completely out of proportion to the improvement in the financial state of the average consumer," the board said. It also appears "to contradict the publicity about the increasing importance of 'no-frill' housing."

Many builders have reduced lot and house sizes and eliminated luxury trimmings in an attempt to keep new-home prices within reach of first-time buyers who otherwise would be squeezed out of the market.

But the board indicated that strategy may not be working, saying the figures suggest that the relatively affluent, whose old homes have soared in value, are buying expensive new homes at a faster rate than the less affluent buy their first houses.

Those more affluent homeowners were "less affected by the recession and inflation and generally own an existing home that can be sold at a profit," the newsletter noted.

The board indicated concern that the rising prices may imperil the housing industry's revival as well as putting home ownership out of the reach of many Americans.

Housing construtions has perked up recently following lean years in 1973-75, when interest rates were high, mortgages difficult to get and the recession discouraged potential home buyers.

Four-Winner Ticket Pays $128,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Last Saturday, James Sullivan's wife challenged him to stop at an Off Track Betting office and buy a $1 ticket for "Pick Four," which requires a bettor to pick the winners of four separate races on the nightly card at Yonkers Raceway. Using the last four numbers of his Army serial number, he picked horses with the numbers 5, 6, 8 and 3. "We forgot all about it until after Mass Sunday," he said, when Mrs. Sullivan remembered to check Saturday's results. Out of 60,000 bettors, Sullivan, a city employe, was the only one to pick all four winners. His payoff was $128,844, highest since the OTB began Pick Four last May 24. "I'm going to bank the money and find a good man to figure out how I can keep it and invest it," Sullivan said.

Grocery Break-In Halted; Youth Held

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BUCHANAN — State police from the Niles post said a South Bend youth was arrested this morning after the owner of a Buchanan-area grocery store interrupted a break-in at the store.

Arrested on a charge of attempted breaking and entering of the Ward's grocery store, US-12 at Bakertown road, was Rick Farr, 17, of South Bend.

Troopers said four other Indiana residents were being questioned in connection with the reported attempted break-in, but would not be charged.

Barney Ward, owner of the grocery store, told police he lives above the store and was awakened by the sound of breaking glass shortly before 5 a.m. today.

Armed with a shotgun, Ward confronted a young man in the process of breaking out a door window to the store, he said.

Ward told police that a brief scuffle followed and the man fled on foot.

Assisted by the tracking dog from the Benton Harbor state police post and Berrien county deputies, troopers said a young man was taken into custody near the store about 7 a.m. today.

Police said the young man had apparently hitchhiked a ride from four Mishawaka residents whose car broke down near the store.

The attempted break-in apparently took place while the four Mishawaka residents were attempting to repair the car, police said.

Consumers Is Going To Court

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Rebuffed by state regulators, Consumers Power Co. has gone to court in an attempt to force the state Public Service Commission to grant a $41.6 million increase in electric rates.

The Jackson-based utility filed suit in Ingham County Circuit Court Wednesday following a PSC decision in April which rejected nearly 70 per cent of a $106 million rate increase sought by the company.

In a petition, the utility asked for immediate approval of $14.8 million in electric rate increases, with the remainder to follow if the court finds it is needed.

The utility said it was suffering irreparable loss because of the PSC decision last month which granted just $33.9 million in electric rate increases.

Consumers Power board chairman A. H. Aymond said the PSC decision could jeoparize the utility's ability to borrow money for construction projects.

The utility's petition said the PSC in last month's decision used erroneous calculations in determining the amount of working capital needed by the company.

In its petition, the utility said the PSC has built a "one-way street" which requires refunds if revenues collected for fuel costs and purchased power costs exceed 90 per cent of the expenses incurred. The utility said additional charges should be allowed if revenues are lower than 90 per cent of actual expenses.

Purchased power is energy bought from other utilities. Fuel costs are the amount paid by the utility for coal and other fuels to operate power-generating facilities.

A utility spokesman said this is the first time in its history Consumers Power, with 1.2 million electric customers, has gone to court to challenge a rate increase that it feels is inadequate.

Detroit Edison Co., the biggest electric utility in the state with 1.5 million customers, also is contesting a rate case in court.

Edison officials filed a suit several weeks ago asking a court to order PSC approval of $107.4 million in rate increases. Earlier, the PSC had granted Edison only $62.4 millinn of a $178 million rate request.

Consumers Power also has issued a court challenge to the PSC's postponment of a request to increase natural gas rates by $25 million.

The natural gas rate request involves the utility's controversial Marysville plant, where construction costs have soared above original estimates. The PSC wants additional data on the plant's costs before deciding the case.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Opening Stocks Retreat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today under the persistent pressure of rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped about 2 points in the early going, and losers took a moderate lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was unsettled by sharp increases of late in both short term money rates and long term rates in the bond market.

Rising interest rates have the effect of increasing the relative attractiveness of interest-bearing investments, which compete with stocks for investors' favor.

Today's early prices included Warnaco, down ⅛ at 10½; Potlatch Corp., up ⅜ at 57⅜; Canadian Pacific, unchanged at 18⅜, and Hillenbrand, ⅛ lower at 22.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average dipped .94 to 1,005.67 for its second straight fractional loss.

Declines held a 4-3 edge on gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was down .10 at 54.74.

Big Board volume was a moderate 18.51 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .26 to 105.01.

Sunday Banking Gets Nod

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Banks can stay open all weekend, the Michigan attorney general has ruled.

In an opinion issued Wednesday, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said banks or savings and loan associations may operate on Sundays.

Kelley said the legislature has passed no laws limiting the days or hours during which financial institutions may open for business. He said that if these institutions amend their bylaws they can operate on Sundays.

But he said the state Financial Institutions Bureau and the legislature should study whether "unlimited and uncontrolled operations of banks and savings and loan associations" could hurt smaller independent concerns that are unable to compete.

The opinion was requested by Russell Kropschot, chief deputy commissioner of the Financial Institutions Bureau.

Millions Ride On Coin Flip

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — A quick flip of a coin has given a $3.755 million contract to a Grand Rapids construction firm.

Owen-Ames-Kimball became prime contractor on the $7.2 million waste water treatment plant for Ionia and two townships through the flip of a coin this week at the Ionia County Courthouse.

Erhardt Construction, also of Grand Rapids, had submitted an identical bid. But its president, Lawrence Erhardt, called heads and the coin turned up tails — costing Erhardt the job.

Donald Holly, engineering consultant for the project which also involves five smaller contracts, said he sought advice from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on breaking the deadlock.

He said the coin flip method drew no objections.

STUDENTS INTERVIEWED

Whirlpool, Union Still 'Way Apart'

Spokesmen for Whirlpool Corp. and Local 1918 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace workers today reported there has still been no progress on contract negotiations.

And while contract talks are stalled, a company spokesman confirmed Whirlpool is interviewing students for possible employment, noting: "We may need a limited number."

The local's contract with Whirlpool's St. Joseph division expired Thursday at midnight and there has been no production since. The company's position is that the union is on strike, while the union contends the work stoppage is a lockout.

According to Jay VanDenBerg, director of industrial and community relations and chief spokesman for the St. Joseph division, both Whirlpool and the union were asked to meet yesterday afternoon at the request of the federal mediator.

He said, however, the two sides did not meet in joint session and there was no progress on a new contract.

Albert Romeo, Jr., president of the local, said the union and Whirlpool met separately with the mediator but held no joint meetings, and added he did not forsee any.

Romeo also noted that the two sides are "still way apart" on two primary issues—improved dental benefits and a 30 and out retirement program.

VanDenBerg confirmed the division is doing some interviewing of students but said there are "no firm plans for hiring."

He said the work stoppage is having some company-wide impact, since the St. Joseph division makes parts for some of the other Whirlpool divisions.

"If we're not back in full production by the beginning of next week we will have to do a pretty strong evaluation at that point," VanDenBerg said of the prospects of hiring some of the students. "We have requirdments to keep the other divisions in operation," he said, "and the situation is being evaluated as to what our needs would be."

VanDenBerg stressed there are no final plans or a deadline of when the students might be hired, but noted: "We do have an obligation to our customers, both Sears and Whirlpool." Whirlpool manufactures appliances under contract with Sears which are sold under Sears brand names.

First Home Buyers Find It Tougher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of new homes are rising at an annual rate of 22 per cent, throwing "a big question mark" over the ability of builders to construct houses that are cheap enough for families buying their first home, a government agency says.

The median sale price of a new home in February was $43,000, compared to $38,000 in February 1975, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Wednesday in its monthly economic analysis newsletter.

Prices rose 13 per cent in the 12-month period, but soared at the 22 per cent annual rate during the last six months. And early indicatios were that the median price rose to nearly $44,000 in March, the board added.

The median price of $43,000 means that half the new homes in the country were sold for less than that sum and half were sold for more.

The board, which regulates the savings and loan associations that provide most home mortgages, said the rising prices "throw a big question mark over the ability of builders to reach more of the mass market of first-time home purchasers."

The sharp upswing in house prices is "surprising" because it "is completely out of proportion to the improvement in the financial state of the average consumer," the board said. It also appears "to contradict the publicity about the increasing importance of 'no-frill' housing."

Many builders have reduced lot and house sizes and eliminated luxury trimmings in an attempt to keep new-home prices within reach of first-time buyers who otherwise would be squeezed out of the market.

But the board indicated that strategy may not be working, saying the figures suggest that the relatively affluent, whose old homes have soared in value, are buying expensive new homes at a faster rate than the less affluent buy their first houses.

These more affluent homeowners were "less affected by the recession and inflation and generally own an existing home that can be sold at a profit," the newsletter noted.

The board indicated concern that the rising prices may imperil the housing industry's revival as well as putting home ownership out of the reach of many Americans.

Housing constrution has perked up recently following lean years in 1973-75, when interest rates were high, mortgages difficult to get and the recession discouraged potential home buyers.

Consumers Is Going To Court

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Rebuffed by state regulators, Consumers Power Co. has gone to court in an attempt to force the state Public Service Commission to grant a $41.6 million increase in electric rates.

The Jackson-based utility filed suit in Ingham County Circuit Court Wednesday following a PSC decision in April which rejected nearly 70 per cent of a $106 million rate increase sought by the company.

In a petition, the utility asked for immediate approval of $14.8 million in electric rate increases, with the remainder to follow if the court finds it is needed.

The utility said it was suffering irreparable loss because of the PSC decision last month which granted just $33.9 million in electric rate increases.

Consumers Power board chairman A. H. Aymond said the PSC decision could jeoparize the utility's ability to borrow money for construction projects.

The utility's petition said the PSC in last month's decision used erroneous calculations in determining the amount of working capital needed by the company.

In its petition, the utility said the PSC has built a "one-way street" which requires refunds if revenues collected for fuel costs and purchased power costs exceed 90 per cent of the expenses incurred. The utility said additional charges should be allowed if revenues are lower than 90 per cent of actual expenses.

Purchased power is energy bought from other utilities. Fuel costs are the amount paid by the utility for coal and other fuels to operate power-generating facilities.

A utility spokesman said this is the first time in its history Consumers Power, with 1.2 million electric customers, has gone to court to challenge a rate increase that it feels is inadequate.

Detroit Edison Co., the biggest electric utility in the state with 1.5 million customers, also is contesting a rate case in court.

Edison officials filed a suit several weeks ago asking a court to order PSC approval of $107.4 million in rate increases. Earlier, the PSC had granted Edison only $62.4 million of a $178 million rate request.

Consumers Power also has issued a court challenge to the PSC's postponment of a request to increase natural gas rates by $25 million.

The natural gas rate request involves the utility's controversial Marysville plant, where construction costs have soared above original estimates. The PSC wants additional data on the plant's costs before deciding the case.

FEELS 'STABBED'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Reagan says she feels "as if I'd been stabbed" by Sen. Barry Goldwater's criticism of her husband's stand on the Panama Canal.

SJ School Chief Reveals Proposal

These range from securing additional millage to prevent eliminating programs to closing buildings. One mill of next taxes would raise about $130,000. The closing of Milton JHS is estimated as reducing operating costs by about $100,000 annually. As examples, over $72,500 for custodial services and supplies and $29,000 in utilities need to be budgeted next year for operating Milton JHS. Closing an elementary school would similarly effect savings of about $30,000 annually in operating expenses.

"The cost of maintaining Milton JHS, a sixty-year-old building, continues to be a drain on limited resources. Funds spent attempting to bring that building up to useful, safe and up-to-date standards would exceed $380,000; and the building continues to age.

"Approval of a Building and Site Fund levy of one (1) mill would provide for necessary contracted maintenance and repair of buildings; such a tax levy was in operation in our district for a period of five years. Money derived from this type of tax is limited to maintenance costs and could not be diverted to other uses. Furthermore, it is not subject to discounting by present or future state aid programs, as is our present one.

EDUCATIONAL CONSIDERATIONS:

"After thorough study and discussion of the possible educational advantages and disadvantages of closing Milton JHS and creating a four-year Senior High School, Management Council Member (school administrators) concluded that the move would provide more choices of subjects for high school students and avoid duplications in the ninth grade offerings. The music, sports and non-curricular programs would benefit from having ninth grade students at the high school site. Programs at the 7th and 8th grade levels would have more qualified sponsors and coaches available. Some of these programs at Milton JHS have suffered recently from a lack of participation due to decreasing numbers of students. There is more opportunity for a teacher to be assigned classes in his major field of preparation, both in the junior high school and in a four-year high school, than is now often the case, and scheduling problems associated with multi-building assignments for teachers would be virtually eliminated.

"Disadvantages of moving the ninth grade to the Senior High School include some additional transportation of about 225 JHS pupils (cost has been included in computing net savings by closing Milton JHS), rescheduling for ninth grade students from seven to six classes daily, reassigning of many teachers in grades seven, eight and nine, the problems associated with the transition of rather large numbers of students from one school to another, and the creating of special use areas, such as shops and science facilities, by relocating special equipment. The board recognizes that these considerations are of a transient nature, that most of them would occur principally in the year of transition, and that they would need to be faced at some point in the future, when the closing of Milton JHS becomes inevitable. The board feels that each one of these factors has been met with a viable solution.

HUMAN FACTORS TO BE CONSIDERED:

"Most of us resist change, but early adolescents are resilient and adaptable. Other school districts have faced the problem of closing buildings, and they report that objections are soon forgotten. Students need to be oriented carefully to their new schools. All tenth grade pupils face this adjustment each year, however. It should be noted that ninth grade pupils moving to the tenth grade will be accompanied by eighth grade pupils moving to the ninth grade. Both these groups have already established a camaraderie and that they will together outnumber next year's eleventh and twelfth grade students. As a group they should be able easily to accommodate the social changes. Parents need to be oriented to the new school and its programs and policies, although these are quite uniform in our school district.

"Teachers need to express their preference for new assignments and must understand that length of service and preparation in a particular subject area will determine transfer of teachers. No matter which year the change might be made, this adjustment must be made by teachers. Preliminary plans are already being formulated for possible faculty transfers. Adequate time before school begins in September must be provided for building staffs to build a new team concept.

"Residents of our school community must understand that closing a school has become necessary, and they must be encouraged to participate in making future plans for the building and its site. This can be done during the summer months, but no building would be abandoned.

ALTERNATIVES THE SCHOOL BOARD MUST CONSIDER:

"A minimum of $225,000 is needed to balance the Tentative Budget. This can only be gained by: 1) reducing expenditures or 2) increasing income. Income can be increased only by raising local property taxes. Expenditures can be reduced by cutting programs and personnel and by more efficient use of buildings. Buildings in sound condition and utilized to their capacities can be operated most economically.

"In order to maintain high levels of quality education that the St. Joseph residents have come to expect, the board is not anticipating any further cuts in programs. Appropriate reductions of teaching and service staff will be made, however, as declining enrollments may dicate. The school board must then consider raising taxes and closing buildings, if our students' educational opportunities are not to suffer.

"The closing of Milton JHS and the approval of a one mill tax increase would meet budget requirements for the coming fiscal year, IF STATE AID IS PAID IN FULL next year. In the best interests of utilization of facilities, of achieving the most cost benefits, and of increasing educational opportunities, this is the program recommended.

SJ School Chief Reveals Proposal

These range from securing additional millage to prevent eliminating programs to closing buildings. One mill of next taxes would raise about $130,000. The closing of Milton JHS is estimated as reducing operating costs by about $100,000 annually. As examples, over $72,500 for custodial services and supplies and $29,000 in utilities need to be budgeted next year for operating Milton JHS. Closing an elementary school would similarly effect savings of about $30,000 annually in operating expenses.

"The cost of maintaining Milton JHS, a sixty-year-old building, continues to be a drain on limited resources. Funds spent attempting to bring that building up to useful, safe and up-to-date standards would exceed $360,000; and the building continues to age.

"Approval of a Building and Site Fund levy of one (1) mill would provide for necessary contracted maintenance and repair of buildings; such a tax levy was in operation in our district for a period of five years. Money derived from this type of tax is limited to maintenance costs and could not be diverted to other uses. Furthermore, it is not subject to discounting by present or future state aid programs, as is our present one.

EDUCATIONAL CONSIDERATIONS:

"After thorough study and discussion of the possible educational advantages and disadvantages of closing Milton JHS and creating a four-year Senior High School, Management Council Member (school administrators) concluded that the move would provide more choices of subjects for high school students and avoid duplications in the ninth grade offerings. The music, sports and non-curricular programs would benefit from having ninth grade students at the high school site. Programs at the 7th and 8th grade levels would have more qualified sponsors and coaches available. Some of these programs at Milton JHS have suffered recently from a lack of partcipation due to decreasing numbers of students. There is more opportunity for a teacher to be assigned classes in his major field of preparation, both in the junior high school and in a four-year high school, than is now often the case, and scheduling problems associated with multi-building assignments for teachers would be virtually eliminated.

"Disadvantages of moving the ninth grade to the Senior High School include some additional transportation of about 225 JHS pupils (cost has been included in computing net savings by closing Milton JHS), rescheduling for ninth grade students from seven to six classes daily, reassigning of many teachers in grades seven, eight and nine, the problems associated with the transition of rather large numbers of students from one school to another, and the creating of special use areas, such as shops and science facilities, by relocating special equipment. The board recognizes that these considerations are of a transient nautre, that most of them would occur principally in the year of transition, and that they would need to be faced at some point in the future, when the closing of Milton JHS becomes inevitable. The board feels that each one of these factors has been met with a viable solution.

HUMAN FACTORS TO BE CONSIDERED:

"Most of us resist change, but early adolescents are resilent and adaptable. Other school districts have faced the problem of closing buildings, and they report that objections are soon forgotten. Students need to be oriented carefully to their new schools. All tenth grade pupils face this adjustment each year, however. It should be noted that ninth grade pupils moving to the tenth grade will be accompanied by eighth grade pupils moving to the ninth grade. Both these groups have already established a camaraderie and that they will together outnumber next year's eleventh and twelfth grade students. As a group they should be able easily to accommodate the social changes. Parents need to be oriented to the new school and its programs and policies, although these are quite uniform in our school district.

"Teachers need to express their preference for new assignments and must understand that length of service and preparation in a particular subject area will determine transfer of teachers. No matter which year the change might be made, this adjustment must be made by teachers. Preliminary plans are already being formulated for possible faculty transfers. Adequate time before school begins in September must be provided for building staffs to build a new team concept.

"Residents of our school community must understand that closing a school has become necessary, and they must be encouraged to particpate in making future plans for the building and its site. This can be done during the summer months, but no building would be abandoned.

ALTERNATIVES THE SCHOOL BOARD MUST CONSIDER:

"A minimum of $225,000 is needed to balance the Tentative Budget. This can only be gained by: 1) reducing expenditures or 2) increasing income. Income can be increased only by raising local property taxes. Expenditures can be reduced by cutting programs and personnel and by more efficient use of buildings. Buildings in sound condition and utilized to their capacities can be operated most economically.

"In order to maintain high levels of quality education that the St. Joseph residents have come to expect, the board is not anticipating any further cuts in programs. Appropriate reducations of teaching and service staff will be made, however, as declining enrollments may dicate. The school board must then consider raising taxes and closing buildings, if our students' educational opportunities are not to suffer.

"The closing of Milton JHS and the approval of a one mill tax increase would meet budget requirements for the coming fiscal year, IF STATE AID IS PAID IN FULL next year. In the best interests of utilization of facilities, of achieving the most cost benefits, and of increasing educational opportunities, this is the program recommended.

Here's Where Reagan Stands On Inflation, Energy...

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan, President Ford's home state, initially was considered untouchable by former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But flushed with successes in four consecutive primary races, the Reagan camp now views Michigan with an eye toward making further inroads in the Ford election effort.

Anything less than a convincing victory in his home state would be devastating for Ford and provide further momentum for Reagan, political observers agree. Some reports indicate the former movie star could garner more than 40 per cent of the Republican vote.

Reagan and Ford will be seeking a proportionate share of the state's 84 GOP delegates.

Here's a look at Reagan's positions on the issues:

ECONOMY

Reagan defines unemployment as "economic dislocation that must accompany the curing of inflation."

He sees a program similar to the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s as one solution to the teenage jobless problem. But "incentives to business and industry" would prompt hiring of more adults, the former California governor contends.

Reagan blames inflation on excessive government spending. "The main cause of this mess is not business or labor but government-engineered expansion and pre-emption of the nation's money."

He wants a balanced budget and pledges to follow the same "cut, squeeze and trim" policy he implemented while serving eight years as governor of California.

During his gubernatorial tenure, California spending doubled and the per-capita tax load rose from $426 to $760. He inherited a $200 million state deficit. When he left office, the state had a surplus of $500 million.

Reagan proposes transfer of responsibility and revenue-raising authority for social programs — including education, welfare aid, housing subsidies and mass transit — to the state and local governments. He has not indicated how the state and local governments should raise the necessary funds.

FOREIGN POLICY

In the Middle East, Reagan would continue the U.S. policy of supporting Israel and providing material to both Israel and some Arab countries.

He describes detente as "a one-way street that the Soviets have used to continue moving toward the Marxist goal of a socialist one-world state...

"We must insist that we aren't going to be second to anyone," Reagan says.

"I do not support the holding out of the hand to Cuba," Reagan says flatly.

With regard to Angola, he says the U.S. should have told the Soviets: "Out! We'll let them do the fighting or you'll have to deal with us." He has not said what retaliation he would favor.

Reagan also contends the U.S. has become a No. 2 military power under the Ford Administration. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would not be retained in his Cabinet, he says.

ENERGY

Reagan's energy policy would be "of trusting the marketplace." He proposes relaxation of government controls on natural gas, nuclear plants, oil shale and offshore drilling to enable the U.S. "to surpass the Middle East as the world's chief exporter of energy."

He favors a return of the oil depletion allowance but has not said at what level the allowance should be set.

BUSING

Reagan is against forced busing to achieve racial integration in public schools.

"If a constitutional amendment is the only way to eliminate it, yes, I'm for a constitutional amendment," he says.

INTELLIGENCE

The CIA made mistakes but was not guilty of "massive spying as has been charged in the press," says Reagan, who served on the Rockefeller panel which investigated the CIA. "The CIA has made mistakes over 28 years... We shouldn't go tearing the agency apart."

ABORTION

Reagan favors a direct constitutional ban on abortion except in extreme cases.

On other matters, Reagan opposes gun control legislation and also is against the Equal Rights Amendment although he endorsed the ERA in 1972.

He does not favor a national health insurance plan and says he would not be willing to impose wage-price controls.

Social Security "needs to be reformed while we still have time to do so," according to Reagan. He would eliminate the earnings limit on recipients and would appoint a task force to work out long-range reforms. Reagan would invest social security funds, but not in the stock market.

Area Legislators Are Loyal To President

All four Southwestern Michigan representatives in the Michigan House of Representatives voiced support for President Gerald Ford at a House Republican caucus Tuesday. The four are Rep. DeForest Strang, 42nd district; Rep. Harry Gast, Jr., 43rd district; Rep. Ray Mittan, 44th district; and Rep. Bela Kennedy, 45th district.

Forty-three of the 44-member House delegation voiced total support for the president in Michigan's Presidential primary next Tuesday. Only Rep. Kirby Holmes of Utica refused. Rep. Mittan said: "During his 25 years in the Congress, President Ford has demonstrated his opposition to big government and massive bureaucracies and I think some of his vetoes as president indicate that his opposition to big government has not diminished." Mittan added, "I hope Republicans realize how valuable the advantage of incumbency is in an election. It would be foolish to give that advantage away."

Zinc-Copper Lode Found In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey directed state agencies Thursday to gear up for the development of what could be a major zinc-copper deposit in northern Wisconsin's Forest County.

Lucey asked agencies involved in economic development and environmental protection to cooperate in "bringing new mining jobs to the North while protecting the interests of the area's communities and environment."Discovery of the deposit about six miles south of Crandon was announced Thursday by Exxon USA, a division of the Exxon Corp.

In a astatement issued in Houston, Tex., the company said that while considerably more exploratory drilling was needed, "early indications are that it could be a major discovery, ranking among the top 10 known massive copper sulfide deposits in North America."

Lucey's directives went to cabinet Secretaries William Kidd, business development; Anthony Earl, natural resources; David Adamany, revenue, and William Bechtel, local affairs and development. The governor expressed concern that the potential economic benefits from the deposit "be shared in a fair and equitable manner and that locally qualified residents be the first considered for new jobs."

Lucey said state government would provide Exxon with necessary information and assistance while fulfilling its responsibility to Forest County citizens. "Efforts will be made to ensure that local governments and the state receive a fair share of the revenue and job development benefits from a discovery of this magnitude," Lucey said.

Lucey ordered the Revenue Department to begin an immediate review of the state mineral taxation laws and to make recommendations for legislative revisions.

He said mineral taxation changes proposed in the 1975-77 session failed because of a legislative deadlock. "The need for a major overhaul of our mineral taxation laws is even more pressing than before," he said. "State officials have a serious responsibility to assure that our citizens are fairly compensated for the value of these resources."

At the same time, the state "must prepare for a time when extractable mineral supplies have been exhausted, leaving social and economic problems behind," Lucey said.

New Uranium Hunt To Begin In U.P.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tests for uranium deposits are set to begin this spring on some 200,000 acres of Upper Peninsula land purchased jointly by the Tennessee Valley Authority and a subsidiary of International Nickel Co.

The mineral rights where quietly purchased last spring from the Ford Motor Co., officials confirmed Thursday. Officials believe the land may contain valuable uranium deposits and test boring is set for this spring on some of the tracts. Trenching, or digging through glacial deposits to the bedrock, has already begun in areas of Baraga and Marquette counties where most of the 200,000 acres lie, officials said. Other tracts extend into Iron County.

Altogether, the scattered acreage totals more than 300 square miles.

Uranium never has been mined in the U.P. though small low-grade deposits have been found. Until recently, it was not considered profitable to mine those deposits. But dwindling supplies from mines in New Mexico and Wyoming, growing need for uranium to fuel nuclear power plants, and an eight-fold leap in the ore's value since 1973 have apparently made the U.P. more attractive.

"This is the most grassroots wildcat venture we've gone into," said Allan T. Mullins, chief of the TVA's nuclear raw materials branch, in a telephone interview. "We're taking a great risk up there. We're in an area that's never produced uranium.

"There are companies that have been in and out of the U.P. at least twice that I know of. We could cancel our program in a year, yet two years later we might be back up there 40 miles away. It's such a tremendously large area that has received such a limited amount of exploration for uranium that you don't condemn an area that size without a lot of detailed work," said Mullins.

TVA is a federally owned electric power company which serves some 2.5 million households in parts of seven states. TVA officials say they are looking for uranium to fuel 17 nuclear generating units it plans to have operating by 1985. International Nickel, through its Milwaukee subsidiary American Copper and Nickel Co., says it is looking mainly for nickel and copper but thinks uranium may be minable from the rocky U.P land as well.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 3 FOR MURDER!

Suspects Demand Hearings In 1973 Shotgunning Of BH Grocer

SAM BAUM
Slain Grocer

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Three men indicted by the Berrien citizens' grand jury were arrested yesterday on open murder charges stemming from the 1973 shooting of Benton Harbor grocer Sam Baum.

The three had been arrested by police on murder charges the day after the shooting but the charges were dismissed when key prosecution witnesses failed to testify in court.

Arrested were Amos Ray Jr., 26, of 370 Walnut avenue, Benton township, Anthony Johnson, 22, and Nathaniel Johnson, 20, both of 555 Pearl street, Benton Harbor. The Johnsons are brothers.

All demanded examination when arraigned before Berrien Fifth District Judge Leo K. Cook and were jailed without bond.

Baum, 55, was shot with a shotgun at close range April 23, 1973, while operating his grocery store at 431 Riford street. Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka said Baum was killed during an apparent armed robbery attempt.

Anthony Johnson was arrested yesterday at the county jail, where he had previously been lodged to await trial in circuit court on a delivery of heroin charge. A grand jury investigator said Ray and Nathaniel Johnson were arrested Thursday afternoon in Benton Harbor and offered no resistance.

"We're extremely happy the case is back in court where it belongs," Smietanka stated, adding the same witnesses who previously declined to testify in court testified before the grand jury.

Assistant Prosecutor Michael Marrs, who heads the grand jury probe, echoed Smietanka's feelings and added: "This was a classic case for the grand jury because of the secrecy and cooperation of witnesses. This case is probably more gratifying than most, although I'm happy with the work of the grand jury so far."

Marrs added there is still an outstanding "John Doe' murder warrant from 1973 for a fourth man allegedly involved in the shooting. A John Doe warrant is issued when the name of a suspect is not known but sufficient evidence of his involvement justifies a warrant, Smietanka explained.

Police originally said there did not appear to be any money missing from Baum's grocery since a cash register containing $50 was undisturbed and money was found in two other places in the store. They said there was no evidence of a struggle, but Baum may have offered resistance.

A pathologist's report said Baum was killed when struck in the side by a shotgun blast fired from only inches away. Smietanka yesterday said no murder weapon has yet been found.

Police previously said that in addition to the money in the register, a box containing 11 pounds of change was found near the register, and almost $12 was found in Baum's pants pocket.

In dismissing the charges against the three in 1973, former Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor said key witnesses "apparently have decided they don't wish to become involved."

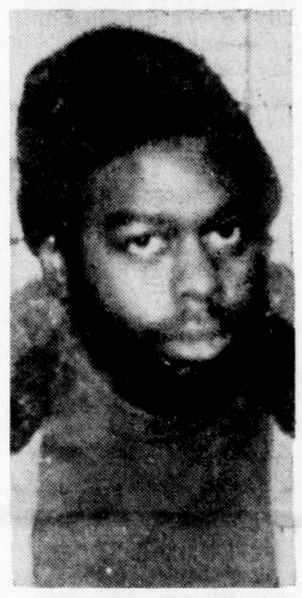

Yesterday, Smietanka noted: "Three years ago we began the prosecution but stopped because witnesses failed to testify. Now those witnesses have come forward and testified before the grand jury, and we hope to prosecute the case to a successful conclusion.

"We hope witnesses to crimes will always have the courage to step forward and testify," the prosecutor added.

The Baum family had operated the grocery on Riford for about 35 years in the area formerly known as Little Brooklyn. The store was closed shortly after Baum's murder.

Baum joined his mother in the operation of the store just before 1940. He was in the Army in World War II and returned to

Van Buren Prosecutor Named Probate Judge

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren Prosecutor Frank D. Willis announced this morning that he has been appointed probate court judge for Van Buren county effective June 7.

Willis said he received a call from Gov. William Milliken about 9:30 a.m. today advising him of the appointment.

Willis said he told the governor, "I hope I can live up to the trust you are placing in me."

Willis will replace Judge Meyer Warshawsky who has filled in as acting probate judge since his appointment to the Van Buren Circuit court bench in January. Warshawsky, who has been probate judge since 1970, moved up to the circuit bench when Judge David Anderson Jr. retired in January.

Willis' appointment is for a term to last until the end of this year. If he wants to remain in office, he will have to run for election to a six-year term in November.

Willis said he hoped he could perform as well as Warshawsky had in the post. At 30, Willis becomes one of the youngest probate judges in the state. The post pays $28,499 a year.

Willis said the governor decided to delay the effective date of his appointment for three weeks because Prosecutor Willis currently is trying one case in circuit court and will begin another May 25.

Others who had been considered for the post included South Haven attorneys William Hover and Ray Barrett.

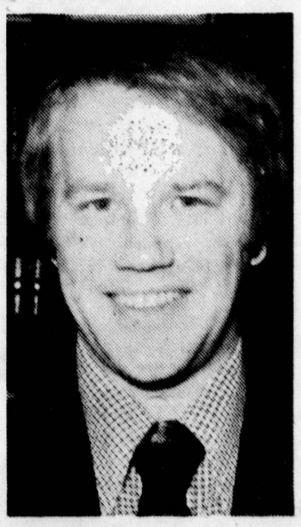

Both of Willis' assistants, George Dunn and Ward (Steve) Hamlin Jr., have indicated to him they are interested in the prosecuting attorney's post, Willis said.

The appointment to fill the prosecutor job will be made by Judge Warshawsky, the prosecutor added.

A graduate of the University of Florida law school, Willis was appointed prosecutor in December, 1974. He replaced William Buhl, who had been named Seventh District court judge in Paw Paw. Willis had joined the prosecutor's staff in September, 1973.

He is a native of Marshall and is a former school teacher. He earned his bachelor's degree at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo.

Willis and his wife, Bobbi, have two children and live in Paw Paw.

He said the duties as supervisor in one of the county's fastest developing townships, have become too time consuming for him. "I'd like to take it easy for awhile, and spend some more time with my family."

Hauch will remain on as supervisor until after the the general election in November.

Hauch owned and operated Ernie's Market in Stevensville for 23 years, before selling it in 1968. During this time he was active in the Stevensville Merchants association.

Born in Bridgman in 1914, he graduated from Bridgman high school and Berrien County Normal (a former teacher training school). He taught school for two years at the old Oak Forrest school in Bertrand township. He has been a resident of Lincoln township for the past 36 years

Judges Bill Stalled By Senate Battle

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm-Features Editor

LANSING — The fourth circuit judgeship for Berrien county fell temporary victim last night in the Senate to a heated battle over another unrelated bill. The bill to create nine new judgeships in various counties failed 19-4, one vote short of a required 20.

Senator Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, said this morning the judges' bill will be reconsidered next Wednesday, when the Senate returns from a presidential primary recess. He predicted it would pass at that time.

Meanwhile, the June 1 deadline for candidates to file petitions for the added bench seat, if it passes, draws nearer.

The House earlier yesterday accepted a joint conference committee report that added three judges, including the one for Berrien, to a package of six new judgeships approved in March by the House. The House vote to add the three yesterday was 79 to 15.

When the compromise conference report got on the floor of the Senate, however, the upper house was in an angry battle over a Democratic amendment that would have added $5 million to a $99 million supplemental appropriation bill for state welfare.

According to Zollar, the Republicans refused to go along with the extra $5 million. The battle carried the Senate session well into the evening, and when the judges bill came up for vote a number of Senators had already left the chamber. And, according to Zollar, a mixture of several disgruntled Democrats and Republicans would not vote for the judges bill.

In addition to a fourth judge for Berrien county, the bill also contains new judgeships for Chippewa, Midland, Genesee, Saginaw, Washtenaw, Calhoun, Lenawee and Mecosta-Osceola. The bill, additionally, provides for three new district judges in Allegan, Macomb and Grand Traverse-Leelanau counties.

William C. Heyn Seeks 3rd Term

Berrien County Treasurer William C. Heyn today announced he will seek re-election on the Republican ticket in the Aug. 3 primary.

Heyn, 63, will be seeking his third full term as treasurer A resident of Bridgman, Heyn has previously served as county drain commissioner and as a Lake township official.

Heyn pledged to keep surplus county funds invested and earning the highest possible interest rates, and noted during his first seven years in office total earnings were slightly more than $6.5 million.

Heyn and his wife, Mildred, of Jericho Corners, have three grown children.

New Look At JFK Killing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why did Lee Harvey Oswald kill President John F. Kennedy more than a dozen years ago will be one of the first questions to face a proposed new Senate committee that would watch over the workings of U.S. intelligence agencies. The Senate intelligence committee voted Thursday to recommend that the proposed new panel conduct an investigation into the never officially answered question of why Oswald shot Kennedy as the President rode in a motorcade through Dallas, Tex., on Nov 22, 1963. Sen. Richard Schweiker, a member of a two-man subcommittee looking into the role of spy agencies in the Kennedy assassination, said the investigation had turned up "some very interesting questions and some new material" about intelligence agency actions during the time of the Kennedy slaying But about the assassination itself, he said, "we didn't attempt to determine who did it."

Let's Turn It On Tuesday For Jerry

Though probably not one Democrat in a hundred would agree with the statement, Ronald Reagan is a solid citizen.

Where Richard Nixon failed to stage a comeback in his home state following the 1960 Presidential loss to John F. Kennedy, Reagan subsequently upset a powerful Democratic machine and a highly popular Governor, Edmund Brown, Sr., to pull California back from the brink of economic disaster and political bankruptcy.

Even so, Reagan's initial success in the Sacramento statehouse flattened out and his guidance of the Republican state organization left enough to be desired so that once he stepped aside, the Golden Bear state once more became a scalp dangling from the Democratic tepee.

His role as a national spokesman for conservatives of all partisan persuasion has been much less illuminating and considerably more sporadic than that of Barry Goldwater.

This erratic record to the contrary, Reagan has outdistanced President Ford in the Republican primary scramble for delegate voting power at July's national convention. Reagan's first dueling with Ford started out disastrously on a pitch that nearly a quarter of the annual federal budget should be funnelled back to the states and local governments.

The first test of the idea in the New Hampshire primary indicated most people realized it could only lead to a higher income tax and worse boondoggling of federal aid money than now plagues the countryside.

When following primaries gave Ford a comfortable lead over Reagan the ex-governor realized he would have to take a different tack.

He has done it, skillfully in recent weeks, by drumming away on two sensitive areas in foreign policy.

One is keeping peace as best it can be done with the ever aggressive Russian government.

The other is the thorny Panama Canal problem.

In effect, Reagan is saying that detente or any imitation of it should be thrown out the door and if it appears expedient to land the Marines in the Canal Zone, don't hesitate.

Stopping short of personally accusing Ford of selling out Uncle Sam, he puts up Dr. Henry Kissinger, the one-man gang in the State Department, as a straw opponent.

The West Virginia Republicans did not buy this dangerous bag of fireworks, but the Hoosiers, Texans and Nebraskans went for it in a big way.

Or, as the post mortem tallies on those primaries seem to point, too many people who think it wise to look before one leaps failed to show at the polls.

If memory serves us correctly, Lyndon Johnson drubbed Barry Goldwater and gave the Republican party its worst defeat ever in 1964 because, among other things, the public tabbed the Arizona Senator as a hip shooter.

Slanderous as was the accusation, the fact remains that Goldwater had couched numerous criticisms on trying to melt a cold war by negotiation.

For campaign purposes between now and the July convention, Reagan has gone Goldwater one better.

The other day Governor Milliken quite properly commented on the folly of rattling a sabre as introductory to threading one's way through complex foreign situations.

It may be all well and good for one African nation to potshot at a neighbor.

A well aimed rifle can only down one opponent a shot at a time.

When world powers like Russia and the U.S. have nuclear weapons in the ready position, it is the better part of valor to try to talk things out before pushing the panic button.

Admittedly, Reagan's simplistic message of recent weeks finds a receptive audience.

People are fed up in being pushed around, at home and abroad.

This includes Jerry Ford.

The difference between him and Reagan is that Ford knows the consequences of leaping before looking.

And to Ford's credit, he is not resorting to the dangerous rhetoric being tossed out by his opponent.

If the Republicans want to lose in November, they should adopt Reagan as their standardbearer because whether Jimmy Carter or somebody else heads up the Democrats, they will crucify the Californian as a hip shooter just as they did Goldwater 12 years ago.

We hope Michigan's Republicans will size up this suicidal course better than some others have done lately.

They Suggested 'His Superfluous Excellency'

For a long time vice presidents were the butts of frequent jokes in the broadcasting field. Perhaps this was to be expected in a field which is itself chock full of vice presidents.

Social or civic organizations frequently confer the title of vice president in an honorary sense. It is a tradition carried over from government.

When the founding fathers were discussing the post of vice president they didn't think the office was too important. In fact, it was suggested the title of "his superfluous excellency" be bestowed upon the occupant of the office.

George Mason, who helped write the Constitution, objected heatedly to establishment of the office. George Clinton, who opposed the Constitution, declared there was no valid reason for a vice president.

The first vice president, John Adams, characterized his post as "the most insignificant office that ever invention of man contrived."

In the nation's history, eight vice presidents succeeded to the presidency by reason of deaths of the presidents, and one because of presidential resignation. Four of these — Theodore Roosevelt, Coolidge, Truman and Johnson — were elected to the presidency to succeed themselves.

When Teddy Roosevelt was nominated for vice president, he wrote to Leonard Wood, "By the time you have received this, you will have learned from the daily press that I have been forced to take the veil."

Vice President Marshall said, "The vice president is like a man in a cataleptic state."

In recent years Americans have been paying more serious attention to the office. But Vice President Rockefeller is living proof that its duties are still ill-defined and its responsibilities virtually nonexistent.

BH Band Parents Concerned About Unruly Parade Crowds

Mr. Don Young, President
Blossomtime, Incorporated
311 Colfax
Benton Harbor

Dear Mr. Young:

Each year the bands of the Benton Harbor school district look forward to participating in the Blossomtime activities. Highlighting the festivities are the two parades — the Kiddies Parade and the Blossomtime Parade. Being able to share with other bands and participants in this joyful celebration is, indeed, a fulfilling and educational experience for all.

The Benton Harbor Band Parents organization shares its concerns with the community over the events at the Kiddies Parade this year. An unruly crowd of children and young people converging on the Benton Harbor and Fairplain 7th and 8th grade center bands and breaking their ranks, detracted from the appearance of both bands and was frustrating to band members, band personnel, parents and other spectators.

As Benton Harbor band parents we would like to support a more positive action in insuring a safe route for all participants and an enjoyable activity for all through better crowd control by proper authorities.

We support and appreciate the Blossomtime activities and prefer that the tradition which has been established over many years within the Twin Cities will continue for future generations.

'MICHIGAN VOTERS HAVE MORE SAVVY'

Editor,

After years of working within the political process I find it very difficult to understand the electorate.

After complaining bitterly about the lack of knowledge of a candidate, they now have one whose life and habits were subjected to a most intensive investigation such as has never before been conducted on a public figure.

So they vote for a candiate who gives a pretty speech. Thank goodness, Michigan voters have more savvy. They'll vote for the candidate whose integrity has been proven.

SEN. PERCY TRIPS PRESIDENT'S HAND

Editor,

The untold story of his campaign has thus far eluded the press and voters, alike, although it was unwittingly exposed on March 24. It started last fall when VP Rockefeller announced he as removing himself from consideration as the 1976 VP candidate. Ford made no effort to dissuade him and then helped the scenario along by discussing lists of "possible" VP candidates, which, of course, failed to mention Rockefeller.

The plan worked beautifully in the early primaries where many staunch conservatives who would have gagged on the mere suggestion of a renewal of the Ford-Rockefeller ticket naively swallowed the VP's statement and were found firmly in the President's corner on primary day.

But, alas, the beans were spilled by the President's staunch supporter, Sen. Charles Percy (R.-Ill.), in his address to the Executives Club of Chicago on March 24. Percy flatly stated that Rockefeller will be President Ford's choice for the No. 2 spot. When asked why he thought Rockefeller had taken himself out of the running, Percy, with incredible candor, replied: "To make himself more eligible to serve again." In view of Percy's close association with Rockefeller and his recent visits aboard Air Force One, who can doubt his word?

There you have it, Conservatives of Michigan: thanks to the candor of Sen. Percy, Rocky's low profile has been clearly explained. We did not have this information before the Illinois primary, but the conservatives of Michigan will have no such excuse. A vote for President Ford is a vote for Rockefeller as VP and, perhaps, eventually as President.

I urge support of Gov. Reagan — a man who effectively proved in California that he has two abilities not possessed by our present leaders and so necessary to our survival. Reagan knows 1) how to balance a budget, and 2) how to get positive action by going directly to the people when a legislative body thwarts his efforts to bring common sense to government. Both of these things must be done if we are to turn this nation from its present headlong plunge toward self-destruction.

Jerry Brown: New Redeemer

BALTIMORE — One sees it clearly in the faces of his audiences. Awe. It is the look of the bourgeoisie in the presence of, quote, HIM, end quote. Once it was Ted Kennedy, then George McGovern, and, more recently, Jimmy Carter. Now it is Jerry Brown, 38-year-old governor of California, and candidate for president; those who flock to him this late primary season are engaged in the familiar ritual of annointing yet another god of politics.

Oh, yes, say those with the oils, surely this is him for whom we have long waited. He is young and handsome and he cares for us very much. Those in attendance nod their heads vigorously when he gives an opinion, laugh heartily when he makes a small joke. Women reach out to touch him, men are given new hope. The redeemer is here — so sayeth the television, so sayeth the newspapers, and, for sure, so sayeth the 38-year-old California governor.

Quiet, he is about to speak.

"We must lower our expectations."

What did he say?

He said: less is more.

Hallelujah!

It is, of course, not yet apparent how long the instant congregation will genuflect at the feet of redeemer Brown. The United States has entered into one of its rare moods of shifting outlook, and redeemers seem to be coming in and going out with the regularity of crabs in the Chesapeake. Indeed, the redeemer business is temporary at best.

But never mind the hazards of godheads. Brown is for the moment the way of the light. When he campaigns in Maryland, the faithful say, the planes at the airport refuse to fly. Hold, he is ready to address us again. He is radiant in a dark suit, gray sideburns, and a bit of hair falling boyishly against his eyebrow. "The vibes," he says, are good. "Planetary realism," he says, is the answer. There is a gentle stirring in the crowd, and agreement he is absolutely right.

"There is a lot of verbal cellophane around," he says.

Right on.

"It's time for creative non-action."

Amen.

And suddenly a man in the back is reminded of a poem. "The hills will be made of marble," he says, "the machines will be made of gold; nobody will ever get tired, and nobody will ever grow old." By damn, the good feeling is as thick as smog in the San Fernando Valley. It is a tie for a New Generation of Leadership.

It is true that Jerry Brown can occasionally confuse some of those hearing his word. His word on a national health insurance program, for instance, is that "this is a back door approach to the problem of sickness in America." Brown feels it would be ever so much wiser if people would just take better care of themselves — not work in industries where there are unhealthy fumes, chemicals, conditions, etc.

Sshhhhh, his voice again.

"I don't have a quick fix for everything."

What did he say?

He said he's only human.

Glory be to the highest, I knew it.

Yes, one sees it clearly in the faces of his audiences, Awe. And also gullibility and carelessness. Redeemer Brown may or may not be presidential timber, but he is nothing more, not the redeemer, not the messiah, not The Answer. There are no such people, and we should stop wasting time looking for them; that's planetary realism.

Woman Could Help Carter

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter is so far ahead in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes that there is already political gossip about his possible running mate.

Carter himself has offered few clues to his thinking on this subject. But after participating in several speculative sessions with well-informed Democrats, I have come to the conclusion that the strongest selection he could make for vice president would be Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut.

Think about the idea a few minutes before you reject it as a crazy notion.

No woman has ever before been chosen for a major party's presidential ticket. But sexual prejudice against women in politics has been rapidly fading the past decade. A nationwide Gallup Poll last fall showed that 73 per cent of those queried said they would vote for a woman for president if she were qualified for the job. In addition, seven of 10 respondents said the nation would be governed as well or better if more women held political office.

Grasso, as governor of a major Northern urban state, is better qualified to be Carter's running mate than some vice presidents of not-so-distant memory. A lifelong politician, she is a former Connecticut House of Representatives floor leader, former three-term state secretary of state and a former congresswoman.

Grasso has several qualties which would reinforce and amplify Carter's own strengths.

As a governor, she is not identified as a part of the Washington establishment. Thus she would fit comfortably into Carter's theme that an "outsider" is needed to clean up the mess in the Capitol.

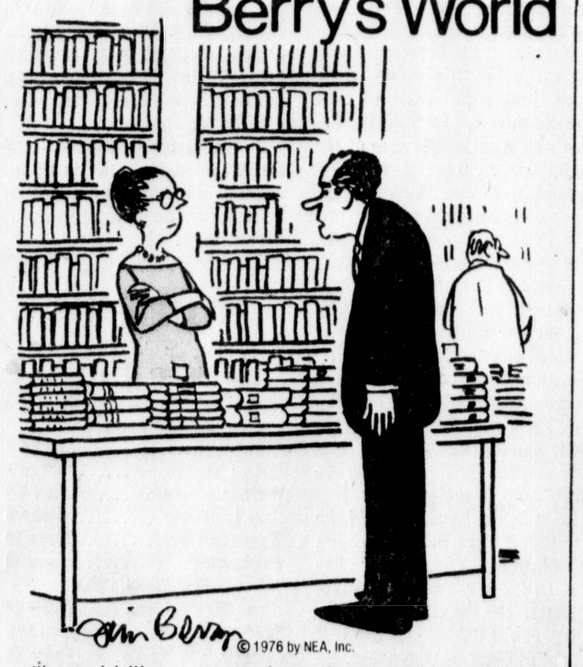

She is a Catholic, which has traditionally been an asset in heavily Catholic areas and, since John Kennedy's election in 1960, has not been a handicap in Protestant areas.

She is an Italian-American and should be able to appeal to the white ethnic vote in the big urban centers.

She plays Jimmy Carter-style politics. Neither orthodox liberals no orthodox conservatives have been able to pin a label on her. Although she came up in politics through the regular party ladder, she had demonstrated a willingness to try new ideas and to ignore traditional patronage rules in her search for fresh talent in the state government.

She understands Northern urban politics, Carter's greatest area of weakness. Connecticut is a relatively small state and traditionally votes Democratic without any representation on the ticket. But Grasso is also known in neighboring New York and Massachusetts, where here religious and ethnic background are strong assets, and she should be extremely helpful in carrying those states. Carter will need to balance his Southern background with a name that can pull votes in either the big Northern states or in vote-rich California.
